HANGED FOR MURDER

A Woman Who Tortured Her Husband.

BEATEN TO DEATH WITH A CHAIN

A Heartless Scoundrel in Paterson, N. J.—Three Pacific Railroad Bills.

LIVERPOOL, April 2.—Margaret Walber, aged 53 years, was executed today at Walton jail. Mrs. Walber, in November last, murdered her husband. She confined him in a garret. When the room was entered Walber was found dead, the apartment resembling a shambles. The prisoner admitted striking her husband over the head with a heavy chain.

Heartless Scoundrel.

PATERSON, N. J., April 2.—John Martin, a well-to-do contractor, betrayed Annie Van Dorn, of Passaic, and promised marriage. After a child was born, Martin's cousin, John Duncan, of Brooklyn, offered to marry the girl under an assumed name. The girl was drugged, taken to a minister and the program carried out. Martin lived with Annie several months, quarreled, and then told her the truth and deserted her. Martin has been arrested for conspiracy, and released on $1,000 bail.

Pacific Railroad Bills.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Three bills are now being considered looking to the collection of $100,000,000 indebtedness of the Central and Union Pacific railroad companies to the government. Two of them are now before the house committee on Pacific railways. One was introduced by Geary, another by Brown and a third by Boatner. The Geary bill provides for the foreclosure of the government's mortgage on the two roads, and the appointment of a committee on the part of the government to manage the roads, and Geary says his desire is to make the men who have grown rich out of the railroads pay the government what they honestly owe. From what can be learned the Brown bill is not likely to be agreed upon, but after it and Geary's bill have been thoroughly discussed a new measure will be reported, embodying the features of one or the other. The Boatner bill also provides for judicial procedure to compel the companies to make restitution to the government.

Gov. Tillman Endorsed.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Governor Tillman's view of South Carolina's difficulties is undoubtedly reflected by Senator John Irby, who, in 1890, was sent to the senate from South Carolina to succeed General Wade Hampton on the same populist tidal wave that carried Mr. Tillman into the gubernatorial chair. Discussing the situation, Senator Irby gave expression to his opinions as follows:

"The public do not understand the true reason of all this trouble in South Carolina. It is a mere pretense and fraud on the part of certain citizens in Darlington that it is an honest revolt against their private rights and homes. The dispensary law of the state forbids the sale of liquor other than is authorized by it, and persons have no right to prostitute their homes by making bar-rooms out of them and then crying out against what they term an invasion of their private rights."

VERDICT ON HARD TIMES.

The Democrats and Populists Were Used for a Mop.

CINCINNATI, April 1.—The count from the election at the 126 Cincinnati precincts was completed at 1 o'clock tonight. The whole number of votes polled was 55,200, out of a registration of 71,000. Five tickets were in the field, the head of the tickets, the candidates for mayor, receiving votes as follows:

Hon. J. A. Caldwell, rep.	26,664
Theodore Hortsman, citizen's	19,912
Isaac J. Miller, dem.	11,714
Caldwell's plurality	6,752

Every republican was elected.

THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Returns from municipal elections throughout the state show republican gains in many instances over McKinley's last vote, notably in smaller places. At Columbus last April, the democratic candidate was elected by 200.

IN OTHER STATES.

Returns from municipal elections throughout Michigan show almost universal republican successes.

In Helena, Mont., republicans elect their entire ticket with the exception of city treasurer and two aldermen.

Des Moines' republicans elected the entire city ticket.

A straight republican ticket was elected in Yankton, N. D., and for the first time in many years the same party carried Wahpeton, N. D.

NEWS NOTES.

Gen. McCook of Denver thinks Coxe's movement is dangerous.

Charles DeLesseps' name has been removed from the French legion of honor.

Professor Brown-Sequard, inventor of the supposed elixir of life, died in Paris Monday.

There is rioting and destruction of property going on in the Pennsylvania coke regions.

Le Caron, the spy, employed by the government to spy upon Irishmen in America, is dead.

Governor Northen has appointed Patrick Walsh, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, senator to succeed Colquitt.

The Breckinridge case has occupied the attention of the Washington circuit court for three weeks, to the exclusion of other cases equally important from a financial point. It promises to hold the boards for two weeks more.

"General" Hamilton, commander of the Colorado division of Coxe's commonwealth army, was arraigned in Denver for stealing a suit of clothes and other articles from Mrs. Kennedy, a boarding-house keeper. Hamilton claimed the case was one of persecution because of unreciprocated affections.

About 30 Polish members of the American Protective Association broke down the doors of the Catholic school, on Sixteenth avenue, Milwaukee, with axes and hatchets, where a meeting was being held to counteract their influence. In the row which followed Frank Phillips was fatally injured and seven others cut and stabbed.

