The Tribune-The president's veto of the seigniorage bill has saved the country from great disgrace and great disaster. The financial world expected no less of President Cleveland, and has, perhaps, been not quite ready enough to give him as much credit as he really deserves for an act which required extraordinary power of resistance to the demands of his own party.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward could write a story, if she chose to do so, on authorship as an underpaid profession. She received from the American and English markets alone $80,000 for her "David Grieve." For "Robert Elsmere" $40,is a low estimate and the much advertised forthcoming "Marcella" is undoubtedly good for $80,000 more. This is for six years' work. Authors for whose works the public clamors are not so very badly off.

Danger. All men must some day die, and all know that they must die, but the czar walks and talks, eats and drinks, and sleeps under the perpetual shadow of death. If half the accounts be true which come from the splendid and solitary recesses of the Russian palaces. no month passes without some intimation that the enemies of his throne and person can menace him through all the triple barriers of guards and safeguards which surround his imperial majesty. He may find words of treason in the golden cigarette case which he opens when he would smoke. on the back of his dinner menu, upon the blotting pad when he signs dispatches, or beneath the pillow of his couch. The trusted attendant of his privacy may be sold to the conspirators; his kitchen may not be safe against them, nor his study, nor even the chapel where he worships. When he walks abroad his path must be heedfully cleared and protected, the walls and floors of his palace must be searched before he visits them, and his journey by railway necessitates a minute inspection of the line, with often a cordon of soldiers to keep it from point to point. Amid all his grandeur and vast power "he doth live a man forbid;" peace and security cannot be so much as known to him, for the strongest nature is not proof against the cowardly torture thus perpetually inflicted. One does indeed become in a certain way indurated even to such an existence as this, and the patient fortitude of the ezar is said to be re markable.

The Tallow Tree of China.

The tallow tree, one of the most use ful plants in China, has two or three representatives in our southern states. The latter, however, are shrubs, while the former is a true tree. The tree is valuable to the Chinese for several purposes. Its seeds are thickly covered with a fatty substance, which, when steamed, produces a fat resembling tallow, greatly esteemed for candle making. The seeds themselves yield, by pressing, a fine liquid oil.

Wasco County, Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY. It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles. The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades' furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year. ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future. The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products. ITS WEALTH. It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.
