A CONVENTION CALL

National Republican League to Meet in Denver in June.

THE RATIO OF REPRESENTATION

Each State Will Have Ten Delegates at Large in Addition to Four From Each Congressional District.

CHICAGO, March 11.—The official call for the annual convention of the National Republican League will be issued from the national headquarters in this city to-morrow. The convention will be held at Denver, June 26, and will continue several days. The ratio of representation gives each state practically 10 delegates at large, in addition to four from each congressional district. The total representation will exceed 2,000 delegates. The call reads in part as follows:

"Democratic control and sectional rule are again complete in the national government, and starvation for labor and ruin for capital prevail as the result of the policies and influences that dominate the democratic party. The hallucinations of 1892 are over. Facts have upset theories, and the people now turn instinctively to the party that saved the nation in the previous hour of peril, and demonstrated its masterly ability in giving the United States 30 years of prosperity unparalleled in the history of nations. Again it becomes the mission and duty of the grand old party to meet the national emergency with the highest patriotism. The party deprecates the necessity, but rises to the occasion. The struggle for liberty, progress, fair wages and all that America promises did not end with the defeat of 1892. The fight must and will go on. To this end the national committee of the league cordially invites all patriotic citizens who are in sympathy with the policies and aspirations of the republican party to join the league clubs and thus participate in the national league convention at Denver."

Judge Denny has started for Portland. While in Washington he consulted the delegation regarding his candidacy for governor and it is understood that he will enter the field actively when he returns.

Senator Hill was asked if there was any truth in the report that he is engaged to be married to Miss Eddy Scott, niece of Vice-President Stevenson. He smiled and said: "That's something of which I am not talking."

The world's fair buildings have all been sold. The best bid was $15,000 for the 10 largest structures. The Idaho building sold for $4,000. The original cost was $25,000. It will be taken to New York state for a country residence.

Recent assays prove that the great sand hills in the vicinity of Duncan, Colorado, contain from $2 to 20 worth of gold per ton. There are 15,000 to 20,000 acres of these sand hills. Some of them are a 1,000 feet high. The people are tumbling over one another in their eagerness to reach camp.

A Buffalo, N. Y., man will succeed Stagg as receiver of the Oregon National bank. When Eckels determined to go outside of Oregon to find a man for the place, he asked Cleveland if he had anyone he would like appointed. Of course he had a Buffalo friend, an anti-snapper and pronounced enemy of Hill, and one who had made vicious speeches against him.

Songs That Were Sung When This Country Was Young.

It is very interesting to trace the origin of some of the good old tunes with which we are familiar. There have been many controversies as to their authorship.

"Old Hundred" has been variously ascribed to Dr. Martin Luther, Dr. John Dowland and William Franck. Dr. Lowell Mason wrote quite a treatise on the old tune, saying emphatically that it was written by Guillaume (William) Franck (1843). But later musical historians say it was composed by Louis Bourgeois, of France, in 1551.

The old tune, "God Save the King," or "America," so universally sung to "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," was composed by Dr. John Bull (1802-1028), music teacher to Queen Elizabeth, about 1600.

The tune of "Yankee Doodle" has had seven or eight treatises written upon it in the last thirty years, ascribing it to various dates and origins, even back to the Netherlands and the days of Cromwell and the Charleses. Dr. George Grove, of London, England, investigated thoroughly the various musical libraries and the British museum in England, finding no trace of it whatever.

But "Yankee Doodle" has an origin and has a history. It was written by Dr. Richard Schuchburgh (whose commission dates 1737), in the French and Indian war of 1775 under Gen. Jeffrey Amherst, and was intended as a "take off" on the "rag, tag and bobtail" recruits of the colonies that came into the army.

The first words: "Father and I went down to camp," were in the Boston Journal, 1768, and the first record of the tune is in Arnold's "Two to One," 1784; so that "Yankee Doodle," although written by a British surgeon, is really American.

The tune "Star Spangled Banner" is an adaptation of "Anacreon in Heaven," composed by Dr. Samuel Arnold (1783-1802) of England, 1770. "Hail Columbia," or the "President's March," was by Prof. Phylas, of Philadelphia, 1789.

"Portuguese Hymn," or "Adeste Fideles," is ascribed by English musicians to John Reading, who died in 1764. But Herbert P. Main, of New York, a musical antiquarian, says the tune cannot be found as in existence previous to 1790. He says it was composed and written by Marcantonio Simoe (1793-1830). He wrote under the assumed name of "Portogallo."

Brain Takes a Ride.

The engineer on a western New York train picked up a queer passenger recently. One evening he saw something come from the bushes at one side of the railroad, step upon the track and stand still between the rails. At first he thought it was a man, but when the rays of the headlight fell on the object he saw that it was a bear. The train was moving very fast and the engineer blew the whistle loudly, but the bear held his place calmly until almost run down and then stepped off. This rash bear must have enjoyed its experience, for three times during the following week it repeated the performance. But when it came out for the fifth time it had grown careless and the cow-catcher knocked it up in the air. Then the train was stopped and the trainmen searched for the bear. But brain had crawled away somehow into a laurel swamp and is there yet, probably, but whether dead or alive no one knows.

CHINA LOSING GROUND.

European Nations Are Rapidly Absorbing Her Territory.

Vast and populous as China is, the experience of the present century shows that she is weak for aggressive purposes. She has not the hold on territory adjacent to her borders which she could claim a hundred years ago. European nations are pressing on her, both on the south and on the north. She has been forced to cede a portion of her territory to England, and she has been compelled to avail herself of the help of Englishmen, both for civil administration and for military command.

All these things, says the Edinburgh Review, show that an expansion of the Chinese race does not necessarily involve an extension of Chinese dominion. On the contrary, they tend to prove that it is the order introduced by European administration which leads to the multiplication of these industrious people; and there is, therefore, at least as much ground for saying that, though Borneo, Sumatra and New Guinea and the great islands of the Eastern Archipelago may be ultimately peopled by yellow races, they will be governed by the white races, as for believing that a new Chinese empire is in process of formation; a Chinese India may, in other words, be developed in these great and fertile islands.