Commander Fry of the industrial army avows the movement is just starting; that in less than 30 days 400,000 men will be in Washington for a common purpose. They mean to be peaceable in their actions, and demand government employment, the stoppage of immigration for 10 years and the prevention of aliens owning land in the United States. It is their serious and orderly demeanor that appeals to the people. It must be conceded the movement is growing.

The first regular sermon ever given in Harvard by a Catholic priest was delivered in Appleton chapel Sunday night. Father Peter J. O'Callahan delivered a most powerful and impressive sermon before a crowded congregation. The occasion was a memorable one, being the first really cordial recognition Harvard has ever given a Catholic priest, though there have been informal addresses before. His text was "Thy testimonies are becoming exceedingly credible." "Rationalism in Faith" was the subject of the sermon.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Democratic Party Badly Split Up—Political Notes.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 30, 1894.

If Mr. Cleveland can enjoy the predicament into which his disposition of the Bland coinage bill has thrown the democrats in congress, he must be a peculiarly constituted individual. In their present demoralization many democrats are saying things which they will regret when they have had time for their cooler second thoughts, and cool-headed republicans will wait to see what the nature of those second thoughts will be before counting upon the utter disruption of the democratic party. The democrats are not worse divided upon the silver question than they have been upon other national questions. Every national platform the party has had for many years has been so constructed that it could be interpreted to mean whatever was desired by any of the numerous factions of the party. When the democratic party was out of power it never had any difficulty in uniting upon one thing—an attempt to get into power. And they will make a desperate attempt, not withstanding their differences of opinion, to unite for the purpose of retaining the power they have. Senator Brice recently declared that he was a democrat for the same reason he has red hair—he can't help it. It's the same with the average democrat.

Mrs. J. Ellen Foster is here in charge of a delegation of the female mill-workers of New England who have come to protest against the passage of the tariff bill. They are representatives of the Woman's Republican Association of the United States. They say that the bill in its present shape means starvation for the mill hands of New England.

Members of Coxe's army may draw their own conclusions as to the Washington welcome they will get, from the fate of seven men claiming to belong to the advance guard of that body, who were arrested this week while asleep in an empty freight car, charged with yagraney, and sentenced to thirty days each in the work-house by the judge of the police court.

The cheekiest American ever born isn't in it with Mr. Theophilus H. Davies, guardian of that young woman who calls herself Princess Kaiulani, heir to the Hawaiian throne. Mr. Davies is again in Washington, he says for the purpose of demanding the intentions of the administration towards Hawaii. It will be remembered that he brought his ward to Washington early in the present administration and that by means of judicious "taffy" from the alleged Princess to Mrs. C. he was enabled to get the ear of Mr. Cleveland. It is generally believed that the misrepresentations of this man Davies were largely responsible for the ridiculous policy afterwards adopted towards Hawaii by Mr. Cleveland. After the miserable failure of that policy and the mortification it has caused the administration one would suppose that Washington would be about the last place that Davies would wish to be, but here he is as big as life and as full of misrepresentations as ever. After much persistency Davies succeeded in getting a short interview with Secretary Gresham, but he has not succeeded in getting beyond the private secretary's office at the White House. Davies is not a native of Hawaii, but is one of the Englishmen who have grown rich through the ownership of sugar plantations there and the manipulation of commercial favors granted by the late royal government, and has no shadow of a right to recognition by this government.

The house judiciary committee has practically decided against the proposition to amend the constitution so as to acknowledge the supreme authority of God therein, by voting to lay the resolution providing for the change on the table.

Mr. Cleveland has given the cuckoos from states which are to hold democratic conventions this year a gigantic task, in demanding of them that his administration shall be endorsed by those conventions. In some of the states—Alabama and Missouri, for instance—this will be somewhat difficult, as the democratic senators from those states are openly opposed to the administration and will use their power to prevent the adoption of such a resolution. In Missouri the administration men have already decided to do what the Cleveland men so bitterly abused Senator Hill for doing in New York in 1892—hold a snap convention, on May 15th. Republicans feel a deep interest in this fight, as they regard Missouri as rightfully belonging in the republican column, anyway, and the split that may result will help along the good cause.

Rumors to the effect that the democratic break-up which is now threatened will include the retirement of two or more members of the cabinet are being discussed in inner democratic circles with much freedom, but it is extremely doubtful whether any member of the cabinet will willingly retire, and it is not believed that Mr. Cleveland has asked any of them to get out—he much prefers that they should stay in, for the present at least.
