SALARIES RESTORED

Judge Dundy's Orders to the Union Pacific Receivers.

DOINGS OF THE INDUSTRIALS

The Leaders of Coxe's Army at Log-gerheads--President Dole Drawing Up a Constitution.

OMAHA, April 13.—Judge Dundy has ordered the wages of Union Pacific employes restored to the old rate. The orders apply to employes whose wages were cut last September. Where the men receive less than $60 per month the increase is to date the 1st of last March. The increase of others will date from April 1st.

The Industrial Army.

ADDISON, Pa., April 13.—Coxey's army today began its tramp over the mountains. Many would desert but fear the Winchester of the mountaineers. A clash of authority occurred between Coxey, Browne and Smith, who detest each other. Coxey has disappeared, ostensibly in search of provisions.

Bread for Kelley's Army.

CHEYENNE, April 13.—The bakers have been working all night to prepare for Kelley's army. Members of the army generally desire to go to Denver and probably will do so. Trainers pronounce the recruits orderly, having no trouble on the trip. The army is expected at 3 p. m.

FROM HONOLULU.

President Dole is Busy Drawing Up the New Constitution.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—The steamer Monowai arrived today with Samoan advices up to March 28 and Honolulu news of April 6.

Quietness prevails at Honolulu. President Dole is reported busy drawing up the new constitution to be submitted to the convention to be held in May. The proposed convention is now the main subject of discussion. The election of delegates to it to be held May 2, and the registration of voters is now proceeding. Only 547, however, have yet taken the oath necessary to qualify as electors. These are nearly all whites and Portuguese. The royalists are exerting every influence to keep the natives from going to the polls, arguing that the provisional government is not the government of the Hawaiian people. The new constitution as proposed by Dole will provide for an executive council, as at present constituted, and a legislature to be formed by appointment. The upper house or senate will be composed of 24 members appointed by the president, vice-president and the executive council for two years. In the lower house 40 members will be appointed by the executive council and senators. When the executive council, senators and assemblymen have been agreed upon, they are to be called together to promulgate a second constitution and to fix the date of a general election of government officials.

Another London Scandal.

LONDON, April 13.—A well-known instructor of music, having the entree of the most aristocratic society and a member of several prominent clubs, has fled the country as a result of exposure. He taught music in an institution attended by the daughters of the best families, and by casting a religious glamor over his acts accomplished the ruin of ten or a dozen young ladies. The rules of the institution require three ladies to be present when instruction was being given, but this was prevented by two keeping guard so that the professor and the third lady could not be interrupted. This caused the pupils to intrigue with each other for their own destruction. His wife was a consenting party, having been persuaded, like the girls, that the old sins were the rites of a new religion, of which the professor was the prophet. Several girls fled with the professor. The names are kept from the public.

To Head For The Cave.

It is said on good authority that an expedition will leave Portland on or about July 1, heading for the recently discovered great cave situated in Josephine county at the southern extremity of this state. While no one as yet knows the full extent of this "hole in the ground," explorations have been made far enough to disclose the fact that the famous Mammoth cave of Kentucky is by far its inferior in every particular. Another party is being organized at San Francisco for the same purpose, that of exploring the cave. The excursion from the city of Portland will make the trip on horseback, with pack animals, visiting en route Three Sisters, Diamond Peak, Crater Lake, Mount Pike, Fort Klamath and Klamath reservation. The company will contain several Eastern tourists in addition to an artist and geologist. Ranch Bill, the scout, has been secured to lead the expedition. —Telegram.

ASTONISHED INDIANS.

They Thought a Red-Haired Paleface Something of a Freak of Nature.

Twenty years ago the Indians in Colorado knew but little of the white man, and nothing hardly of his ways or habits except from tradition. Among the people who went to settle in Colorado at that time, says Golden Days, was a man with very red hair. He and his party were thrown among the Indians, who thought at first that his hair was painted, just as they painted their own bodies and faces.

An old chief came up to him one day and looked at his hair very carefully. "Ugh!" said he.

And then, turning to the interpreter who had the party in charge, he wanted him to ask the man where he got the kind of paint that would color, and yet not be greasy or look dauby. He was told that the man's hair was not painted, but he would not believe it. He once more walked up to the man and scrutinized his locks, running his hand through them and looking at his fingers.

