THE COUGHLIN TRIAL

It Has Finally Been Submitted to the Jury.

ANOTHER FAMOUS TRIAL BEGUN

That of Madeline Pollard Against Congressman Breckinridge for Breach of Promise and $50,000 Damages.

The Coughlin Trial.

CHICAGO, March 8.—An eager throng crowded into Judge Tuthill's court this morning to witness the closing scenes in the second trial of ex-Detective Daniel Coughlin for complicity in the assassination of Patrick Henry Cronin. Pleas to the jury were concluded last night, and as soon as the court opened this morning the judge began reading his charge. It was a very long document. The instructions were mostly of a general nature, very few of the specific instructions asked by counsel being given. The charge dealt with instructions as to the form of verdict. The reading occupied nearly an hour, and at the conclusion, at 11 o'clock, four bailiffs were called up, sworn, and given charge of the jury, which retired. Judge Tuthill then ordered the courtroom cleared, and the reluctant spectators were hustled out by the police. Coughlin maintained his composure, throughout the reading of the charge, and after the jury retired moved over to where his wife and two children sat, and spent his time awaiting the return of the jury, amusing his little ones and comforting and reassuring their distressed mother.

ACQUITTED.

CHICAGO, March 8.—The jury after being out four hours and a half brought in a verdict of acquittal.

Miss Pollard vs. Breckinridge.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The sensational trial of the suit of Madeline V. Pollard against Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, for seduction, breach of promise of marriage and $50,000 damages, was opened this morning in the district court, Judge Andrew C. Bradley presiding. Long before the time for the court to open the corridors adjacent to the courtroom swarmed with men and women endeavoring by every device to pass the doorkeepers. The spectators were disappointed by the non-appearance of the fair complainant but it is understood she is to be on hand at future sessions. Breckinridge appeared, smiling and apparently at ease. For the complainant, Judge Jere Wilson and Calderon Carlisle, two of Washington's best known attorneys, appeared. Colonel Breckinridge will probably take a leading part in his own defense, assisted by Ben Butterworth and Colonel Phil Tompson.

A Terrible Explosion.

ROME, March 8.—A terrible explosion occurred at 8 o'clock this evening on a piazza on Monte Citorio, very near the chamber of deputies, the sitting of which had just concluded. The police at once swarmed to the scene, and took possession of the neighborhood, making the procurement of full particulars impossible at present. The explosion shattered all the windows in the neighborhood. At least two people were wounded. It is believed a bomb or infernal machine was placed there by anarchists. It is rumored that the police have made several important arrests, and have obtained information from one of the prisoners concerning a widespread conspiracy to blow up things. It is reported that the intention was to blow up the chamber of deputies.

Tascott Heard From Again.

CHICAGO, March 8.—An afternoon paper is authority for the statement that Tascott, the alleged murderer of A. J. Snell, the millionaire real estate owner, is still alive and wants to return to Chicago, if he can get immunity from the authorities. Ex-Detective Dyer, formerly connected with the Leland hotel, is mentioned as the go-between. According to Dyer, Tascott visited Chicago during the world's fair, and is now running a general store in a Michigan lumber camp. Dyer says he knows Tascott would return to Chicago if he could be assured that he would not be punished.

Novices in the Business.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 8.—From what can be learned here, the robbers who stopped the Angles stage this afternoon were novices in the business, for they held up the stage on a trip when there was little or no treasure carried. Wells, Fargo & Co. send treasure on the road in charge of a shot gun messenger who is here, having come in from a trip yesterday. Further evidence of their lack of knowledge of the business is in the fact that they had a hatchet with which they hoped to open the treasure box, which is of iron bolted to the bottom of the stage. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s agent at Milton says there was no coin in the wooden box which was thrown out by the driver on demand of the robbers. The men had shotguns which they held on the passengers while the frightened people were called on to give up their valuables.

Killed by a Gambler.

ASH FORK, A. T. March 8.—Tim Casey a saloon-keeper, was shot and killed this morning at 7 o'clock by William Martin, a gambler, in the room of a notorious woman named Bertha Reed. Casey went to the woman's room, where he found Martin and ordered him to leave, when the latter shot him twice, once through the heart and once in the eye, causing instant death. Martin and the Reed woman are both under arrest. They claim Casey pulled a gun and fired at Martin first.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

Charles Cardwell's residence, below Portland Heights, at Thirteenth and Jackson streets, was wrecked yesterday by a land slide. It was carried for about a block by a mass of soft mud, and completely demolished, none of the contents being saved. Three other houses were badly unsettled.

