A CASE OF PIQUE.

Why a Union Pacific Official Was Running Down The Dalles.

Near La Grande, while en route to The Dalles, I heard the following conversation between a Union Pacific official and a Dalles citizen. Previously the two men were talking, each to other parties, but were near enough to hear what the other was talking about.

When our friend heard the U. P. man say, "The Dalles will never be what it has been," he turned and asked him to repeat what he had just said. This he did, when the Dalles man remarked: "Do you know what you are talking about?" (Evidently the two gentlemen did not know each other).

The U. P. man replied that he thought he did, and the citizen said: "I do not think you do, for the facts are the reverse," and continued, "The Dalles is my home, and I know your statement is false. We have just completed our school census, which shows forty-three more school children than The Dalles ever had before, and the volume of business of 1892 was the largest in the last fifteen years."

"You have never recovered from the loss of the shops?" "I would like for you to tell me why, when we have more people and do a larger volume of business?" "And you have never recovered from the fire?"

"That is equally as false as your other statements. The facts are that today the value of property in the burnt district is greater than it was before the fire, barring the general depreciation of values all over the country."

The U. P. man did not have anything more to say. He was disconcerted and soon after left the car. The Dalles man asked the lady to whom the official was talking who he was. She replied that he was the assistant superintendent of the U. P. Ry., west division.

"I wish I had known who he was," said our friend, "for I could have told him why he thought The Dalles was not as prosperous as it was before the shops were moved to Albina. In 1890 The Dalles business men with the aid of a few citizens, organized a company and built two steamboats to do the freight and passenger business between The Dalles and Portland. The amount of business that has been done by the U. P. since the boats began doing business is what he is basing his remarks on. I do not wonder at his remarks, taking it from the U. P. standpoint, for the boats are doing a good business, and this is not the first U. P. official that I have heard of kicking about The Dalles."

CITY COUNCIL.

Sustained the Mayor's Veto—A General Talk on Economy, Etc.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held Monday evening at the recorder's office, present Councilmen Eshelman, Lauer, Butts, Crowe and Joles, Mr. Hudson coming in late. On motion Mr. Eshelman was made chairman of the meeting.

The first business taken up was the Lincoln street sewer ordinance vetoed by the mayor, his written objection, read at the meeting, being that it was in conflict with Ordinance No. 24, section 2, which recites that the expense for surveying (in this case $50) cannot be added to the contract price. The veto was sustained by the council, and the sewer ordinance amended, so as to make the price $690 instead of $740, and passed by unanimous vote.

A report was then read from the street and public property committee concerning the city jail, that it was not worth repairing, and recommended that a new interior be built and partitioned off into four cells, instead of two as at present. After a general discussion it was decided that Mr. Crandall be employed to draft plans and submit an estimate of the cost.

The resolution relating to reduction of salaries was then read, and proved to be the most prolific topic of the evening, each of the councilmen, the chairman included, having something to say about it. A motion to lay it on the table was lost. Mr. Lauer then said before he voted upon it, he wanted to know if a cut in expenses was contemplated in other lines; if not he did not favor the resolution. This brought up a discussion about the arc lights. Mr. Joles said that he thought the company was willing to make a rate of $12 per light for twenty or more, but would make no reduction on the high pole lights, as the expense was $1.50 greater each to maintain them. Mr. Hudson said we must cut down our expenses or we would go into bankruptcy, which was now staring us in the face; that our debt was constantly increasing, while the expenses were increasing. He was in favor of curtailing not only officers salaries, but other expenses, such as arc lights, or we would be hopelessly involved in debt. Mr. Lauer thought the trouble was not so bad as the previous remarks would suggest, and said from his observations of the recorder's books that day, the city will come out just about even, notwithstanding the great number of improvements being made. Mr. Joles moved that the street and public property committee be instructed to inform the company that the city would enter into a contract to pay them $11 a light for two years or more, to include lights for offices and fire department, or do away with all lights. Mr. Crowe said that nearly every business in town was losing money now, and there was no reason why the company should not subject themselves to the general condition, and be satisfied with a less profit than in good times. He believed that if a less rate could not be made, that the lights should be discontinued several nights each month during the full moon. Mr. Butts thought that to threaten the company with discontinuance of patronage was too much of a sword to hold over them, that they had invested a good deal of money in their plant, but believed they should make some concessions. The motion carried. The resolution also carried, it being shown that it was merely to draft an ordinance contemplating a reduction in salaries, motion by Joles.

On motion of Mr. Butts, recorder was instructed to make the corrected apportionment for the Lincoln street sewer and give to the marshal for collection. The recorder was also instructed to notify the contractor to furnish bond within five days.

The matter of the mudhole by the depot was referred to the judiciary committee to ascertain if the company could not be compelled to remedy it, and on motion of Mr. Joles, the city should dump a few wagonloads of rock in the street adjacent to it.

A dangerous stovepipe from the China house next the Columbia house was the next subject discussed. Lauer wanted the fire warden notified about it, while Butts thought he should be censured for not having attended to it before. Since possibly he had overlooked it, it was decided that he merely be notified. The railing being absent for about forty feet next to the warehouse on First street, was ordered replaced without delay.

The condition of the Second street cistern in the East End was referred to the street and public property committee. Adjourned subject to call of the chairman.

A TALL FEE.

One Hundred and Fifty Dollars for a Three Minutes' Job.

In the Bloomsbury county court, not long ago, Judge Bacon tried the case of Browne vs. Earl of Annesley, which was a claim for eighteen guineas, balance of an account, by Dr. Lennox Browne, for an operation performed by him on Lord Glerawley, the defendant's son. It appears that Lord Glerawley suffered from stammering. He was under the treatment of a Mrs. Baker, who recommended that Dr. Browne should be consulted. Lord Annesley took Lord Glerawley to the plaintiff, who put him under chloroform. For that two guineas was asked and for the operation which followed a medium fee of thirty guineas was charged.

Plaintiff said he was a recognized authority on matters of this kind and had received as much as fifty guineas for similar operations. In cross-examination Dr. Lennox Browne said that he never promised that Lord Glerawley would be cured of stammering by the operation. Dr. Collier and other surgeons gave evidence as to the reasonableness of the charges. The defense was that it was understood that the operation would cure Lord Glerawley of stammering. It had not done so. Lord Annesley paid the two guineas for an assistant and ten guineas for the plaintiff, which brought the claim down to eighteen guineas. Sir Andrew Clarke said he would charge ten to fifteen guineas for such an operation.

His honor said the evidence was entirely against the defendant. Plaintiff had said the operation took him three minutes, but thirty guineas was his charge. He must have a verdict for eighteen guineas, with costs.—N. Y. Journal.

Physicians in Germany.

Germany, whose population is about 50,000,000, had 21,621 physicians in 1893, against 20,500 in 1892; that is, an increase of 1,121. That makes about 4.37 doctors for every 10,000 inhabitants, but they are not equally divided throughout the empire, for in some regions there are not even two doctors for every 10,000 inhabitants, while in other districts there are thirty of them for the same number of population. Germany possesses also 915 dentists and 4,988 druggists.
