BANK CASHIER SHOT

A Tragedy in San Francisco Yesterday Morning.

THE WORK OF A DYNAMITE CRANK

A Little Boy Accidentally Killed by a Playmate—Higgins Hanged in Chicago.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning William A. Herrick, assistant cashier of the Market-street branch of the San Francisco Savings Union, was shot by an unknown man who entered the bank and handed Herrick a document to read, and, while his attention was thus attracted, fired three shots from a revolver, one of which struck the cashier in the head, killing him instantly. When the man had shot Herrick, O. S. Melvin of East Oakland, a bookkeeper in the branch bank, snatched a pistol and fired at the assassin, who turned and fled, followed by a crowd of citizens. Several policemen joined the pursuers, and at Fourteenth and Mission streets, when the man was ordered to stop and he refused, one of the officers shot him and he fell. He was at once taken to the receiving hospital in a wagon. It has been ascertained that the document presented by the murderer to Herrick was a written demand for money and a threat to blow up the building with nitro-glycerine in the event of refusal. After glancing over the document, Herrick held it out to the man who did not take it. Herrick dropped it back upon the counter and shook his head silently. There was not a word spoken. The cashier's shake of the head decided the fellow and he at once drew a revolver from his pocket, fired at Herrick and fled. It seems marvelous that he did not commit another murder, or several murders, before being caught, for he was flourishing his 45-caliber revolver, and had in his pockets another revolver and a dirk knife. Besides he had burglar's tools, including a picklock and a fine saw, and also a silk mask and fur cap, evidently intended for the purpose of disguise. There were also in collection some recipes for high explosives, recipes for poison antidotes, Greek signs and unintelligible memoranda. The prisoner gave the name of Frederick Borneman. He said he came from Denver two weeks ago, although, he added, he had been in Portland and Puget Sound ports.

After the capture of Borneman the police found he had been struck twice by shots, one bullet grazing the temple and the other taking effect in his breast, but not stopping his flight.

The dead cashier was about 40 years of age, had been in the service of the bank since 1877. His family lives in Oakland.

Accidentally Killed His Playmate.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 23.—Wallace Schultz, aged 12, a son of Charles Schultz, was accidentally shot and killed by Frank Bingham, aged 14, a son of J. A. Bingham, last evening. The lads were playing near the Silver Gate flouring mill, when it was suggested that they get some cartridges in the mill and try them in a revolver owned by the Schultz boys. They went inside and tried the cartridges, the Bingham boy holding the pistol, when a cartridge exploded. The bullet struck young Schultz in the left side, went through the heart and came out of his right side. Mr. Bingham, who owns the mill, appeared soon afterward and found the boy dead, and his own son half crazy with fright. The father of the dead boy ran to the spot, picked his son up and ran to the house, a short distance, where examination proved that the lad died instantly. The two families have been on the most friendly terms, and Mr. Bingham and his family offered every assistance in their power to the bereaved parents.

Hanged for Murder.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Thomas, alias "Buff" Higgins, was hanged in jail here at noon for the murder of Peter McCooey, an old city employe, last September. Higgins and two pals planned to burglarize McCooey's house. Higgins entered while the others kept watch outside. McCooey was awakened by the noise, sat up in bed and was shot by Higgins without a word. Shortly before the hanging Higgins expressed special gratification that he was not to have to suffer death on the same scaffold with the assassin Prendergast, for whom he manifested the utmost aversion and contempt. He exhibited the most wonderful nerve throughout the trial and afterward, and it did not desert him at the supreme moment. He made no remarks on the scaffold. He claimed to the last he was the victim of police persecution and was being sent to his death on perjured testimony.

As the trap fell with a clatter, the prisoners in the adjoining corridors set up a shout, "Hang Prendergast! hang Prendergast!" and the little assassin covered further back in his cell, trembling and muttering imprecations.

War Declared on Breweries.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—War to the knife is to be declared by the Knights of Labor against a score of breweries in St. Louis, controlled by an English syndicate, because of the management's refusal to recognize union labor. A call has been issued for a convention of knights at St. Louis, April 18, to decide upon measures for driving the product of the English syndicate breweries out of the market and compelling them to suspend.

