ROYALTY ANNOYED BY DOUBLES

An American Recently Posed in London as a Duke-Counterfelt Queen Natalie.

Many distinguished people are annoyed at times by the appearance of "doubles." Of these some are doubles by nature; others, impelled by the love of notoriety, pretend to be the person they especially envy or admire. Not long ago, says Tid-Bits, a German-American made himself conspicuous in London by posing as the duke of Teck. He played the role without interruption for some time, but finally his conduct became so erratic that he was arrested on the charge of swindling. The imperial house of Austria has also a "double." At Brunn, while a performance was being held in the City theater, a well-dressed, handsome young man entered and desired to be shown to the mayor's box, where he introduced himself as the crown prince of Austria. The mayor saw at a glance that he had to deal with a madman; as he could not remove him without a disturbance he entertained him until the end of the first act, when he succeeded in getting rid of the soi-disant prince, who subsequently proved to be a merchant's son.

Natalie, ex-queen of Servia, may also claim a double. The person so desigexcept that her name is Nathalie there seems to be no resemblance between her and the ex-queen. Still, she is known far and wide as her double, and for this reason: A practical joker, learning that the little tradeswoman intended to visit a certain town, announced that "Nathalie" would honor it with her presence. Naturally thousands gathered at the railway station on the day specified, only to find that they had been hoaxed. Everyone in Copenhagen has heard of the czar's double, a banker by the name of Carlsen. He so strongly resembles the czar as to be frequently mistaken for him. This flattered his vanity, and he endeavored to counterfeit his illustrious model in all respects. When it was announced that Alexander was on his way to Copenhagen, Carlsen would appear at the head of the procession in a launch exactly like the ezar's and later on would drive his four-in-hand through the crowded streets, bowing right and left to the cheering populace. Being rich he senttered money freely, which fact added to his popularity. But the adulation he received was too much for the poor man; his reason tottered; he imagined that he really was the ezar, and the nihilists were plotting against him. He finally became insane, and was sent to a madhouse. where he will remain while life lasts.

GETTING RID OF THE BEARD.

Electricity Will Do the Work, But Not

Without Considerable Cost. The hair of man is gradually disappearing before the march of civilization, says the New York Sun. Nature. who is an economical dame, has gradnally removed the hair from the top of the head where it is no longer useful. Still, kindly intentioned, a decorative fringe is left for ornament. Man himself would gladly have compromised with nature, and bartered some of the knew the value of shaving as discipline and refused to interfere. Now, it self. No more early rising for a matutinal shave or dallying in barber shops awaiting turn. The method is simple but expensive. It is done with the electric needle-at a cost of about three dollars a hair, a decline from the first rates. The operation takes time. Owing to the strain on the operator's eyes, the removal can be done only in patches unless a relay of later improvements in electric lights and magnifying mirrors the time may come that a man will eradicate the brambles of his face as easily as a Roman youth used to receive his toga virilis the day of his first shave. The occasion was a fete. Cornelia, Lesbia, Flavia and the rest had been hemstitching and feather-stitching his toga in secret moments for weeks before. In the new day the occasion will doubtless be the same. The girls, having saved their pocket money, will have ready an electric needle, ivory mounted or in repousse silver, with monogram, when the youth's first growth is sufficiently sighted for removal. Thus far it is easy to predict an aristocracy of smooth faces. Even at wholesale rates the effacement of the beard is bound for a long time to be beyond the reach of the multitude. This of itself is certain to make smooth faces fashionable.

Destitution in England.

Thirty-one persons died of actual starvation in London during last year. eight infants and twenty-three adults. Not one of the unfortunate persons had ever applied to the parish authorities for relief, and in only one case had the deceased person been at any time the inmate of a poorhouse or hospital. All were people of unquestioned respectability, who had come upon hard times and whose pride and horror of accepting public alms overcame the sharpest pangs of hunger. A sample story is in this official record: "James

ELECTRIFIED SEA WATER.

It Is Said to Be Working Wonders in Purifying a French City. The most wonderful stories are told of the disinfecting power of sea water after electrical treatment, as exhibited at Havre, where experiments upon a very large scale have been made under the direction of M. Hermite, the inventor of the system. The following is an extract from the special correspondence of the London Standard: 'A central station for the proper electrolyzing of sea water had been established at Havre, on Qui Lombardie, near the Angouleme bridge, and pipes in connection with it had been laid through all the streets of the St. Francois quarter, inhabited by some twelve thousand people of the poorest classes, and formerly the hot-bed of every in-fectious disease. The electrolyzed sea water forced through the pipes had, however, effected a marvelous change The streets watered with the disinfecting liquid, by means of hose connected with the pipes, had lost that putrid odor which formerly made them not only repugnant, but an ever-present danger in the very center of the town. In addition to this, two of the most insalubrious houses in the district had been chosen by M. David, the town architect, for the application of the Hermite system to dwellings. One of them was situated at No. 24 Rue de la Fontaine, and the other at 35 Rue d'Edreville. A large tank, connected with the electrolyzed sea-water mains, had been placed at the top of each of these six-story buildings, and pipes from the tank carried down to flush the closets and sinks on the various floors. In the case of the house No. 24 Rue de la Fontaine, the now odorless water from the syphons of the closets and sinks was conducted through pipes to the street gutter, down which it ran some distance before it ultimately fell into the sewer. The object of this arrangement was to offer the public a constant, visible and olfactory proof of the purifying qualities of electrolyzed sea water. The disinfecting liquid, so to say, consumed the sewage matter, as well as the microbes it contained, and in passing along the gutter and through the sewers it contributed to the disinfection of both of them by the chlorine it still contained. With the Hermite system all the sewage water could, without inconvenience, be allowed to flow into the sea, or even into rivers, for it purifies instead of contaminating them."

Ten days loss of time on account of sickness and a doctor bill to pay, is anything but pleasant for a man of a family to contemplate, whether he is a laborer, mechanic, merchant or publisher. Jas. O. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexia, Texas, was sick in bed for ten days with the grip during its prevalence a year or two ago. Later in the season he had a second attack. He says: "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with considersible success. I think, only being in bed a little over two days. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of the remedy." It should be borne in mind that the grip growth on his face for a few handfuls is much the same as a very severe cold ment. When you wish to cure a cold appears, man sees the way to estab- quickly and effectually give this remedy lish a permanently clean face for him- a trial. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

A Trying Ordeal.

A graduate of a theological seminary in one of the eastern states says that in that institution the candidates for the ministry were obliged to undergo a very trying ordeal. Each of them was compelled to preach a short extempore sermon, in the chapel, to the bishop and one of the professors, who formed the sole congregation, and who occasionally interrupted and criticised the sermon. One day a candidate, a young man hardly out of his teens, who was by no means a ready speaker, overwhelmed by nervousness began stammering: "I will divide my congregation into two-the converted and the unconverted." -This was too much for the bishop's sense of humor. "I think, sir," he exclaimed, "that as there are only two of us, you had better say which is which."

How Swimmers Drown. The Northwestern Lancet offers a new explanation of the sudden drown ing of good swimmers, hitherto attrib uted to cramp. There is nothing in a cramp in the leg to prevent an ordinary swimmer supporting himself in the water by his hands or on his back, nor to cause him to throw up his hands and sink once for all, like a stone. Such eases are attributed to perforation of the eardrum, through which the excess of water pressure occasions vertigo and unconsciousness, and a practical caution results to persons having such perforation to protect their ears with a stopper of cotton when bathing.

The experience of Geo. A. Apgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhoea and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, of which one bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, drug-