Judge Denny is in Washington, and had a conference with the Oregon delegation yesterday, concerning river and harbor improvements in general, and the improvement at The Dalles in particular. Judge Denny is a member of the committee to consider the most feasible plan for overcoming temporarily the obstructions of the Columbia. The president has notified the democratic leaders in the house that the amount of appropriations for river and harbors must not exceed $10,000,000. Nothing definite was agreed upon yet. Judge Denny says if congress does not act, the legislature will do something the coming season.

Statistical.

The jute mill in connection with the Walla Walla penitentiary turned out 787,300 sacks during the six months ending March 18th, increasing the output of the plant every month as follows: September, 106,300; October, 113,700; November, 119,400; December, 132,200; January, 154,600 and February, 161,100.

The Bradstreet mercantile agency reports 131 failures in the Pacific Coast states and territories for the month of January, 1894, with assets $1,007,751 and liabilities of $1,964,662, as compared with 79 for the previous month, with assets of $385,701 and liabilities of $643,645, and 70 for the corresponding month of 1893, with assets of $269,549 and liabilities of $477,630.

The official emoluments of officers of the customs reported to congress by the secretary of the treasury for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, show that the Puget Sound district was worth to Andrew Wasson $3,432.65 in salary and $1,961.57 for storage. James C. Saunders was in office just one week before the close of the fiscal year, but he did very well in that time, receiving a total compensation of $105.78, of $67.35 was salary. James Lotan was only eleven months in office in the Willamette district, for which the government paid him $3,960.13. Thomas J. Black, his successor, only got in one day that year, but it was worth $10.96. Royal A. Bensall, at Yaquina, made $2.65 in the year over his salary of $1,000. Frank A. Stewart, at Crosby, received $1,072.95; Edward A. Taylor, at Astoria, $5,361.65, and Edwin T. Hatch, at Sitka, Alaska, $3,778.

Seriously Injured.

Ernest Jensen, while hanging paper at the store warehouse of Pease & Mays this morning with Robt. Mays, jr., sustained a serious fall—how serious cannot yet be told. Mr. Jensen was formerly a sailor and it occurred to him to descend by means of a rope which hung from the ceiling. He said to Mays: "I guess I'll shin down this rope," and suiting the action to the word leaped for it. His weight proved too much for the fastening of the rope, and he fell with it. He struck the gallery when about midway in his descent, striking its edge above the small of his back. This veered his course so that he struck headforemost, the entire distance being about twenty-five feet. He lay unconscious for three-quarters of an hour, and a large pool of blood formed where he lay, which came from injuries received about his head. A physician was hastily summoned, but whether or not he will recover cannot be stated. He is seriously wounded. Mr. Jensen, though of foreign birth and having no connections in this country, so far as known, is one of the most universally esteemed young men in The Dalles.

Realistic.

Pease & Mays are advertising their blankets in a very unique manner. In one of their show windows they have erected a tepee covered with blankets. An Indian occupant lies sleeping half within and half without the lodge, while the usual camp accessories are strewn around him. So realistic is the scene that this morning, while the glass was partially obscured with moisture, a klotchman fearfully entered and asked to see the sleeping man. She thought it was her brother by the hat he wore, which was like that owned by her brother. She was much chagrined to find it was merely a roll of blankets, and later brought other Indians around to see the artistic production.

"Real Conventions."

Deck Hand—This wood's pretty green Captain, ain't it?

Captain—Yes, you can hear the echo of the axe in it.

Granger (rushing on board steamer in port.) Is the captain of this boat here?

Steward—No sir, he has just left.

Granger—How long has he been gone.

Steward—Oh! Just about five minutes.

Granger—That's too bad, but it's a just my luck, wish I'd been five minutes earlier.

Steward—Is there any message, you wish to leave for him?

Granger—No, I don't know that there is. I wanted to get a bed on board tonight, but I guess I'll have to make other arrangements as I've missed the captain.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhoea and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, of which one bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