Want the Shops Removed.

CHEYENNE, March 23.—J. C. O'Hearne of the local Union Pacific shops, is in Omaha conferring with the officials of the road in regard to the proposed removal of the Omaha shops to this city. It is claimed that the work can be done more cheaply. Nearly all the wood for the cars is secured in Oregon and Texas, and the haul to Cheyenne would be less than to Omaha. Five hundred men will be employed at once in the shops here.

NEWS NOTES.

The national bank notes received for redemption Friday were $257,090. This statement makes demagogues of all those populists who say the government does not redeem any notes.

It is likely the president will veto the seigniorage bill. He has been flooded with petitions, 29 out of 30 being a prayer to veto the bill. It is stated he has already prepared the draft of a veto.

The extent of the opposition to the new Chinese treaty has proved to be a complete surprise. The republicans are emphatic in their condemnation of it, while the democrats seem averse to expressing any opinion whatever. Representative Ellis of Oregon says: "The reported abandonment of photographic identification will take away one of the vital means of restriction. Until the full treaty is at hand it will be difficult to form an opinion of it, but if it in any way limits the present restrictions, or makes Chinese immigration easier, it will be a serious blow to the people of the Pacific coast."

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The populists of Sherman county have nominated a full county ticket. At the nominating convention the count showed that 87 votes were cast for 78 persons. That is, of the 87 voters all were candidates for office except nine. This beats the record. Kansas is not in it any more.—Sentinel.

Salem bobs up on the violin topic and claims a Stradivarius that is 204 years old. "This violin was made by Stradivarius about the year 1690 and was owned and used by a noted musician and chorister at the cathedral in London, and also at the royal balls of the realm for about sixty years. He was an inebriate and contracted debts, so that he secreted the violin (which he called "Sally Come Up") in a lot of old clothes to avoid an attachment upon it. There it remained for over forty years, being discovered after his death by one of his sons. In about 1790 it came into the hands of an instructor, who presented it to one of his pupils, George Hood, who brought it from England to the United States in about 1840, and who transferred it to one James Mee in 1850, who in turn presented it to Wm. Salisbury in 1856, who transferred it to its present owner, H. A. Salisbury.

WHEN SMILES ARE IMPOSSIBLE.

Woman's Fittable Plight on a Wet and Windy Day.

The utter absence of a sense of humor from the average feminine composition is never more clearly visible, says the Pall Mall Budget, than in a busy thoroughfare on a wet and windy day. A woman may be a philosopher, she may have original ideas and brilliant theories on the fundamental questions of morality and ethics, but she rarely rises superior to a muddy boot or a dragged petticoat. The woman is an exception indeed who manages to preserve a smiling face in the teeth of an east wind which plays shuttlecock with her umbrella, and a dreary sleet which bespatters her clothes and freezes her fingers; young or old, fair or plain—scarcely one of them who does not frown ominously as she hurries along, forgetful of other people's feelings and umbrellas and toes, hustling and jostling, with never a glance for the absurdity of the situation. For there is something unmitigatingly ridiculous about pedestrians on a really bad day; nobody wants to walk on the outside of the pavement because of the splashing omnibuses and cabs; everybody wants to pass everybody else, regardless of the limited space afforded by the conglomeration of umbrellas; everybody pushes and elbows and shoulders, and when an umbrella appears in sight all considerations of gallantry or politeness or sex or age are forgotten—it becomes an object lesson in "the survival of the fittest" and a free fight or something near it ensues, in which the fair sex undoubtedly manage to bear their part with more than a tolerable grace.

In an out of the way nook in the British museum the sightseer is confronted by a dust-covered object which at first sight would be taken for a gigantic millstone. But it is not. It is one of the most sacred oriental relics in existence—the tomb of Alexander the Great.

O. W. O. Hardman, Sheriff of Tyre Co., W. Va., appreciates a good thing and does not hesitate to say so. He was almost prostrated with a cold when he procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says: "It gave me prompt relief. I find it to be an invaluable remedy for coughs and colds." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
