

IN GLASS. That's the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. And it's a more important point than you think. It keeps them always fresh and reliable, unlike the ordinary pills in cheap wooden or pastboard boxes.

They're put up in a better way, and they act in a better way, than the huge, old-fashioned pills. No gripping, no violence, no reaction afterward that sometimes leaves you worse off than before. In that way, they cure permanently. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts—the smallest in size, the easiest to take, and cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. There's nothing likely to be "just as good."

PETTY DISHONESTY.

The Little Impositions That Some Women Think All Right.

A Charming Girl Who Was Highly Elated at Her Success in Bluffing a Street Car Conductor Out of a Nickel.

The readiness and enthusiasm with which fair women will beat the restaurant keepers, soda water dispensaries, railroad companies and all other institutions of civilization for the collection of nickels, dimes or other small change is one of the strangest phenomena of these fast-striding days.

I was discussing a lunch the other day with a very charming girl, says a lady writer in the New York Herald. The first thing she said after removing her gloves and arranging her rings so that they would show to the very best advantage to the other women present was:—

"Well, my ride down town didn't cost me a cent. That stupid conductor never came around for my fare."

Here she held up the nickel exultantly and laughed in an almost fustian glee.

At the moment a pretty blonde girl passed our table and saluted my companion. The sight of the nickel which seemed to inspire pleasant thoughts. She stopped and began to giggle. Then they giggled together and winked at each other.

"That nickel reminds me of something funny, Susie," laughed the blonde girl, whose costume cost her husband a cool three hundred dollars. "I have ridden in five horse cars to-day and it hasn't cost me a cent."

My companion instantly grew serious and knitted her pretty brows. "How did you manage it?" she inquired, eagerly.

"Easily enough," retorted the blonde beauty. "In two cases the impudent conductor never even asked me for my fare, and of course I didn't call him and beg to be taxed. Three of the cars I rode on were crowded, and when I boarded them others did so at the same time. The conductor was way up in front. He didn't know who or how many got on."

"Finally he came around with his eternal cry of 'Fare, please!' I looked straight ahead of me, for I wanted to see what he would do. He passed and repassed, collecting nickels from idiotic women who were fumbling in their purses. Each time he looked suspiciously at me. At last he said, soppingly: 'Have I got your fare, ma'am?' I looked over his head as haughtily as I could. He became humble. 'Did I get your fare, lady?' he hisped. 'How many fares do you want?' I replied, sternly. At that the poor man faded away to the back platform, thoroughly crestfallen. Several good-looking fellows glared as if they had a mind to throw him out of the window."

The girls laughed long over this experience, but when the blonde charmer was gone I remarked savagely that I thought such tactics dishonest.

"Nonsense!" observed my lady, laconically, and refused any further discussion.

In due time the waiter brought me my check.

"Let me see it," said my beautiful philanthropist. Of course she got it. She studied it for a moment seriously, then an amused expression crept around the tempting mouth and finally she burst into a peal of laughter.

"See," she said, eagerly, bending across the table. "He has cheated himself out of fifty cents. Now, don't be a simpleton and have him correct it. It's none of your business, anyway."

But I thought it a first-rate opportunity for a lesson in morals. I called the waiter and showed him where he had erred and you may believe he was profoundly grateful.

As I collected my change and rose to go I noticed an ominous frown settling over his lovely brow and I am sure the word "fool" issued from between her set teeth.

DIABOLICAL INTELLIGENCE.

Instances of the Treachery and Wickedness of the Elephant.

According to my observation, the elephant is intelligent in a diabolical way at times, but rarely ever up to the mark when its intelligence would be useful. So with its docility. That quality is prominent, no doubt, when the exhibition of it is convenient to the elephant, but one often looks for it in vain when it is needed for the convenience of any other living creature. Then the elephant is a revengeful beast. It is treacherous often, and with few exceptions, an arrant coward.

How very uncertain the docility of an elephant may be, and how revenge may be substituted for that quality, was illustrated by an event that is fresh in my mind, says a writer in Blackwood's Magazine. A mahout tried to drive his elephant into the center of a newly-excavated tank. The elephant found out with its trunk that a hole of some depth was just before it and would not move. The mahout persisted, and urged the recalcitrant elephant with the iron goad, (the gujbag,) and, after a short conflict, the elephant seized the mahout with its trunk, dragged him off his seat on its neck, and, placing him below its forefeet, trampled the life out of him.

This animal had some reason for being annoyed by its driver, but there is nothing to be said in extenuation of another elephant that, apropos of nothing, tossed me with its tusk. I was feeding that brute in the eventide, when the day's work was done and this toiler, with others, had to be tended and encouraged. I was feeding it with delicacies dear to the elephantine palate, and, without rhyme or reason, that docile and intelligent creature butted me into the air, no doubt with a benevolent intention of impaling me that was frustrated by my offering no resistance to the tusk and by the bluntness of that weapon.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.
 As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

THE SHORTEST TWILIGHT.

Quito, the Capital of Ecuador, Leads the World in This Particularity.

The period of twilight shortens toward the equator and lengthens toward the poles. In other words, the less the thickness of air through which the rays of the setting sun have to pass the sooner darkness comes. From this it naturally follows that the region of the shortest twilight is the one which is situated nearest to the equator and at the greatest elevation.

These two conditions are combined in the region in which stands Quito, the capital of Ecuador. This plateau is nine thousand four hundred and forty-two feet above the level of the sea; it is also surrounded by mountains, twenty peaks, eleven of which rise beyond the snow line, being visible from the streets of the city. Added to this it is only fifteen miles south of the equator; hence it has a shorter twilight than any other spot on the equator, partly because of the elevation, and partly because the western mountains intercept the rays of the setting sun and so cause darkness to follow daylight with greater rapidity than at any other spot on earth.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Maddison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says a neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists.