The red-haired man became a little nervous, and half fancied that the chief was calculating how nice a red scalp would look hung to his belt. The interpreter, however, laughingly told the man what the chief had said.

Two or three more of the Indians then gathered around the party, and they and the interpreter had a pow-wow. Finally the interpreter asked the man if he would object to putting water on his hair.

He saw that the Indians would not believe but that it was painted, until they saw that the water would not wash the color out. The man took some water, rubbed it on his hair and then showed his hands to them. But it took four or five days of wondering examination to convince them that he had not found some peculiar paint, and got himself up in a bright red suit of hair.

"Slug Three" at the California Mid-winter Exposition.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10, '93.

Editor CHRONICLE:

It is a very difficult thing for one who is trying to "do" a city like San Francisco in two or three weeks to find time in which to write, especially when writing is out of their line. But when the city has about "done" them, there is nothing left to do but to take a few hours "off" and in the meantime scribble a few lines for fear the threats made in case a letter was not forthcoming may be carried out.

As to the trip down: So calm was the ocean that but few of the many passengers on board the Columbia have any idea from that trip what rocking on the billows really means, indeed I must say it seemed so much like a trip down the Columbia river that I was somewhat disappointed, for when one has determined to try all of the cures for seasickness which has been given by friends its too bad to miss a good chance. We were also very fortunate in having on board as jolly a crowd as could be imagined, among whom were the councilmen of Omaha, Neb., twenty-two in number. Then there were two professors of music and one comedian among the passengers, so you see we had concerts, dances, etc., but to me walking or sitting on deck was far ahead of sitting in music hall even though we were highly entertained. Well, when we reached the city, we were somewhat disappointed in not finding the mayor down to meet us, but got into a sort of a dry goods box with wheels on, where a man charged us five cents to let him punch holes in a piece of cardboard, and were soon at a hotel. Now if any one from The Dalles is a comin' down here, they'd better not stay at a hotel, for in the one where we stayed there was a pipe which must have connection with the lower regions, for when you turn a little screw and put a match to it it burns, and if you blow it out you're liable to die of gastric fever, and go to the other end of the pipe.

Now San Francisco is a "right smart little town," and compares very favorably with The Dalles, only they don't have crushed rock on their streets. I'm goin' to tell 'em about it. A good many of the streets must have been built for toboggan slides, they're all up and down hill, and although the view of the bay and golden gate is beautiful when once at the top, one is compelled to take a car if they intend to go more than a few blocks. The weather at present is all that could be wished for, and one does not need a wrap or overcoat except very early in the morning or late at night. The flowers here are wonderful, and on every corner may be seen large baskets of violets, roses, lilacs and numerous flowers for sale, which in Eastern Oregon are just leading out; but the fruit trees are just blossoming.

We spent one day of last week in Oakland, and it is certainly a delightful place in which to live. While there we met several former Dallesites, among them Mr. H. Glasier and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Nichols.

You will no doubt be surprised that we were in the city a number of days before attending the fair. Not because, as is commonly reported at home, it is a "midwinter imposition," but because so many other things have attracted, and we knew the fair would keep. Of course I suppose the opinion of a "haysced," who has few opportunities of seeing any larger cities than Grand Dalles, and that through a field glass, or of mingling with the outside world generally, would hardly be authority; but our party has decided that our visit to a few of the buildings yesterday; indeed I may say the art building, has fully repaid us for coming, and some of our party may be considered judges. The illumination in the evening is grand, and as we watched the electric fountain playing and listened to the fine band last night, we were "glad we were livin'." The attendance yesterday was not large, but Sunday there were 14,000 on the grounds. We visited Golden Gate Park that day, and, as is the case with everything else to be seen, although to us it is worthy of a good description, we are not competent to attempt it.

Tomorrow is Berkeley day, as well as rose day at the exposition, and will no doubt be one of the days, and we intend to make the most of it. When we have seen more of the fair will be able to tell more about it. However, if you are not sorry that you insisted on our writing, am afraid that some of our readers may make you so by "stopping a paper" which contains such nonsense. If so, charge it up to
