In advanced cases, it brings comfort and relief; if you haven't delayed too long, it will certainly cure. It doesn't claim too much. It won't make new lungs-nothing can; but it will make diseased ones sound and healthy, when everything else has failed.

The scrofulous affection of the lungs that's caused Consumption, like every other form of Scrofula, and every blood-taint and disorder, yields to the "Discovery." It is the most effective blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known to medical science. In all Bronchial, Throat and Lung Affections, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

RAINMAKERS IN THE ORIENT.

Queer Methods Adopted by the Japanese to Coax Showers in Time of Drought. During the summer season in Japan droughts are very frequent, and the rice fields, before so beautiful, presenting as they do all the different shades of green imaginable, gradually, lose their brilliancy of color, turn yellow and parched, and threaten the total destruction of the crop. Not only does the rice suffer, but the wells dry up and necessitate the carrying of water from long distances. After waiting and hoping in vain for a downfall of rain, says a Yokohama letter, the people turn out en masse to cvoke power of their deities to send them the saving showers. A procession is formed of perhaps two hundred men. all nearly naked, who, carrying straw emblems representing the sun with rain pouring from it and with long streamers having prayers written on them flying in the wind, proceed to the nearest river or bay, where the whole company wades into the water until they are waist deep, and, sur-

After doing this several times the procession is reformed, when it proceeds to the temple to pray again. This ceremony is repeated several time, and should the rain come in abundance prayers are offered in thanksgiving. Should it be only a shower, they blame themselves for not having prayed fervently enough and continue their devotions until a downpour takes place.

Another form of devotion for the same purpose takes place at nightfall, when a long boat is filled with men accompanying the prayers by the regubay, may be heard the weird sound of tomtoms and the voices of the men gradually growing louder and louder is the boat approaches, each man bending to his paddle in regular time as it passes us swiftly and gradually disappears in the darkness and is soon lost to sight and hearing.

Girls in Alaskan Society.

Visitors to Sitka pronounce it not a bad thing at all to be a girl in Alaska soctety, for girls are a long way above par in the social swim. There are card parties and receptions, there are teas and dinners on the trim little gunboats, with men to preside at the urn and show how badly even the best of the sex do the things a woman does so gracefully. CODFISH GALORE.

Portland Boasts a Single Pile of One Hun-dred and Thirteen Cords. Imagine 4,500 quintals, or 504,000 pounds, or 353 tons, or 113 cords of salted cod and pollock, all neatly piled up in one building, and you will have, says the Lewiston Journal, before you the largest stock of fish in the city of Portland at the present time. It has all been brought from Nova Scotia and Newfoundland since the 10th of Octo-ber. There is one pile of fourteen tons of specially selected codfish. They were big fellows when taken from the water and weighed then from 40 to 80 pounds each. Now they weigh from 25 to 85 pounds apiece. When they have been stripped of the skin, carefully boned, trimmed into slices of faultless flesh like so much clean, clear bread or cheese, and packed in boxes marked "boneless fish," they will weigh from 12 to 15 pounds apiece. Such is the shrinkage of an 80-pound codfish into the perfect food product. In the trimming process about 20 pounds of "scrap" are removed to every 100 pounds of the boneless slices. This is, of course, good food tissue, though it looks decidedly like "leavings." It is sold for about 8 cents a pound. Country fish peddlers buy it, sometimes in 100 and 150 pound lots, and sell it to farmers and villagers, to make into hash, for about 10 cents a pound. The skins are packed in barrels and sent away to Gloucester, Mass., where they are made into glue. They bring about a cent and a half a pound. The bones sell for two or three dollars a ton and are hauled over to Cape Elizabeth to be

LINCOLN'S MAIDEN SPEECH.

It Was Short and Simple and Went Straight to the Point. A citizen of Buffalo has found among his papers an account of the circum-stances under which Abraham Lincoln made his maiden speech. It was originally printed in the Springfield (Ill.) Republican, and is as follows:

"The president of the United States made his maiden speech in Sangamon county at Pappasville (or Richland) in the year 1832. He was then a whig and a candidate for the legislature of this state. The speech is sharp and sensible. To understand why it was so short the following facts will show: (1) Mr. Lincoln was a young man, say twenty-two years of age, and timid.
(2) His friends and opponents in the joint discussions had rolled the sun nearly down. Lincoln saw it was not the proper time then to discuss the questions fully, and hence he cut his remarks short. Probably the other candidates had wholly exhausted the subjects under discussion. The time, according to W. H. Herndon's informant-who has kindly furnished this valuable reminiscence for us-was 1832; it may have been 1851. The president lived at the time with James A. Hurdon, at Salem, Sangamon county, who heard the speech, talked about it, and knows the report to be correct. The speech, which was characteristic of the man, was as follows:

"Gentlemen, Fellow-Citizens: I presume you all know who I am. I am humble Abraham Lincoln. I have been solicited by my friends to become candidate for the legislature. My politics are short and sweet, like an 'old woman's dance." I am in favor of a national bank. I am in favor of the international improvement system and a high protective tariff. are my sentiments and political principles. If elected I will be thankful. If defeated it will be all the same."
