Summerville Sun. The question of building the morning fire was long ago settled by the Good Book Jeremiah, vii, 18: "The children gather wood and the fathers kindle the fire and the women knead the dough to make cakes." That ends it.

Mr. A. R. Byrket arrived at Hood River from near St. Louis, Mo., on Saturday with five thoroughbred Jerseys, and two fine Berkshire hogs and was transferred by steamer Regulator to White Salmon. Something new in the wagon line was also brought—a newly patented swivel axle.

Mr. E. D. Kelley has in his possession one of the first $10 gold pieces ever coined by the United States. It is almost as large as the $20 gold piece of today. The eagle is a much slimmer looking bird than is generally represented now, and the female head on the other side is of much greater beauty. The gentleman wears it as a watch charm, and it is enclosed in glass. The date of its coinage is 1793.

Republican Primaries.

The republican primaries will take place in the four precincts of The Dalles tomorrow. It is important that the strongest and best men be named for the county ticket and therefore delegates elected who will see to it at the county convention that only such are chosen. A full representation of republicans at the primaries will ensure this result, and none should stay away. The primary is more important than the convention, because the action taken at the latter depends upon the former for a truthful expression of the majority. Oregon is going republican this year by the largest majority ever known, and it will not do for Wasco county to lag behind in the procession. That all may understand where they are to vote we will define the boundaries of the precincts and the several voting places:

West Dalles—Beginning at a point on the Columbia river where a line drawn through the center of Lincoln street in Dalles City, if extended, would intersect said river, thence southerly, following the center line of said Lincoln street to the south boundary line of Dalles City, thence easterly along said south boundary line of Dalles City to a point where the line between sections 9 and 10, township 1 north, range 13 east, intersects said boundary line, thence following boundary, as made January, 1892, to the Columbia river, thence up said river to place of beginning. Voting place, old city mills.

Trevitt—Beginning at a point on the Columbia river opposite the foot of Court street in Dalles City, thence south along center of Court street to a point where said Court street would intersect the south boundary line of Dalles City, if extended, thence westerly along the boundary line of Dalles City to the intersection of a line drawn through the center of Lincoln street, thence northerly along a line drawn through the center of Lincoln street to the Columbia river, thence up the river to place of beginning. Voting place, county court room.

Bigelow—Beginning at a point on the Columbia river opposite the foot of Jefferson street in Dalles city, thence south along the center of Jefferson street to its intersection with Kelly avenue, thence southerly along the center of Kelly avenue to the south boundary line of Dalles City, following its meanderings to a point opposite the head of Court street if said street were continued to said line, thence north down the center of said Court street to the Columbia river, thence up said river to place of beginning. Voting place, Wm. Mitchell's office.

East Dalles—Boundary lines not changed. Voting place, Wasco Warehouse.

In Memoriam.

Died—At his residence in Dufur, Wasco county, Or., on Saturday, March 23, 1894, Dr. Larkin Vanderpool.

Dr. Vanderpool was born in Ray county, Missouri, June 28, 1831, where he continued to reside until he was of age. In 1852 he was married to Miss Mary Turnage, who is left to mourn his loss. Three children blessed their union, William L., Willard L. and Mrs. R. J. Wilson. All were present during his last sickness and with willing and loving hearts did all that could be done to alleviate his suffering. In this connection we would not forget the kind and careful watchfulness of his stepmother, Mrs. Dulcena Hodges, who from day to day was ever ready to lend a helping hand. Of the doctor's family, there are living three brothers, C. M. Vanderpool, D. H. Vanderpool of Benton county, Or., and W. M. Vanderpool of Prineville; also four sisters, Mrs. Nancy Campbell of Kansas City, Mrs. Narcissus Thomas of Clackamas county, Or., Mrs. Philena Fowler of Benton county, Or. and Mrs. Martha E. Gulliver of Dufur, Or.

Larkin Vanderpool was a doctor not so much on account of books, as the force of circumstances and natural fitness. He read books and remembered them, he read journals and profited by them, but back of all was a great loving heart, ever warm for humanity and ready to reach out a helping hand; this led him to study and invent. Perhaps no living physician has had such uniform success in treating that dread disease, cancer, as has Dr. Vanderpool. This treatment in the main was original with him, and we fear has perished with him.

The doctor was esteemed not only on account of his ability as a physician but for very, very many of those qualities which bind heart to heart and link us together in a brotherhood that makes life worth living. All men who knew him, worthy of a friend, had a friend in him.

In his death his wife has lost a kind and affectionate husband, his children an indulgent father, the community a careful physician, a worthy citizen, and humanity a friend.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of the deceased, Rev. A. J. Brigham of the Christian church officiating, after which the remains were taken in charge by Wasco Lodge, No. 15, A. F. & A. M., and buried according to the solemn rites of the order. The grave was then richly decorated with flowers, mute, beautiful emblems of the love and affection of friends and neighbors.

Big Apples.

Jesse Crandall was here last week, from The Dalles, and stopped at the Mt. Hood hotel. At dinner a stranger was seated at the table with him who soon began a conversation on the subject of Hood River fruit. The stranger remarked that he had been talking with a few of our distinguished citizens whose statements he could not question, but still he had been told some things about Hood River apples that were hard to believe. As the conversation progressed the waitress brought the gentleman a small dish of what she called apple butter, but what was in reality preserved plums. The first spoonful brought to light a seed something like an inch in length by three-fourths that in breadth. The stranger eyed it curiously for a moment and then asked what it was. Jess instantly replied: "That? Why, that's an apple seed, of course." And the last seen of that seed it was being rolled up in an extra truthful copy of the Glacier, both to be sent East as evidences of the remarkable resources of the country.—Glacier.

Independent Workers.

Another very pleasant evening was spent by the I. O. G. T. people at Fraternity hall. Notwithstanding the rain a happy company met as usual on Monday evening.

There were sixteen more members initiated and then the state deputy installed the officers and pronounced the lodge duly instituted and Chas. Templar C. H. Brown assumed his office.

The following preamble and resolutions were then adopted.

We, The Independent Workers Lodge No. 7, of the I. O. G. T. assembled in regular session, wish to express our thanks for favors received. Therefore be it Resolved, That we extend a hearty vote of thanks to State Deputy R. L. McIntosh for his kindness and courtesy in organizing our lodge and would say to him that we would hold very pleasant memories of the evenings we have spent together.

Resolved, That we express our thanks to Frazier and The Dalles lodges for their kindness and assistance in our organization.

We now number eighty members and our membership is taken from the first citizens of the city. This is, it seems to us, one of the largest lodges of this order in the state and still young. May it ever be a source of good.
