THE INDUSTRIAL ARMY

They Have Started on Their March to Washington.

A FREIGHT GIVES THEM A BOOST

Miss Pollard Tells the Shameful Story of Col. Breckenridge's Conduct Toward Her.

ONTARIO, Cal., March 19.—The industrial army reached here at 5 o'clock last evening, numbering 640 men in four organized companies. A large delegation of Ontario people met them, but as it was sundown and all the stores were closed they did not fare sumptuously, several boxes of oranges being the limit of the contributions by the citizens. After supper they marched to the Southern Pacific depot with the intention of taking a freight train due at 7:30. They lined up in front of the depot and their captain went among the men, warning them not to disturb the seals of the cars or to do any damage whatever. The trainmen, however, evidently had knowledge of their intentions, for instead of stopping, as is customary, the whistle gave warning, and the train passed by at full speed. The army took it good naturedly, saying that they could go in the morning just as well. About 6 o'clock this morning the local freight came along; the members of the army clambered aboard and left for Colton, the trainmen making no resistance, even waiting until all got aboard. The members of the army were certainly well behaved in Ontario, were orderly and well officered. During the night a picket line was established, and no one was allowed to enter or leave camp without permission.

HIS POWER OF PERSUASION.

Miss Pollard Tells the Story of Her Downfall.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The bailiffs had the utmost difficulty in repelling the crowds who sought admittance to the courtroom where the Pollard-Breckenridge trial is in progress. Miss Pollard was again on the stand under direct examination. She related in greater detail than heretofore the attempts of Breckenridge to seduce her. He told her she had a wonderful intellect, and had a brilliant future. "I seemed to be completely under the influence of his wonderful power of persuasion," she said. He promised to oversee her education and repay the money paid by Rhodes for her schooling. "He did not accomplish his purpose the first day, in spite of his violent attempts," she continued, "and it was only late the second day when we were in the house of assignation in Cincinnati." The relations then established, she averred, continued till May 17, 1893, the last time she saw Breckenridge. It will be remembered this is a date subsequent to Breckenridge's marriage to Mrs. Wing, which occurred secretly April 29, 1893. Then cross-examination was resumed by Butterworth going into the minute details of plaintiff's life, to all of which she returned replies which could have given no comfort to her opponents.

In the course of her examination, witness explained the circumstances of the alleged visit to Squire Kinsey's house in Bridgeport, Ky., where she stopped in 1892 and 1893. Some of the names mentioned she did not remember, but recalled that of Alex Julian, a blind man between whom and plaintiff defence will try to show a mock marriage and subsequent unseemly proceedings at Squire Kinsey's. She declared Julian would not have even dared to caress her. "She did not remember any mock marriage, and moreover her uncle George was with her at the time. He was very strict, and would not allow anything of the sort. Several letters were shown her, one of which she admitted having written at Owen Robinson; others she might have written, she said. One contained a lock of hair. The letters were then read. They were of the school-girl character, with expressions of a more or less love-sick character. She said she and Owen were good friends, but there was no love affair between them.

BRECKINRIDGE FOR PRESIDENT.

He Would Be the Strongest Man the Democracy Could Name.

HOOD RIVER, March 19, 1894.

EDITOR CHRONICLE—I clip this from THE CHRONICLE clipped from the Oregonian:

W. C. P. Breckenridge ought to be expelled from congress. He is utterly unfit to hold a seat among decent and honorable men. The testimony showing his conduct toward Miss Pollard—testimony of a character that cannot be impeached—is the blackest record proven against any public man within many years. A resolution for his expulsion from the house ought to pass without a dissenting vote. It is incredible that the people of his district should ever think of returning him to congress.—Oregonian.

In the Oregonian of March 17th I find the following:

The Breckenridge-Pollard case is not profitable reading. It is a pity the girl hadn't a male relative to keep it out of court by providing material for a congressional funeral. The shotgun is the only remedy for offenses like that of this white-haired blackguard.

Is Breckenridge's treatment of Miss Pollard any more infamous than was the treatment of Maria Halpin by Grover Cleveland? Ought Grover Cleveland to be kicked out of the white house for doing what Breckenridge did? If Breckenridge is elected as the next democratic president, and is as sound on the silver question as is Grover, his right hand bower, will the Oregonian give him the same laudations it has showered on Grover? The publication of the Breckenridge scandal seems to be unfortunate for all parties opposed to Clevelandism or "mugwump democracy." The mugwump Clevelandites have been sorely pressed to find a candidate to run for president. Miss Pollard, with her magic wand, has smitten the ground, and up rises Breckenridge as the "coming man." Let the democrats nominate him and every democrat will vote for him. (I speak only positively for the "bed rocks" in Mosier and Hood River precincts). Breckenridge would carry all the democratic votes—with few exceptions, and might be elected over any other decent man. Let the democratic papers hoist the name of W. C. Breckenridge as their candidate for presidential honors. W. L. ADAMS.

New Cure for Typhoid Fever.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—Dr. Heine Marks, superintendent of the city hospital, claims that cholera and typhoid fever can be cured quickly and surely by a surgical operation. An incision is made in the abdomen just above the ileocecal valve, then insert a tube in the intestines at a point where the bacilli of these diseases work, and flood them with an antiseptic solution, killing the bacilli.

A former resident of Eastern Oregon recently deceased presented himself to St. Peter for admission, but when he gave his former place of residence the guardian of the gates informed him that he might be admitted into the outer circle, but Salem people had enjoined the awarding of any crowns to people from east of the mountains.—Baker City Democrat.

