

LADY BAKER.

Her Peculiar and Rather Romantic Marriage to the African Explorer. In all the obituary notices that have appeared of the African explorer and traveler, Sir Samuel Baker, there is not one of them, says the New York Recorder, that draws attention to the very peculiar, and to a certain extent romantic circumstances of his second marriage, certain matters in connection with which earned for him the ill will and disfavor of his sovereign. At the time when Sir Samuel started out on his eventful journey up the River Nile which was to win for him both his fame and his title he had no idea that his undertaking would turn out so great a success, and, being unwilling to restrict himself to the society of the dusky beauties of the Sudan, he persuaded one of the German girls who formed the band of musicians that performed nightly in an Esbekiah cafe chantant at Cairo to accompany him on his trip. The girl happened, unlike the majority of her companions, to be a woman of singularly strong character, and played a notable and prominent part in the expedition and in the exploration, contributing greatly to the success thereof. On Baker's return northwest the fame of his doings and those of his fair companion preceded him, and when he reached Cairo he found that all England was ringing with the splendid conduct of the lady, whom the newspapers and the public designated as his wife. It was too late for Baker to explain that the lady was not entitled to bear his name, so he made the best of the matter and at the same time paid his deep debt of gratitude toward her by marrying her very quietly at Cairo. A reference to the records there will show that the wedding took place not before his departure for the Sudan, but on his return. On reaching England he was immediately summoned to Windsor castle, with his wife, and after he had related to her majesty some of the principal events of his journey she commanded him to kneel, and, tapping him on the shoulder with a sword, exclaimed: "Arise, Sir Samuel!" The queen was also very gracious to his wife, who had now become Lady Baker, and it was only several months later that she discovered the true facts of the case. From that time forth Sir Samuel was not honored with any more invitations to Windsor, and Lady Baker was not only never permitted to appear at court, but was even subjected to a mild kind of ostracism by society. This she scarcely deserved, for since her marriage she proved herself to be a most estimable and honorable woman, in my opinion, as in that of many others, infinitely superior in every way to her garrulous and somewhat mendacious husband.

MAGNIFICENT CONTEMPT.

A Little Story Which Shows How Decent Appearances Are. A good story showing how appearances are sometimes deceitful comes from Russia. At a certain famous restaurant in St. Petersburg six somewhat dandy officers of the Imperial Horse Guards sat drinking champagne. Not far from them sat an insignificant little man with a shabby and an unkempt beard, and a glass of liquor in front of him.

It was not long before he became aware that he was being ridiculed by the officers. By and by, as they became more and more offensive in their remarks on his personal appearance, etc., he called for the waiter and said: "Bring six bottles of your best champagne!" The waiter hesitated. "Did you hear what I said?" asked the little man. The waiter brought the wine and six glasses. "Take these glasses away and fetch a basin—one as large as you can find," said the man. The waiter again hesitated, but obeyed instantly at the peremptory repetition of the order. "A piece of soap!" was the next order. It was brought. "A towel!" The waiter handed him one. "Now open the bottles!" The waiter did so. The little man now filled the basin with the contents of the six bottles, rolled up his sleeves, washed himself in the costly fluid, wiped his hands, laid a one hundred rouble note on the table and, casting a look of withering contempt on the officers, strutted out of the room.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury. As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per per bottle.

Floral Love Letters.

When the petals of the great aural magnolia are touched, however lightly, the result is a brown spot, which develops in a few hours. This fact is taken advantage of by a lover, who pulls a magnolia flower, and on one of its pure white petals writes a motto or message with a hard, sharp-pointed pencil. Then he sends the flower, the young lady puts it in a vase of water and in three or four hours the message written on the leaf becomes visible and remains so.

Mr. F. C. Selous, the famous African hunter, has shot more than one hundred elephants and at least twenty lions. On one occasion he accomplished the unprecedented feat of killing three full-grown lions with four shots. The flesh of the lion is, he says, capital eating. "Lion pie is almost as good as veal pastry, and quite as white."

THE revenue of the Russian empire during last year amounted to 579,885,000 roubles, and the expenditures to 780,899,000 roubles.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Maddison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says a neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so had he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakey & Houghton, druggists.

NOTICE.

To All Whom It May Concern: By order of the Common Council of Dalles City, made and entered on the 8th day of April, 1894, notice is hereby given that said City Council is about to proceed to order and make the improvement of Eighth street in said city, as hereinafter stated, and that the cost of such improvement will be levied upon the property adjacent thereto, and said improvement will be made unless within fourteen days from the final publication of this notice, the owners of two-thirds of the property adjacent to said street about to be improved shall file their remonstrance against such improvement as by charter provided. The improvement contemplated and about to be made is as follows: To improve Eighth street in said city by building a sidewalk six feet wide on the south side thereof from Pentland street to Court street. Said sidewalk shall be built, constructed and erected in accordance with the provisions of an ordinance to define and establish the width and manner of building sidewalks in Dalles City, being ordinance No. 270, which passed the Common Council of Dalles City May 10th, 1893, except as otherwise hereinbefore specified. Dated this 9th day of April, 1894. DOUGLAS S. DUFUR, Recorder of Dalles City.
