important that, as far as possible, every part be sound. The inhabitants of eastern cities and towns have thought that political shade means a great deal, and the way former democratic towns have this year swung into the republican column has no other meaning than dissatisfaction with the democratic party as a whole. If the towns of Oregon go democratic so will the state. It is consequently important this year to vote the republican ticket and vote it straight.

The republican party has endeavored to induce the people of the United States to grow and manufacture their own sugar and not pay high prices for a foreign product which should be grown and sold much more cheaply to home consumers. The success of the policy may be judged when it is stated that the production of beet sugar in the United States during 1893, amounted to 44,953,-259 pounds, a large percentage of which was produced in California. The factory at Chino, turned out 15,063,040 pounds, and Almeda 4,486,572 pounds. The Norfolk, Nebraska factory had an output of 4,107,300 pounds, and Grand Island 1,835,000 pounds. Utah and Virginia produced 3,887,100 and 43,995 pounds respectively. There were 200,323 tons of beets consumed, requiring 24,000 acres of land to produce them. At four cents a pound the sugar was worth $1,320,000, and $$60,000 was received in bounties. Farmers received $900,000, or an average per acre of $37.50. Oregon has the climate and soil to raise sugar beets and the industry should be started.

How Grant Became a Smoker

The following is from an interview with Colonel Fredrick D. Grant about his father, in McClure's magazine for Mav "My father," said Colonel Grant.

tried to smoke while at West Point, but only because it was against the regulations; and then he didn't succeed very well at it. He really got the habit from smoking light eigars and eigarettes during the Mexican war, but it wasn't a fixed habit. When he left the army and lived in the country, he smoked a pipenot incessantly. I don't think that he was very fond of tobacco then, and really there was always a popular misconception of the amount of his smoking. But he went on as a light smoker, a casual smoker, until the day of the fall of Fort Donelson. Then the gun-boats having been worsted somewhat, and Admiral Foote having been wounded, he sent ashore for my father to come and see him. Father went aboard, and the admiral, as is customary, had his cigars passed. Father took one and was smoking it when he went ashore. There he was met by a staff officer, who told him that there was a sortie and the right wing had been struck and smashed in. Then my father started for the scene of operations. He let his cigar go out, naturally, but held it between his fingers. He rode hither and yon, giving orders and directions, still with the cigar stump in his hand. The result of his exertions was that Fort Donelson fell after he sent his message of Unconditional Surrender,' and 'I propose to move immediately upon your works.' With the message was sent all over the country the news that Grant was smoking throughout the battle, when he only had carried this stump from Foote's flagship. But the cigars began to come in from all over the Union. He had eleven thousand cigars on hand in a very short time. He gave away all he could, but he was surrounded with cigars and he got to smoking them regularly. But he never smoked

THE PROPER INFLECTION.

Women Know How to Use It Whe Saying "Thank You." It is to be regretted-wholly in the interest of her sex-that the woman who thanks a gentleman for surrender ing to her his seat in the cars does not speak up boldly and cheerfully as if she really meant what she said. It has been, long maintained by our foreign critics, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch, that the English language lacks flexibility, nice shades of meaning, the quality of expression, compared to other tongues. But after careful observation at home and abroad I am satisfied that the lack of expression is rather in the English speaker than in the language.

There are an infinite number of shades of which this little "Thank yon" is susceptible, as anyone about town knows. It may be uttered in such a way as to make the blood tingle with indignation. It can be said with such grace and sweetness that the recipient will carry the memory of itas the memory of some delicious per-fume, or beautiful picture, or sympa-thetic strain of music—all through the long day of business cares. For such a reward as this thousands of men have suffered uncomplaining, have endured the tortures of the inquisition, have fought, bled and died upon the battlefield. It would seem a very simple thing, but the graces and polite-ness and gentleness of speech which distinguished the women of the chivalric age are now almost wholly un known.

When women talk of the decay of chivalry in men they forget that men are what women make them. Men are the exact reflection of their mothers and sisters and wives. Through the history of the men of the past we have accurate knowledge of the character of the women of that time. As it is impossible for the fountain to rise higher than its source, so it is impossible for men to rise higher than their sisters.

The Oregonian says: "Coffin manufacture is a thriving home industry of the Dalles." The Dalles is neither dead nor sleeping. It has no use for an institution of that kind. Undertaking business will be a profitable one June 5th in some democratic camps of Oregon. Probably Dallas, Polk county, is meant.

The republican party is the friend of the poor man and always has been. The latest instance is recorded Saturday. The democrats and populists combined against the republicans when Dolph tried to bring up the senate bill to reimburse settlers on lands within the forfeited railroad grants $1.25 per acre, and thus prevented it from coming to an issue. This is only one instance out of hundreds where republican measures to benefit the settler, the soldier or the operative has been combatted by-their political opponents, though there is pleasure in saying this opposition seldom prevails.

The republican county ticket is composed of men well and favorably known throughout the county and any voter need have no hesitancy about voting the straight ticket when he goes to the polls. To scratch a single name is to register an opinion against the principles of the republican party. These principles must be victorious, and it is one of the greatest mistakes to suppose that politics have nothing to do with county officers. A state is composed of counties and the states compose the nation and democratic supremacy in even a municipality adds just that much to the influence and power of that party in the nation. The whole is composed of its parts and it is Stove Polish

Dried Fruit Weights.

The reason for the variation in the weight of dried fruits when packed in large or small packages is the subject of an article in the London Grocer. Currants, being semi-dried, gain some-what in weight when in bulk, but when packed in small cartons the tendency is for them to lose weight. Sultana raisins are cured in boiling oil and gain weight when in small packages MACHINERY Valencia raisins are cured by being dipped into lye and diminish in weight both in large and small packages. Of course the apartment where the fruits are kept has something to do with it, and the paper constituting the wrapper may gain in weight, one grocer at the seaside reporting that his "pound" packages weighed seventeen ounces.

Superstition. A gentleman who had been dining at a restaurant, and who often ordered a dozen oysters, counted them one day and found but eleven. Still another day he counted them, with the same result. Then he said to the waiter:

"Why do you give me only eleven oysters when I order a dozen?" "Oh, sir," answered the waiter, "I didn't think you'd want to be settin' thirteen at table, sir!"-Youth's Companion
