APRIL ANNOTATIONS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Mr. Wm. Floyd of 5-Mile delivered three loads of wool at the Wasco warehouse today.

The grand officers of the Masonic fraternity were given a sumptuous banquet at Fraternity hall last evening.

The Rockland Ferry Company took up their cable today on account of high water. The present stage of the river prevents its use.

Several parties are hauling gravel and clay to cover the coarse rock on Second street. It is understood the city will adopt the same course on the squares.

Another large crowd gathered at Wingate hall Saturday night, the event of another one of those delightful soirees under the management of James Smith.

The "Evans & Sontag" company is endeavoring to give exhibitions in Southern Oregon towns, but without success. The various city councils will not permit it.

The first dance for the new armory hall was given last night. About thirty-five couples tried the new floor and the orchestra played some beautiful musical selections.

The total number of scholars in school District No. 12, Dalles City, is 1,057—103 more than last year. The April apportionment made by the school superintendent is $1 per capita.

Tomorrow the famous "Si Perkins" comedy company will amuse the people of The Dalles. Their street parade tomorrow will be an amusing feature which everybody should see. The press speak highly of the merits of the company.

There are no new developments regarding the shooting of young Charles Malarkey and robbery of the county treasury vault on Saturday. Mr. Malarkey's condition is greatly improved and it is expected his recovery will be speedy. County Treasurer Malarkey yesterday completed the balancing of his books, and finds that the entire amount of money missing is $494.45.—Oregonian.

A Long Interior Water Trip.

A very pretty little steam launch came up the river yesterday, containing three occupants, bound for the Salmon river mining country by all water route. Chas. W. Mahon, a civil engineer and practical miner, seems to be the leader, E. S. Adams, an electrical engineer, is a partner, and a younger man who is a friend of the two, comprise the crew. The launch is about 18 feet long, propelled by a gas engine, weighs 1,400 pounds, and carries provisions, bedding and clothing for a protracted stay in the mountains. A little boat with watertight compartments, is taken for a tow, containing other necessities. The ordinary speed of the launch is about eight miles an hour. The men will have the boats hauled above Celilo, where they will again be put on the Columbia. At Snake river they will enter its mouth, and proceed up that stream to Salmon river. They will then ascend that stream till their objective point is reached, some rich placer diggings about 60 miles south of Elk City. They said the only reason they took the boat route was because that was the only way they could get there now. It would be interesting to follow their adventures during the course of the next several months, for they will doubtless have many of them, but on leaving they will probably forever pass out of our knowledge.

The Agricultural College.

CORVALLIS, Or., April 24, '94. Rev. Prichard of Albany visited the school last Monday morning. Prof. Crote is experimenting with hops, which will be watched with much interest throughout the state. Fruit is abundant. Several green pairs have been seen under the shade trees during the last few days. Quite a large number of juniors girls are studying trigonometry. With them it is an optional study and we are glad to see them taking such interest in higher mathematics. Miss Nellie Hogue, a graduate of this school, is teaching at Little Elk.

KINGSLEY.

It covers a good deal of ground—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And when you hear that it cures so many diseases, perhaps you think "it's too good to be true." But it's only reasonable. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength restorer, nothing like "Discovery" is known to medical science. The diseases that it cures come from a torpid liver, or from impure blood. For everything of this nature, it is the only guaranteed remedy. In dyspepsia, biliousness; all bronchial, throat and lung affections; every form of scrofula, even consumption (or lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages, and in the most stubborn skin and scalp diseases—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Chronic nasal catarrh positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cents; by druggists.

A Lively Demand for Horses in Democratic Times.

Mr. May, of the Troutdale stock yards, is in the city for the purpose of buying horses. He will pay cash for any number offered, according to weight, 1/2 cent a pound. This may seem like a queer way of buying horses, but considering the use to which they are to be put, it is the fairest. The best use that these valuable allies to man's use and comfort can make in these democratic times is to use them for fertilizers, and they are to be slaughtered by the wholesale, their blood and bones going to the sugar refineries, and their flesh to the fields to boom strawberries and water-mellons. "Great Caesar, dead and turned to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away." The horse, a noble friend to man, a tireless uncomplaining worker, willing to bear any burden or pull any load, can nowadays be put to no more fitting use than to kill him for the sake of his inert carcasses. Degeneracy, thy name is democracy.

Changing Medicine.

ANTELOPE, April 22, 1894. The past history of the republican party of Wasco county goes to show that they are the most liberal men in the state. For years they have been electing democratic county officers for our county. They knew our liberality, and they were shrewd in putting up before the people to head their tickets such men as J. B. Crossen and T. A. Ward and many other old timers, men that grew up with the county, and men that command the full respect of all the voters in the county, men they knew would be hard to cover up with anything short of Mount Hood. We believe the same men are good, charitable fellows and are willing to return the compliment this year, for they have come out and declared the fact by saying at their county convention that "we indorse every act of Grover Cleveland." Men who can stand up in the city of The Dalles, when the doors of all the business houses are the same as on Sunday, closed seven days in the week, bankers and merchants, hotel keepers, dodging into alleys and out-of-the-way places when they see the country people, for fear they are coming to ask for credit, fourteen months ago met these same people with a hearty shaking of hands and asking at the same time "what can I sell you today?" When men can face all this and say "we indorse free trade and the acts of Cleveland," they have turned the votes of their party to the side that is calling for help to make Wasco county and The Dalles what it was fourteen months ago. We had two democrats left out here. One of them said the other day he had been holding out and had taken his democratic pill once a month, but when he read the indorsement of the convention it made the pill look the size of a goose egg, and for the sake of his family he thought it would be imprudent to risk his life any longer. He laid the pill upon the shelf and has taken republican powder ever since and will vote for American protection, high wages for the working classes, and resurrection of our buried industries throughout the land.

Mr. T. J. Moffitt of Sherman county called at THE CHRONICLE office this morning. He says he has the finest field of rye he ever saw anywhere. It is already knee high and has not yet commenced to joint. This would indicate that it will grow nearly as high as his head.

ANCIENT ADVERTISEMENTS.

How the Old Roman Trademen Solicited Public Patronage.

Latin inscriptions, advertisements of tradesmen, form an interesting class, says Macmillan's Magazine. Here is one near Rome: "If you want inscriptions made, or have any need of marble work, you'll get it here." Another enterprising man at Bologna announces: "A bath in town style and every convenience." A similar notice meets us only eight miles from Rome, where, of course, most of the customers would be able to know whether they really had "town style" or not.

A curious example comes from Lyons, which may be paraphrased thus: "Here Mercury promises profit, Apollo safety, and Septimanus bed and breakfast. He who has been here before will be treated all the better a second time. Stranger, settle on your lodging beforehand."

A more independent tone is taken by another innkeeper, who doesn't hesitate to declare that his house is not intended for people of moderate means. "If you live in good style, here's the house for you; if in poor fashion, I'll put up with you, but I shall be ashamed of having you." Perhaps there are a good many modern hotels conducted on this principle, but the proprietors are not, as a rule, quite so frank in expressing their sentiments.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
