The democrats in congress are in a pretty pickle. Bland threatens that unless they pass upon his seigniorage bill he will block the appropriation bills.

One very singular fact obtrudes itself among the commonplace thoughts of the hour—democratic business men are economizing and retrenching just as vigorously as republican business men.

The Godey Publishing Company of New York has assigned for the purpose of reorganization. Godey's Magazine, the oldest of its kind in the United States, was started in Philadelphia in 1830.

The gold fields of Africa are going to cut a considerable figure in any discussion of the coinage problem of the world. Note the following figures compiled by Mr. Moreton Frewen, who is perfectly familiar with the gold mining industry in the dark continent, which give its annual output in ounces for the past five years:

There are nearly 1,000 patients in the asylum at Salem, which is a very large average for the state, if all are insane. The institution is the most expensive of anything else in the state by far, and is rapidly growing more so.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

R. W. Baxter, E. S. VanKura and A. J. Borie have filed articles of incorporation for the Columbia River Railroad Company, with headquarters in Portland.

Mrs. Emily, Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

HIS CLIENT WAS GUILTY.

An Indiana Lawyer's Discovery After Securing a Counterfeiter's Acquittal. Several years ago, when Judge Francis J. Reinhard, the well-known German lawyer of Indianapolis, was a young but enthusiastic attorney practicing at Crown Point, says the Indianapolis Sentinel, he was called in to defend a man charged with circulating counterfeit money.

"You're certainly mistaken," replied Lawyer Reinhard, "I just took it as part of a fee from a man whom I am confident is honest and perfectly reliable. I am not easily mistaken in my estimate of the character of my clients."

Thereupon the gentlemen went to the bank, not far away, and laid down the dollar, asking for change. The teller, an elderly and conservative man, adjusted a monocle to his eye, gazed long and earnestly at the coin and then shoved it back through the window with the remark:

Judge Reinhard at that time, as now, was very gentlemanly in dictation and manner, but he couldn't help himself, and with the one expression: "Well, I'll be d—d," turned on his heel and went out on the street. Every last one of the silver dollars he had worked so hard to earn was a counterfeit, and within a short time thereafter his honest client was sent to the prison south for five years for making and circulating crooked money.

HOW COYOTES HUNT.

They Take Turns in Chasing the Fleet-footed Jack Rabbits. "Did you ever see a pack of coyotes a-rustlin' for grub?" asked an old miner of a reporter of the Moreno (Cal.) Indicator. "I've lived on the desert for nigh onto thirty years," he resumed, "and seed many a queer sight, but coyotes a-rustlin' for grub beats them all. Them animals are as well trained as any body of soldiers ever was under Gen. Grant. They elect a captain, whether by drawing straws or by ballot, I don't recollect off-hand. Just at daylight a reveille calls the pack together, and they come yelpin' and howlin' over the desert like a lot of things possessed, their appetites sharpened by the crisp air and eager for their regular diet of jerked rabbit meat. The avant-couriers sniff around among the sagebrush and greasewood, while the rest of the band form into a big circle, sometimes spreadin' out on the plain over a radius of two or three miles. The couriers head a jack rabbit in the circle and the coyote nearest takes up the chase.

"You know a jack-rabbit can run ten times faster than a coyote, and when the one in pursuit gets tuckered out the next one takes up the chase, and so on till the jack falls down dead from exhaustion. Then the whole pack leap onto him, their jaws snapping like sheepsblades in shearin' time. Then when the jack is disposed of another reveille is sounded and the pack again forms into a circle and the circle is kept up until every one of the yelpin' yeller devils has satisfied his appetite, sometimes killin' hundreds of jacks and cottontails for one meal, for a coyote can eat a jack as big as himself and then look as if he was clean starved to death. I was clean through the late unpleasantness with Gen. Grant, and I know what scientific generalin' is, and them coyotes know as much as any soldiers that ever lived about army tactics. The commander in chief is usually the oldest coyote in the pack, and he sits on a knoll where he can give orders to his lieutenants and aids, and what they don't know about ambuscades, maneuverin' and field tactics ain't worth knowin'."

The President's Rights in Congress. The president of the United States has no personal rights in the house of representatives, says the Washington Post. He can send it messages, but it is not obliged to extend any courtesies in the way of quarters on the floor. No doubt he would be courteously treated if he should come, but he never has come during the regular legislative sessions and probably never will. But in the senate it is different. The relations between the president and the upper chamber are close and confidential. It passes upon his nominations, and can be very agreeable or disagreeable if it sets out. There is a president's room there, and he has a right to come into the chamber and deliver his message in person. If he sees fit, President Madison appeared in the senate frequently. During executive sessions there is a chair for the president beside the vice president's, though it does not get warmed with any frequency. It is one of the traditions of the senate that the president has a right to take possession of the vice president's chair while he is delivering a message, but no president has ever availed himself of the right, and that small boon is still left the second officer of the government.

AN EMPEROR AT THE PLOW.

Curious Rites Performed by the Ruler of China at Certain Intervals.

In order to emphasize the importance of the cultivation of the soil and to encourage his subjects to follow agricultural pursuits, the emperor of China sometimes performs certain rites at the "emperor's field," and goes through the form of plowing and other work of the husbandman. One day recently, says the N. A. U. Cable, the emperor set out at daybreak from his palace, with a numerous and magnificent train of courtiers and others. Before breakfast the emperor arrived at the shrines of the deity presiding over agriculture, and his majesty stopped to offer up his thanksgiving and sacrifices. After changing his dress the morning repast was served, at the end of which the emperor proceeded to the field, at the four corners of which were erected four pavilions where the seeds of wheat and other cereals were placed. In the center were numbers of magnificently attired courtiers, each holding aloft a many-colored flag, while on the side of the passage were scores of aged and white-haired farmers, each having in his hand some agricultural implement. Placing his left hand on the plow and holding the whip in his right hand, the emperor began the ceremony of the occasion. By prearrangement the officers did their allotted share, some wielding the agricultural implements, while others scattered seeds out of the baskets as if sowing, while the emperor was busied with the plow which was hitched to a richly caparisoned bullock, draped in yellow and led by two of the emperor's bodyguards. On the emperor finishing his round at the plow the three princes were ordered to go through the performance, and after them nine high courtiers had their turn, after which the performance closed. Having received the greeting of his officers the emperor returned to his palace.

