THE PRINCE OF WALES

Narrow Escape From Death on a Railway.

WAS AVERTED BY THE ENGINEER

One Thousand Buildings Destroyed in Shanghai—News Notes.

LONDON, April 4.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says: "The Prince of Wales has arrived in Paris. While the prince's train was at the Marseilles station the prince lingered too long at the buffet. The train started and the prince just succeeded in clutching the rail of the saloon carriage. As the prince appeared to be in danger the station-master signaled to the driver and the train was stopped. The Daily Chronicle's Paris correspondent says only the vigilance of the engineer of the train prevented a probably fatal accident to the Prince of Wales."

Big Fire in Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, April 4.—Last night fire broke out in the part of Shanghai occupied by the natives, and despite all the efforts to check the flames they spread in every direction. The fire burned all night, destroying 1000 houses.

NEWS NOTES.

The seigniorage veto was sustained in the house yesterday.

Judge Bradley at the Follard-Breckinridge trial, says that the immense attendance reminds him of a flock of buzzards around carrion.

Railroad News.

The Grant Gazette has the following: Paul Mohr and several other railroad magnates were in Grant Saturday. They crossed over to Columbus and looked along the incomplete portage railway line. Mr. Mohr assures the people that the portage is no longer an uncertainty, but will be completed and in operation within a very short time. A. W. Mohr took the Sunday morning train for Portland, but the other gentlemen went with a team down to Celilo. They assert that work will be commenced in a few days. A. W. Mohr came up from Portland and registered at the Caledonian Saturday morning. Mr. Mohr in speaking of the portage, in which he is largely interested, said that $400,000 had already been expended in its construction. To complete the road bed and lay the steel would cost $250,000 more. He further said that the work would, without doubt be finished this season. This news will create lively interest among the people on the other side of the river who have hoped against hope that the portage road would be built.

JAPANESE TYPES.

Two Distinct Classes of Physiognomy Among Japan's Inhabitants.

There are two totally distinct types in Japan, which may almost be said to be each other's opposites. The first, which the Japanese themselves call the Chinese or Korean, is the more common. Those belonging to it, says Harper's Weekly, have round faces, flat noses, full cheeks, rather thick lips—very pretty ones often—and very good white teeth. Those belonging to the second, or true Japanese type, have long and comparatively pale faces, noses arched like the beak of a bird, thin lips, large eyes, with not very strongly marked eyebrows, and teeth mostly good, always very white, but often long and irregular. This is the aristocratic type, which, when at its best, is really worthy of admiration. To be called handsome a Japanese must belong to it, while those of the Chinese cast of countenance are never more than pretty.

Strange to say, the moral character of the sections of the community differs as much as does their appearance. I have noticed that, as a general rule, those with Chinese faces are gay, laughing and restless, full of careless good humor, while the others are silent, indifferent, melancholy, sometimes even dismal.

VICTOR.

Mr. A. Sanford has arrived from the city and is plowing on his farm.

Rev. S. D. Blackberry started to The Dalles last Sunday on a political tour.

Mr. Wm. Davis is going to start to The Dalles with his beef cattle next week.

As times are hard and the la grippe is played out, Dr. Evick has ceased practicing and gone to driving stage.

Mr. H. Kelley and son drove ten head of fat hogs nine months old to The Dalles last week that averaged 229 pounds each.

There is singing school at the M. E. church every Sunday evening at 4 o'clock. Thos. Batty and Samuel Brown are the instructors.

The crops are looking fine and we are having as good weather as could be expected. The farmers are all busy plowing and putting in their crops.

Lester Kelley is training his race horse for the spring races. Lester thinks that he can make more at running races and turning the pasteboards than he can at more fatiguing avocations.

Hon. H. R. Blue has just returned from a trip to Chicago on a wedding tour. He is going to The Dalles after a load of furniture for his little cottage near Victor where he intends to make his home.

Hon. A. J. Jones, the jockey horse trader of Victor, has come down to a bride and if any one has got a bear dog just call at this office and you will get the bride, as Lester Kelly and himself intends to go out to the mountains on a fishing and hunting expedition and they will need a good bear dog.

What is the matter with Poet that he does not write any more?

Just a little sunshine,
Just a little rain,
And we will hear from him again.

Immortality at a Premium.

It would seem from the decision rendered in the case of Mart New for rape on the person of Miss Jones, at Tygh valley, that there is no law by which the perpetrators of such immoral deeds may be brought to justice, simply because it appears that the girl is a little over 14 years of age.

