MARS' MONTH.

A Record of Lesser Events for the Thirty-one Days.

Grant is to have a plow factory soon. The young man who borrowed Mr. H. Glenn's nail-puller is requested to return it at once.

The switch engine was off the track about an hour and a half today, causing a delay of the train.

Mrs. J. S. Schooling has received her spring invoice of goods, and has on exhibition a choice selection of hats, bonnets and flowers.

The timber for the truss roof of the new opera hall arrived today from Portland. They are fifty feet in length, and dressed ready for use.

Col. Thompson will go to Wasco tomorrow to examine Capt. V. C. Brock and Lieut. W. H. Henrichs and J. Marsh, of a company.

Sam. Smith of Portland, for many years Pullman car conductor on the Union Pacific, has purchased the overland stage line between Matilija and Ventura, Cal., and is now the handsomest stage driver in California, so the girls say.

There is a deposit of 3 1/2 inches of silt, or sediment from the muddy water of the Columbia, uniformly covering the D. P. & A. Nav. Co.'s dock at the foot of Court street. It is better there than in one's stomach. Wherever the water has receded it has left this deposit.

Company G will be inspected on the 25th at the armory by Major J. A. Jackson, U. S. A. and Capt. M. G. Butterfield, brigade inspector general of the O. N. G. As this is the regular quarterly inspection it will behoove a full attendance on the part of the company.

The same party who reported a marriage to us by letter is hereby informed that he must affix his name to any communication he sends to a newspaper if he desires it published. The name will be withheld from publication if he desires it, but we must know the authority for any news given us.

Mr. Geo. M. Horne, a well known scene painter of Portland, arrived on the 1 o'clock train today and will at once busy himself in painting scenes for the new opera house being fitted up by Mr. J. S. Fish. There will be six scenes with accompanying "files," as follows: Garden, interior wood, prison, kitchen, parlor and singing chamber. The last named will answer for concerts, lectures or other entertainments of the kind.

The last meeting of the Young People's Whist club was held last evening. A large number were in attendance and the closing evening was a merry one. All expressed themselves sorry that the season was over and said the whist meetings would be missed. Although this was the last gathering for whist, a dance will be given by the members next Wednesday evening at which a few of their friends will be bidden.

Mr. Frank Allen, who is in town today from Mitchell, says that Hamblet is still in the John Day country, and being vigorously hunted. He has declared he will never be taken alive, and has so far been successful in keeping from falling into the hands of pursuers. He had a close call the other day, however, a party caught sight of him and fired several shots at him, but he got away. The only hope his pursuers have is to catch him when he is compelled to get supplies. The county has a standing reward of $750 for him.

Some youthful parties, with more diamond than thoughtfulness have defaced two of the large plate-glass windows in the postoffice block by scratching names on them. These windows cost $125 each and are damaged to that extent. The merchants generally are indignant over the witless action, and if the parties can be discovered they will doubtless be given more prominence than are the names on the glass, which are there to stay. Chalk and pencils are bad enough, but when diamonds are used to deface valuable plate-glass show windows it is time to call a halt.

Can't Furnish Understanding.

A newspaper can supply reading matter to its patrons, but not brains to interpret it with. If every statement difficult to the understanding of a 5-year-old was accompanied by a diagram for the benefit of older readers, THE CHRONICLE might resemble the puzzles and answers department of a family story paper. We will depart from this rule for the once, but it can not be taken for a precedent and must be so understood. When we mention the patriots who "fit" in the Revolution, we make use of a more or less common expression, in which a stone arch is the simile for the Revolution, in which our forefathers fit, as do the stones in the arch. We regret exceedingly that our contemporary is not gifted with the intelligence necessary to understand this passage, but the Almighty only can supply that deficiency. Nature may be aided, however, by study, and we recommend to him the reading of such simples as "Robinson Crusoe" and "the Mother Goose Melodies." As for the rest we reaffirm that cigarettes, opium and the colored decoction of today misnamed whisky were not incidental to the Eighteenth century.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Now is the time to kill squirrels. Sure Shot at Snipes & Kinerly's.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DUFUR.

Hark the birds sing! And invisible frogs From bounding logs Proclaim with the rest, it is spring. Painter Peabody is again swinging the brush, we hear.

Mrs. James Wilson of The Dalles is visiting her father, Dr. Vanderpool, who is, we are pleased to state, improving slowly.

Esther Menefee has returned from Sherman county, where she has been teaching for the past year. She will make a short visit, when she will again take her school.

