IN THE COKE REGION

Rioting and Raiding by Foreign Strikers.

WORKMEN ARE BRUTALLY BEATEN

United Mineworkers of America Order a General Strike--Opposing Breckinridge's Re-election.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 11.—War has begun again in the coke region, and rioting and raiding has been the programme since early morning. Fierce battles have been averted only by concessions on the part of the company. An armed mob of 400 strikers swooped down upon the plant of the Youngstown works. H. C. Frick & Co's workmen were brutally beaten. The strikers are all armed, and a serious conflict is unavoidable.

A General Strike Ordered.

COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—The united mineworkers of America have ordered a general strike April 21.

A Girl Buried Alive.

STOUT CTRY, Ia., April 11.—A few days ago the 15-year-old daughter of J. Luckish, of Cresco, had a tooth pulled while under the influence of an anesthetic. The next morning she was found dead in bed. The following day she was buried. Two or three days later some of the friends of the family, who feared that she had been buried too soon, secured permission of the parents to have the grave opened, and then it was found that the girl had been buried alive. The glass of the coffin was broken to fragments. The body was fearfully contorted, the hands out and bloodstained, and the hair torn out. The girl had turned over, and the body lay face downward.

Opposing Breckinridge's Re-Election.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 11.—Colonel Breckinridge's chances for being re-elected to congress from the Ashland district are becoming very slim. Cards are being written by the women of the district asking the people to oppose his making the race, and many men are working hard against what they say will blacken the reputation of the bluegrass country forever. Prof. J. B. Bones, of the Hamilton female school, is out in a two column-card in which he speaks plainly of Breckinridge. Captain J. C. Bryant, of Ashland, Ky., was in this city yesterday and said he did not believe Breckinridge would carry one county in the district.

Blaine's Daughter to be Married.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The marriage of Miss Hattie Blaine, daughter of the late Hon. James G. Blaine, to Hon. Truxton Beale, ex-minister to Persia and Greece, will take place Monday, April 30, at the Blaine residence, on Lafayette square. Owing to the death of the fathers of the bride and groom, the wedding will be private.

Crop-Weather Bulletin No. 3.

EASTERN OREGON.

Weather: The temperature was colder than the average and the rainfall deficient during the past week. The sunshine was about the average. Crops in the Columbia river valley counties are making rapid improvement since the ground has sufficient moisture and sunshine and warmer weather is mostly desired. The ground is in fairly good condition for the plow. Farmers are busy seeding. The acreage of wheat in Wasco county will be increased; in other counties the tendency is to decrease the acreage of wheat, and the cultivation of fruit is receiving more attention. A few persons are introducing the hop industry with the desire to diversify crops. Favorable weather conditions have advanced all grass crops and bloom. Strawberry vines are also in full bloom. Winter wheat is looking unusually well and there is sufficient grass for stock.

Crops in the interior and eastern counties: All hardy plants and grasses are thriving under the favorable weather conditions. The season of frost has not yet passed in this section, so that bloom is backward, only showing in favored spots. There are snowbanks in some valleys and the mountains are covered with snow, which cools the temperature so that the growth is slow. Very little seeding has been done. Cattle and sheep have been turned on the range and are doing well. There is plenty of water for irrigation purposes.

A Gentleman Who Got Pretty Thoroughly Disintegrated in a Railroad Wreck.

"A month or so ago," said the drummer to a Detroit Free Press man, "I stopped over night at a small tavern in Illinois and before retiring I sat for an hour in the room used for an office talking to two or three men, one of whom, a lame man, was to occupy the double room with me. I went up to bed some time before he did, and when he came I was snugly tucked away, but not asleep.

"By the way," he said, "you were talking about pensions downstairs, weren't you?"

"Yes, I rather believe in pensions, economically administered."

"So do I," he said, taking off his glasses, and with them a wax nose, which he laid on the table, somewhat to my discomfort, "but I don't believe in being indiscriminate—here he fished out a glass eye and put it in a tumbler of water and then took out his teeth and put them with the eye. I couldn't say anything, and he went on:

"I know men who are to-day getting from ten to fifty dollars a month—he removed his wig and hung it up carefully—who do not deserve it any more than my grandmother does, and I hate to see"—by this time he had off his coat and collar, and removing his left arm, he placed it on the bureau—"good deserving men getting a miserable little pittance whose records are stories of bravery and daring"—at this point he sat down, kicked off his trousers and one shoe, took off a cork leg and laid it by the arm, and I was about ready to jump out of the window.

"Good Lord, man! I almost yelled, as I sat up in bed, 'don't you get a pension?"