SAVING THE PENNIES.

The World's Thrifty Folks Amass Billions of Dollars.

The savings banks of Russia have only 50 cents to the inhabitant on deposit, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Denmark has the greatest amount to the inhabitant in the savings banks being about $50 to each. In 1892 there were in this country 1,054 banks that received savings deposits the depositors numbered 4,781,005, and the deposits aggregated the enormous sum of $1,712,709,026.

France comes next after the United States in the number of depositors in the savings banks, having 4,150,000, and having on deposit the sum of $359,000,000. Germany has the greatest number of depositors in the savings banks, over 5,000,000, but the aggregate of their deposits is not given in the government report.

In Switzerland 300 inhabitants in the 1,000 have money on deposit in savings banks; in Germany, 180; in France 170; in Great Britain, 185; in the United States, 67.

The Austrian savings banks are patronized by 1,850,000 depositors, who have on deposit $618,000,000.

Of all the states New York has the greatest number of savings bank depositors, 1,516,889, and also the greatest amount of deposits, $588,425,491. Massachusetts comes next with 1,131,266 depositors, having on deposit $369,326,388.

A Genial Hint.

The youthful clergyman of a country place was invited to take tea with an elderly spinster whose attentions to him were of the motherly sort in all eyes, except those of her still older coachman and general factotum. To him his mistress could never grow old, nor other than a coveted match for any man. As he was bringing the guest of the occasion from the village he suddenly mentioned his hostess' name. Then, turning to the clerical boy, he demanded: "I've been thinkin' why don't you an' her hitch up?"

LAND OF BIG-NOSED MEN.

Arizona So Named Because of a Facial Peculiarity.

Who would for a moment suppose, says the St. Louis Republic, that the word "Arizona," which we associate with balmy breezes, music, moonlight nights and amazons, could mean nothing more or less than "a great big nose"? The southwestern portion of what is now the United States was originally inhabited by a tribe of natives noted far and wide for their prominent, beak-like noses, and, although nature had been extremely lavish in her gifts when she conferred nasal appendages upon these queer aborigines, they sought to enlarge those organs by piercing the vertical septum or gristle between the nostrils and wearing enormous ornaments therein. One division of this big-nosed tribe would wear a ring hammered from native gold or silver; another an ornamented shell, while a third were content with a sharp stick driven through the cartilage in such a manner as to permit of the ends projecting several inches to the side of each nostril. To the early Spanish invaders these queer but harmless creatures were known as "the Big Noses." In the Spanish language "nose" is nariz. My authority says in that language you can also express a diminutive or an augmentative by a termination to the name word. Thus, narizito would mean "a little nose," and narizon "a great big nose." The feminine of narizon would be narizona. The "n" having been eliminated by usage and time, we have the name as it stands to-day—Arizona. In much the same manner the state of Oregon receives its name from a tribe of Indians noted for their enormous ears. They pierced the auricle and enlarged the lobe much in the same manner that the Narizons enlarged their noses. In the Spanish, "ear" is oreja. Now attach on the augmentative to the word oreja, leaving off the final a from the word meaning ear, and we have Orejon. Time, which, like care, will kill a cat, has changed the "j" to "g" and given us the word "Oregon."

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyrel Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

How to Eat Fruit.

In southern Europe the peasants always eat fruit in its natural shape and never think of treating it to doses of sugar, salt or other seasoning. Around Naples and in Malaga the people bite a hole in the orange, suck out the juice and then throw the orange away. Small American people often do the same, but the American must try his hand at improving nature, so he puts a lump of sugar in it. An orange planter thinks such a thing desecration.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhea and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, of which one bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Common Sense.

This invaluable quality is never more apparent in man or woman than when shown in his or her choice of periodical reading matter. First in order should come the Local Newspaper, so that news may be kept with the doing of a busy world. It should be a paper like THE DALLES WEEKLY CHRONICLE, which gives all the latest Home News as well as the General News, Political News and Market News, with seasonable Editorials on current topics. No one can get along without his home paper. The newspaper should be supplemented by some periodical from which will be derived amusement and instruction during the evening at home, where every article is read, and digested. Such a paper, to fill every requirement, should possess these qualities.

First—It should be a clean, wholesome paper that can safely be taken to the family. It should be illustrated with timely engravings. Second—A paper that is entertaining and instructive while of sound principles. Its moral tone should be beyond question. Third—A helpful paper, one that tells the household of home life, thoughts and experiences, and keeps her in touch with social usage and fashion. Fourth—A paper abounding in original character sketches, bright sayings, unctuous humor and brilliant wit. Fifth—It should contain good stories and pleasing matter for young people, that the children may always regard the paper as a friend. Sixth—Literary selections and stories suitable for older people should be given, for they, too, like to enjoy a leisure hour. Seventh—In short, it should be a good all-round paper, one that every reader who wishes to bring refreshment and pleasure to every member of the household. We offer to supply our readers with just such a paper, of national reputation and circulation. It is the famous

THE DALLES

Wasco County, - - - Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here. The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future. The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon. Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an execution issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County, in a suit therein pending wherein W. A. Miller is plaintiff and E. P.
