AN OCEAN COMBAT.

The Terrific Battle Between a Whale and Three Orcas.

Examples Before Whom the Giant of the Ocean Flees in Terror—Their Singular Method of Attacking the Monster.

Hank Welsh, who has followed whaling for many years, was lucky enough to be one of a crew beyond the gulf of the Holy Cross last spring that came upon a large whale in a distress, surrounded by three monster orcas, or billers, which had him winded and badly wounded. The story of the fight was told as follows by Welsh to the San Francisco Chronicle:

"We saw a big broadhead half a mile away to windward, and he kept a jumping so hard that we knew he was in trouble. When we got closer we saw some thrashers or billers afool of him, and the water for an acre or two around was bloody. The orcas were pretty big ones and very vicious, especially one which was fully twenty feet long, and when the whale went down a few fathoms this old boy rushed down after him, and gave it to him hard. You see a whale can stay under about half an hour, and he can go down four or five hundred fathoms without minding the pressure, but he can't do a single submarine trick ahead of an orca. These orcas sometimes chase a whale so hard that when he hits the bottom he breaks his jawbone. Well, this old orca followed the whale so savagely that he did not stay down over five minutes at a time, and when he came up he was jumped on by the other two, which kept watch on him like two hungry wolves. When he saw the ferocious gang he seemed to lose heart, for they were too quick for him. I think he was just about worn out or down-hearted or something, for he anchored for a second. This gave the big orca a chance to slide up and catch him by the under lip and bite a piece out. The old fellow lashed and dived, but down went another orca after him.

"When the whale came up the orca had him by the lip, and the third one caught him by the tongue. Now, a whale's tongue is six feet long and weighs as much as a man. The way the orcas jerked it all out of him piece by piece and then ate off his lower lip in spite of all he could do beat all the fights under the sun. How that whale did suffer till we got up and let a dynamite bomb into him. When Bill Peters lanced him he seemed to enjoy it, for he turned over and died easily."

It seems to be agreed among all whalers that no fight ever seen equals the awful combats which these sea monsters wage against one another with unflinching ferocity. The orca is the only grampus or warm-blooded animal of the ocean that constantly preys upon warm-blooded creatures of his own kind, preferably the whale, the largest of his species. The orca's habits are predatory and his strength and ferocity are remarkable.

"The orcas often travel with swordfish," said Capt. Thompson, an old whaler, "and I have sometimes seen a whole school in combat with four or five orcas and a few swordfish. When the swordfish get under a whale and the orcas commence to tear his under lip and tongue, which are choice morsels for them, he seems to know his days are numbered. I don't know how long a whale can live after these savage creatures attack him, but our crews have found several carcasses of whales which had bled to death from the wounds thus inflicted by their enemies. I have also seen broken-backed orcas which had been struck by a whale's fluke."

THE STING OF THE NETTLE.

Some of the Poisonous Vegetable Monsters of Other Lands.

The leaf and stem of a nettle are literally clothed with erect hollow hairs. If one of these hairs is viewed under a microscope it will be seen that its free end, after tapering to a very fine degree of slowness, finishes as a little knob, while in the other direction, after gradually becoming more robust, it suddenly expands into a large bulb corresponding with the poison gland of the adder.

The point of the hair, says Good Words, is very brittle, and contact with our skin causes the end to snap off, leaving a hollow needle point which readily pierces our cuticle, and, pressing upon the bulb at the other end, the poison is forced through the central channel and inflames our blood. The tenderhanded who stroke the nettle are stung for their pains, because their gentleness has only served to break the brittle points and render them fit for piercing, but the rough-handed break the hairs at their thickest parts, where they are too stout to prick.

Our common nettles, though they are capable of inflicting considerable annoyance upon many persons, are too insignificant, nevertheless, to be included among vegetable monsters, and we have only referred to them for the sake of making clear the enormities of some big cousins—giants of the nettle family. These are, first, the Urtica stimularis and Urtica crenulata of the East Indies, species whose attack upon one's hand is sufficient to cause the arm to swell with a most frightful pain, which lasts for weeks. But even these are milk-and-water nettles by comparison with the Urtica urentissima, which grows in Timor, where it bears the significant title of Daoum setan, or devil's leaf. The effects of its sting last for a year and have often produced death.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

A SENSIBLE husband in hand is worth a dozen heroes in dreamland.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says a neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so had he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists.

POST OFFICE SUPPLIES.

Vast Quantities Are Used and They Are Supplied from Washington.

All the supplies required by the 65,000 post offices in this country are furnished from Washington. These post offices require six tons of stationery every working day. They consume 25,000 pounds of jute wrapping twine every week. This twine comes in balls and, according to contract, each ball has four inches of string sticking out of its middle. Thus employes are induced to start unwrapping from that end. Formerly they were as apt as not to begin with the wrong extremity, winding up with a tangle, so that a quarter of each ball on an average was wasted.

The 65,000 post offices use up 100 reams of manilla paper blanks every day. One of these is put on the outside of every package of letters sent out from post offices, bearing the name of the sending post office, the date, etc. Half a million lead pencils are consumed annually in Uncle Sam's postal service, as well as 7,500 quarts of mullage, 1,500 quarts of ink, 10,000 pounds of rubber bands and 15,000 gross of pens. The pens alone cost $5,000 every twelve months. For mailing postmarks 25,000 ink pads and 30,000 pounds of stamping ink per annum are required. Six million cards are used every year for registered letter receipts. Weighing scales for mail are an expense to the government of $9,000 every year, 200 a week being needed to replace those which are worn out, broken or burned up with post offices.