"Of course not," he answered, with a look of surprise. "I was in the army four years, but I got this in a railroad wreck, and the company had to put up fifty thousand dollars damages. That beats a pension all to pieces." Then he put on the light, hopped over to his own bed, and I had nightmare and jimmings till daylight, dressed with my eyes shut, and got out an hour before my distinguished friend did."

VICTOR.

Miss Susie Evick has returned from the city, where she has been visiting her friends.

The weather is good and crops are looking fine. Stockmen have drove their cattle off to the mountains.

Mrs. Evick, who has been very sick for two weeks, has recovered, thanks to Dr. Campbell for his medical skill.

Mr. F. M. Confer met with a great accident a few days ago, which caused much excitement. He ran against a stone and broke a plow clevis.

Dr. Evick started to The Dalles today near where he has a ranch and is going to build him a house. It is rumored he has a double purpose in view.

Dr. J. Campbell is ready to announce to the world that he is ready to cure all diseases with his new discovery, Native Heros. He has also built him a neat little cottage and is going to the city in a few days to get his furniture, but the piece of furniture he most desires is a wife—not over seventy nor under sixteen years of age.

KENT.

Politics are still the topic of the day. Mrs. Sheperd, of California is visiting with her father and mother.

Farmers are putting in their crops as fast as possible, as the season is late.

J. D. Wilcox started to Portland Saturday to attend the state convention.

Mrs. Blackabee of Wapinitia is visiting with her brothers, I. D. Wilcox and the Wilcox Bros.

Miss Mamie Morrison of Monkland has been engaged to teach a three months term of school at this place.

If we can get our better half to take us out next Saturday night we will try and give you a full report of the McKinley club next week.

The readers of THE CHRONICLE at this place say that they wish that you would give Mrs. Emily Thorn, who resides at Toledo, Wash., and O. W. Hardman, sheriff of Tyre Co. West Va., ten days rest and they will make up the lost time to them.

The Ellis-McKinley club met last Saturday night. Two men, a boy and a dog were all the republicans that came out. A few prohibitionists and populists went out, but I did not hear of any business being done or speeches being made. A meeting was called for next Saturday night.

UNCLE ISAAC.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attacks may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton.

A TACTFUL EMPRESS.

The Pretty Act of the Sweet-Natured Empress of Japan.

The empress of Japan, being that sweetest of all creatures, a womanly woman, has upon many occasions openly evinced her deep interest in the weavers of Japan, giving freely to all institutions that exist to benefit them in any way even practicing all sorts of touching little economies that she may be able to swell her contributions to certain charities that most interest her.

The conduct of this ideal woman upon a certain sad occasion her devoted subjects are never weary of describing. Prince Iwakura, fearless Japanese leader in the momentous days of the crisis—from which the lovely archipelago is still trembling in its subsidence to what seems assured stability—lay dying in his yashiki. The empress announced her intention of paying Iwakura a visit in person. The poor prince, weak, and, as I have said, about to die, was thrown into a dangerous state of excitement upon receiving the news, but he managed to borrow from some hidden nervous force sufficient strength to grasp his writing box and brushes and to paint her an urgent but most respectful request not to think of coming to him.

He forced upon her as excuse for declining so great an honor the fact of his rapidly-approaching death, and his consequent inability to acknowledge her visit with even a sixteenth part of the homage it demanded. He begged her to kindly consider how ill he must be when it remained an impossibility to throw off the malady even for her entertainment. In reply, winged with speed, came a dear little missive whose import was as follows:

"I come not as your empress, but as the daughter of your fond well wisher and coadjutor, and as your own anxious friend."

Shorn of all ostentation and display, the empress arrived and remained beside her grateful subject until his final summons.

Some years ago, when the imperial palace was burned, the unselfish empress, amid all the excitement and discomfort she was for the nonce called upon to endure in a hasty flight to a comfortless old yashiki, thinking first of her subjects' natural concern for her comfort, sat down and wrote them a dainty little rhyme, which proclaimed as erroneous the report that she had changed her residence. It coyly asserted that her home had always been in the hearts of her people, and that she sincerely hoped that neither by flame nor cold could she be driven from the dear abode.—N. Y. Journal.

Weight and Cost of the First Cable.

The original 1858 cable weighed 93 pounds per mile and had a conductor of seven copper wires of 22½ gauge. Price of deep sea wire per mile, $200; price of spun yarn and iron wire per mile, $205; cost of outside coating of tar and gutta-percha, $35 per mile; total cost per mile, $485. At $485 per mile the total cost of the 3,500 miles of deep sea wire was $1,712,500. To this add 25 miles of "shore end" wire, costing $1,450 per mile, and we find that the first ocean cable, exclusive of instruments, cost $1,250,000.
