WHY CODDLE THE WILCAT.

The Spokane Review also sees trouble ahead in this Coxey movement, judging from the following expression in a recent

"The whole country is now unanimous in believing that danger is back of this 'commonweal' movement; that peace and even government itself are menaced. Viewed from any aspect, the movement looks ugly. The unthrift, the idleness and the discontent of the nation are being mobilized, trained in the manual oi arms, and concentrated to make demands upon congress. Rolling stock has been seized on half a dozen railroads, and wild trains, loaded to the guards with desperate men, have been sent flying along the tracks, in disregard of property rights and unconcern of the lives of women and children passengers on other trains.

"It is permicious rot to pretend that men who do these deeds have a peaceful mission. Any army is peaceable and good-natured if it is permitted to forage upon the country, is resisted in no way, and allowed to capture trains and ride across the country at its pleasure. When the 'commonwealers' have run up against lawful resistance, however, they have developed an issurrectionary spirit, which would surely grow ugly and dangerous once they got the mastery. In Montana they have even defied the authority of the United States government, and there have been such skirmish conflicts as always run shead of general insurrections and rebellions. "No doubt a general effort is being made to deceive the public with fair expressions. Coxeyite leaders, ripe for any desperate adventure, talk suavely of the kitteny qualities of the young wildcat, but the claws keep showing from under the velvet. Some of these men even now have peace upon their · tongues, but trouble in their hearts; the mean it yet, but they are in the formative stage, and as they advonce toward Washington, and gain courage from growing numbers, and conviction from long brooding, and incendiary speech and example, they, too, will put away the peace pipe and reach for the warpaint and the tomahawk.

"This is the history of all dangerous uprisings against law and order. All history teaches that it is utterly impossible to assemble large bodies of unemployed men, charged with a grievance, train them in the science of war, back them up with a show of public approval, and not have any serious trouble."

It remained for the democratic convention of 1892 to declare that a protective policy was unconstitutional. But it remained for the voters of Ohio, to the tune of 100,000, to set down on Neal, democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, and the father of that resolution of the minority report in said Chicago convention, and elect Wm. McKinley, the great standard-bearer of protection in the United States today.

Peffer the populist wants to appropriate $1,000,000 to employ the vagrant army on some public work. There are two very good reasons why-this should not be done. One is that the money is not available and the other is that the men would not give an equivalent for it in labor. Work is not what they want. These toy soldiers are even too lazy to march and want to ride on captured trains, at the expense of the railroad companies, who must pay for the fuel, rolling stock and wages of the trainmen. It is to to the credit of the Union Pacific receivers that they would rather abandon their trains than submit to the die tation of organized bodies of tramps.

It cannot be insisted upon too strongly or too often that the so-called armies traveling about the country are not unemployed workmen looking for jobs. They are not workmen at all. The last thing they want is work. They will not go near work when they know it. When work is brought near them, or when they encounter it unawares, they run like frightened deer. The object of their existence is to live without work, to travel free and see the country, to eat the bread of charity and pass their lives in a dream of dirt and idleness. They differ in no way, except their number, from the solitary tramps of common experience, to be found in the most prosperous times, when work is most abundant. There are unemployed workmen enough in the country-more's the pity but they are not traveling about the country howling for free food, free rides, free silver and freedom from work. They are doing what they can to get an honest living, whether the work and wages are such as they were accustomed to in prosperous times or not .- Oregonian.

CURE YOU! 10 PURE SLEEP LONG CLEAR SKIN LIFE AYER'S VITALITY STRONG NERVES

S. P. SMITH, of Towarda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

NEW IMPROVED

Fire Lighter.

NEVER WEARS OUT.

A great labor- and money-saver, as it does awap with the necessity for kind-ling of any description in starting either wood or coal fires. It is always ready for use, and a most convenient house hold contrivance.

Directions for Use.

Take a can and put in sufficient coal a good farm wagon, spring wagon, harness, plow, and harrow. I will be in The Dalles, Sat. April 28th, address A. utes. Then light with a match and place in front of or under the grate. If the blaze goes directly to the fuel, the fire will be quickly started. Keep the lighter in the can of oil and it will always be ready for use.