Dufur has her share of raging politicians ranking over the coming election; but that, of course, is no fault of her's. If we could read the minds of some we would find a few backsliders among the Groverites.

The ground, on account of recent rains, is fast settling, making it possible to step out and know you are on terra firma once more. But the roads are yet bad for teamsters, being so badly cut up from fall hauling. They are now somewhat improved by working.

The farmers are busy at work, and as soon as the ground becomes dry enough, ploughing will be rushed through, as it is rather late this year. They will reap a rich reward for their efforts, if moisture is all that's wanted, and from all accounts they intend putting in a large crop.

The general cry is taxes and how to raise them. If they only could have more time to have something to turn off, there would be fewer delinquencies, but as it is after the winter it will come hard for some to get the required amount. Oh, ye tax collectors, more time!

Friday and Saturday last it rained, causing the creek to rise and overflow its banks in some places, but not so as to do much damage. Monday and Tuesday there was quite a hail storm, but with these exceptions, we have had fine, grass-growing weather, and the hills are looking green in consequence.

Wednesday afternoon there came near being two runaways. A team loaded with straw was standing in front of Johnston Bros. store, that from some cause started to run, frightening Geo. Vanderpool's team, which went tearing up the road in spite of the efforts of bystanders to stop them. They were not caught until they had run some distance. Fortunately there was no damage done to speak of. The former team was stopped in its career by the prompt action of Mr. Jim Tuttle, and but for him might have proved disastrous, as it was headed up the hills, where there was no open road.

VICTOR.

There will be a party at Mr. Conier's next Wednesday night. Mr. Sam. Brown has been very ill for the past few days, but is recovering very fast.

H. Kelly says that he is going to start to town with about ten head of fat hogs next Monday.

There was a surprise party at J. B. Gorta last Monday evening, but Poet did not show up.

There was a grand ball at McClure's hall on the 16th to celebrate St. Patrick's day in the morning. We have been having fine weather for the past few days and crops are looking as well as could be expected.

Alfred Snodgrass, son of P. Snodgrass, who has been sick for the past two months, died last Tuesday and was buried in the Tygh valley graveyard, age seven years.

On last Wednesday evening after dark Lester Kelly was driving some cattle and was thrown from his horse. His right arm was driven into the mud up to his shoulder but he escaped uninjured. L. D. ROVER.

The Agricultural College.

CORVALLIS, March 21, 1894. Special Correspondence. As usual the cooking class served an elegant dinner last Friday.

All the male students are now having a military drill under Lieut. C. E. Dentler, of the U. S. A.

The Oregon Agricultural College has a greater number of students this year than it ever had since its founding. The union meeting of the Websterian and Ciceronian societies last Monday shows a vast improvement, especially in the musical line.

The class in physiology, which completed their course last January, were given a very practical demonstration of the functions of the cerebrum and the cerebellum last week under Prof. Washburn, who demonstrated it with two pigeons under the influence of ether.

The Canthorn Hall Reading Association was organized last Friday week with a membership of forty-eight. A very elaborate constitution was adopted and the following officers elected for the ensuing term: H. W. Kelly, president; Thomas Beall, vice president; E. R. Doughty, secretary, and Chas. Owsley treasurer. Lieut. Dentler donated $5 and Prof. Horner a number of leading magazines. A list of fifteen papers and magazines has already been subscribed for. The room is being decorated and furnished and will soon be filled with instructive literature.

KINGSLEY.

An Evening Party.

The friends who were entertained at the home of Mrs. Mary French last evening spent one of the most pleasant times of the season. Twenty games of whist were played, in which Mr. J. S. Fish and Mrs. F. L. Houghton excelled and Judge Bradshaw and Mrs. Bennett were less fortunate in securing tricks, but not so in regard to prizes, all of which showed the remarkably good taste of the hostess, as did also the quality of the lunch provided and the dainty manner in which it was served. Mrs. French certainly is an adept at entertaining, and makes all feel perfectly at ease.

Said By Neighbors.

The democratic press of this state and Oregon preserve an eloquent silence over Blackman's appointment of deputies. Only two favorable notices from republican papers have met our view and they look like they had been inserted for so much per line.—Walla Walla Statesman.

It is said that Goldendale will have another paper. This time straight out democratic. If it does, that will be the first indication of life the party has shown in Klickitat since it was sold out almost two years ago for a promise and left on the day after election to mourn over its own remains.—Grant Gazette.