Painful Allusion.

Indianapolis Journal.

It was Mary's night for "company," and the congressman found his small son with his eye very closely applied to the keyhole of the kitchen door.

"What are you doing there, you young rascal?" asked the parent.

"Just listening to the cook coo, that's all."

A Novel Discovery.

Unfortunately it seems to be the style in these times for one to decry his own city, and in conversation to recall all the disadvantages, without saying anything about the advantages, and to be continually wailing and wishing that he were in some other place, where of course, he would be under more favorable auspices. Fully realizing all this, it is refreshing and encouraging to us, who have the prosperity of our fair city at heart, and thoroughly believe in its ultimate triumph over all the petty doubts and perplexities, to find at least a broad standpoint, and seeing the many reasons we have to congratulate ourselves are willing to stake their judgment, time and money, upon the steadily increasing prosperity of The Dalles.

The reporter of this paper was shown through the store of Pease & Mays and was amazed at the magnitude of the spring stock which they are arranging for sale, and was greatly interested in the many changes and improvements that have been made in the interior. We notice, and it seems strange to us that no one had thought of it before, that they had added a toilet room for ladies, the floor nicely covered with linoleum, marble wash basin and in fact all the conveniences for the toilet. In the brick building formerly used for the storage of oil, they have a gentlemen's toilet room, also a dressing room. This latter room, nicely carpeted, furnished with mirror, chairs, etc., is a very convenient place for customers to try on clothing. The balance of this building they will devote to the receiving and shipping of merchandise, as they insist that their main salesroom shall at all times be neat and free from the noise and confusion attendant upon the opening and packing of goods for shipment.

While our reporter is not perhaps a competent judge to pass upon the merits of goods designed to please the feminine eye, still he would be willing to risk his reputation as a man of taste, upon the statement, that the spring stock of Pease & Mays is all that the most fastidious and exacting of our ladies could desire. From prices made upon a few articles, whose value we are acquainted with, we do not hesitate to say, that the economically disposed person, seeking the most for his money, can here make purchases and be thoroughly satisfied. Taking it all in all, it would seem to us that Pease & Mays are trying to give us of The Dalles an up-to-date store, both in service and goods, and we trust that they may have the encouragement which we think they certainly deserve.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

Eugene C. Protzman has been appointed postmaster for Portland.

The populists of Malheur county will not put out a ticket this year. A sensible move.

A mountain-climbing club was formed in Portland yesterday. No one will be permitted to join except such as have climbed to the summit of an acceptable snow-capped mountain.

There have been a great many inquiries lately at the office of the state board of horticulture about the San Jose scale. It is being found in many neighborhoods which were believed to be free of this pest.

A paragraph is going the rounds of the press to the effect that General O. O. Howard will be a candidate for congress from Maine. General Howard was at one time in command of the department of the Columbia for several years.

G. W. Hunt has just brought suit against the Northern Pacific railroad for the sum of $5,000,000 damages for losses suffered by reason of an attachment which he alleges was fraudulently sued out against him by the railroad. In 1891 he owed the Northern Pacific $140,000 and the attachment of his properties was secured at a time when he was actively engaged in railroad construction, and all his plans were frustrated, his subsidies lost and his mills and camps shut up. Mr. Hunt estimates the value of the many subsidies promised him at the time the suit was brought, as well as the reasonable value of the railroads and the great value of credit which a man in his position is possessed of.

A Sensational Rescue.

CHICAGO, March 19.—People in the vicinity of a new grain elevator in process of erection Saturday afternoon were horrified to see Joseph Coates, a carpenter, slip on the roof and slide rapidly to the edge. As he was going over the edge Coates grabbed a wall plate with his right hand and hung to it, his body suspended at a height of 100 feet. His fellow-workmen were paralyzed with fright and two of them fainted. The others soon recovered their senses and set about to rescue Coates. All this time Coates was crying out to those in sound of his voice to save him. In the course of a few seconds the horror-stricken watchers on the bridge below saw a man appear at a window, and behind him several other men. The first man leaned forward until it seemed as if he would tumble headlong, but strong hands put a stout rope about his body and held him securely while he reached out and grasped the man hanging from the wall platform and succeeded in getting him to the window ledge. Then, with an almost superhuman effort, he brought him through the window. The rescued man, when he found himself saved, fell over in a dead faint, and the rescuer, William Jotes, another carpenter, collapsed completely. A faint cheer reached those in the room at the top of the elevator. Coates, when he was finally revived, was in such a nervous condition that he had to be assisted home by two of his fellow-workmen.

Deserving Praise

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, as we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. There remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Snipes & Kinerly's druggists.

Cyclones ravages in Texas destroyed much life and property yesterday. Hailstones fell as big as goose eggs, and churches, schoolhouses, residences, fences and forests were razed to the ground by the resistless blast.

"Now good digestion wait on appetite, And health on both."

To assure both the above ends, good, wholesome, palatable food is demanded. It is next to impossible to present a sufficient variety of appealing bills of fare for our meals without a liberal allowance of pastry and other food in which shortening is required. How to make crisp, healthful, digestible pastry has puzzled the cooks. A difficulty in all good cooking in the past has been hard. Always fickle, never uniform, most unwholesome—lard has always been the bane of the cook and the obstacle to "good digestion."

COTTOLENE

comes now into popular favor as the new shortening—better than even the best of lard with none of lard's objectionable qualities. And comes attended by both "APPETITE AND HEALTH." Grocers sell it all about. REFUSE ALL SUBSTITUTES.