Here is a deplorable case of a young girl being robbed of all future virtue and good name, for wherever she may go the ill deed will follow her.

The law is unquestionably too weak and frail to deal justly with such cases. It is a known fact that the weakness of girls to resist the company of these immoral wretches is greatest between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years; hence, the great need of a severe law that will protect our daughters from becoming the victims of the Lotharios, only to appease their lustful desires. This poor, unfortunate child is to be pitied; while as for the parties who have caused her moral wreck (for there appears to be two) they should be invited to leave the country immediately under penalty of a coat of tar and feathers, and the warp and woof of his coat well tested by a severe horse whipping.

The Queen's Annual Bath.

Once a year the queen of Madagascar bathes in public in the presence of as many of her subjects as can crowd into the palace courtyard. In former years she was wont to descend the marble steps innocent of raiment, but since the advent of whites she wears a loose robe and disappears behind a screen. Here the ablations are performed amid much splashing. The screen was introduced to satisfy the missionaries. When the queen emerges from behind the screen her complexion is at least three shades lighter than before. Then all the loyal subjects shout, and, taking it for granted that the queen has bathed, they disperse to their homes and do likewise. After the annual bath they all feel uncomfortable, but a few days suffice to make them feel and look natural again, and all goes well.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

the state of wheat, the state of cattle, the state of fruit, and the state of strawberries and cream, this convention was to play an important part, and it was the intention this year to bring out the very best that could be brought. Two years ago every laboring man was receiving his hire, everyone was employed at a good remuneration. The people were honest in voting for a change, but it has been demonstrated they were mistaken. But prosperity can be restored, and this means the election of Harrison, Reed or McKinley. The democrats will then take us by the hand and thank us.

Mr. John Michell was then called, who replied in an extempore speech of considerable length and marked ability. He exhibited a clear comprehension of the political events of the last year and their results as affecting the people. Sincerity was stamped in every sentence, in his infection, in his earnestness, and it was markedly evident that he was possessed of a consuming desire to restore the prosperity of a little more than a year ago when the democratic party assumed the reins of government. He dwelt upon the national significance of this convention and not merely the election of the several county officers. In November, 1892, by some chance the citizens elevated the democratic party to power. From Maine to California they promised greater prosperity. It was not three months before the wheels of factories stopped, and the operative dependent upon his own labor had not the means to support his family. Today a fanatic by the name of Coxey with an army of starving men are marching to Washington to redress these great wrongs. In President Cleveland's message to the special session of congress he had said the purchase clause of the silver act was responsible for the general depression. It has been repealed. Is there any change? The answer comes from every hamlet, no! The cause lay deeper. It was the abandonment of the policy of the nation since its birth—the policy upheld by George Washington and the republican party—the policy of protection. The speaker spoke of the effects of the Wilson bill, its advocates, the policy of the democrats against the north, and fostering the south. If we have suffered already from the shadow of free trade, how much more will we suffer from its substance.

After concluding, a committee of The Dalles precincts announced the nomination of L. S. Davis for justice of the peace and A. A. Urquhart constable.

Mr. Dufar was called, who declined to address the convention on the plea that the delegation were for the most part tired out. His fight was over, and he wanted now to see the ticket elected. Adjourned sine die.

League Election.

At a regular business meeting of the Junior Epworth League, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Georgie Ruch, president; Iven Oaks, 1st vice president; May Jones, 2d vice president; Edith Randall, 3d vice president; M. J. Willerton, 4th vice president; Mable Cross, secretary and Francis Parrot, treasurer.

A WEDDING NOVELTY.

Marriage Certificate Six Feet Long Engraved and Framed.

An expert engraver in Philadelphia tells of a recent society event in which an example of his work figured as the chief object of interest. This was a highly ornate marriage certificate, executed chiefly with a bamboo pen on the finest "Yellow Mill" drawing paper. The signature of the legally authorized Camden official who performed the ceremony was written with the same pen. When framed and hung above the folding-doors facing the dining-room of an uptown mansion, it measured six feet in length and twenty inches in width.

"The young couple were delighted with my work," said the engraver, "and after I had helped to conceal it with an artistic drapery of white silk, the wife remarked: 'I shall not undrape this until all our guests are seated at the table this evening, and then,' she added, with scornful emphasis, 'I guess they will know whether we are married or not.'"
