REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

FRIDAY, - - - - APR 13, 189

For Congress, Second District, W. R. ELLIS, of Heppner. For Governor,

W. P. LORD, of Salem. For Secretary of State,

H. R. KINCAID, of Eugene. For State Treasurer,

PHIL. METSCHAN, of Grant County. For Supt. Public Instruction, G. M. IRVINE, of Union.

> For Attorney-General, C. M. IDLEMAN, of Portland. For State Printer,

W. H. LEEDS, of Ashland. For Prosecuting Attorney, 6th Dist., A. A. JAYNE, of Arlington.

For Representatives, T. R. COON, of Hood River. T. H. McGREER, of Antelope.

FOR STATE PRINTER.

"The nomination of W. H. Leeds for state printer was a complete surprise to that gentleman," said Mr. M. J. Anderson of Dufur, a returning delegate, this morning. "He did not expect more than to get a complimentary vote, and did not expect to be represented on the second ballot at all. The Southern Oregon delegation sat directly behind us, and during the nomination for state printer one of them leaned forward and said to me, 'why can't we do something for Leeds?' Then some one nominated him, and the galleries took up the cry, Leeds! Leeds! There was not a man of us knew who Leeds was or where he came from, but during the ovation, the delegates caught the infection and Leeds was all the go. He got a handsome majority, but the galleries nominated Leeds."

The writer is well acquainted with Mr. Leeds. He came to Ashland from California about a dozen years ago, penni-Bees, and started the publication of the Ashland Tidings. He was little more than a boy, but his natural industry, his correct habits, his push and intelligence, soon gave him high place in journalistic circles of that section, a place which he has ever since maintained. His greatest competitor and antagonist has been Chas. Nickell of the Jacksonville Times. Nickell is a veritable Jay Gould in a field much too small for his genius, and while he has pushed ahead of Leeds on circulation of his paper, the Times is neither so vivacious nor so brainy as the Tidings, which has been a powerful exponent of republican principles. The convention made Ino mistake in nominating Leeds, if the nomination was one of chance.

The march of Coxey's army has one good effect-it will take eastward and away from the coast a lot of worthless vagabonds who will be a long time drilling back again.

The platform adopted by the republican convention in Portland reaffirms the principles of the republican national platform of 1892; and affirms that a policy of protection is necessary; it also denounces the action of the democratic party in Congress. The platform declares, in relation to money: "We reaffirm the doctrine of the republican party in relation to money as stated in its national platform of 1892," and calls particular attention to that section of the platform which declares that the American people favored bimetalism."

The agitation of a year in Spokane to patronize home industries has borne good fruit. Notwithstanding the dull times the manufactories of that city are doing well and new ones are soon to be built. What is possible in Spokane is also possible here. We have a trunk manufactory, a cigar manufactory, a corset manufactory, a meat packing company, a flouring mill and a wagon manufactory, box factory, planing mills, and the latest is a machinery repair shop by Mr. Harry Clough. If our people will thou thy tears into thy bottle."

A TERRIBLE TEMPTATION. An English Physician's Hungry Experience in Africa. A real, fine old English gentleman was Dr. Thomas Gunton, who, while confabbing with a number of friends in a prominent Washington resort recently, related a number of interesting experiences in his career. His later years have been passed looking out for sick people in the Canadian wilds, but his younger days were marked with activity and no little adventure.

"What do you regard as about the most perilous position you were ever in, doctor?" asked a writer for the "Well," xusingly replied the doctor, "I am sure a circumstance that happened when, as a young man, I had the double office of supercargo and surgeon of an English trading vessel on the African coast, left a deeper and more painful impression on my mind than any other event in my life.

His listeners gathered somewhat and the doctor went on:

"Our captain and the ship's company generally were pretty well acquainted with the natives, and various kings and priests and other men in authority would frequently come abourd to get a bite of salt pork and once in awhile a glass of rum, etc., so it was not con sidered dangerous to go ashore and make little excursions into the interior. The natives were cannibals, but they knew whom to eat, and interest for their personal welfare prevented their mouths watering for the blood of an Englishman. I went ashore one day with the mate, who got the notion into his head that he wanted to kill two or three gorgeously plumaged birds, cure and dress their wing feathers and take them home to his sweetheart. We got separated in the jungle and I became lost. I had left my pocket compass aboard the ship and to save my life I couldn't locate myself. Well, I was in that forest for two days without a thing to eat before I was lucky enough to strike the coast, from which I had at no time been three miles distant. was starving. I think for the first time in my life I realized what hunger of Des Moines, Iowa, writes under date of

Here the doctor made a grimace. "Boys," he said, "as I got near the coast my nostrils met a most savory odor. It increased my torment of hunger tenfold, while my heart rejoiced at the prospect of food; but to my horror and fright I walked right into a group of niggers boiling a man. The remembrance of the temptation offered me clings to me yet. Weak as I was, however, I ran from the place lest I, too, should become a cannibal. If I had remained with those niggers in my starved condition I should have partaken of their awful broth. But I was safe, for a party from the ship I fainted away. That terrible temptation," the doctor continued. "was the one event of all my career that makes me gloomy whenever I think of it-and I almost always think of it."

Bottling Tears.

The custom of bottling tears in peculiar to the people of Persia. There it constitutes an important part of the obsequies of the dead. As the mourners are sitting round and weeping the master of ceremonies presents each one with a piece of cotton wool or sponge with which to wipe away the tears. The cotton wool or sponge is afterward squeezed into a bottle, and the tears are preserved as a powerful and efficacious restorative for those whom every other medicine has failed to revive. It is to this custom that allusion is made in Psalms lvi., 8:

It Was Served by a Roman Aristocrat and Cost Nearly $250,000.

1470 George Nevil was installed archbishop of York, England, and gave a feast of extravagant cost. Here are some of the supplies for the mighty spread: Eighty fatted oxen, 300 hogs, 10,000 sheep, 2,000 chickens, 4,000 ducks, 4,000 bucks, does and roebucks, 300 tuns of ale, 404 tuns of wine and other things in proportion. The total cost of Nevil's banquet was upward of $150,000. But the very costliest meal ever served, says the St. Louis Republic, as far as history ever shows, was a supper given by Aelin Verus, one of the most lavish of the latter-day Roman aristocrats. The supper was only intended for a dozen persons, yet its cost was 6,000 sestertia, which would amount to £48,500 (£18,500 more than Nevil's feast) in English money, or nearly $250,000. The celebrated feast given by Vitellius, a Roman emperor of those degenerate days, to his brother Lucius cost a fraction over $200,000. Suetonius says that this banquet consisted of 2,000 different dishes of fish and 7,000 different fowls, besides other courses in proportion. Vitellius, fortunately for the world, did not reign very long, otherwise the game preserves of Libya, Spain and Britain would have been exhausted. It may not be out of place to mention here that it is recorded as a curious point of history that a single dish on the table of Emperor Heliogabulus was worth $200,000.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon. Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these
