NEW IMPROVED Little Wonder Fire Lighter.

NEVER WEARS OUT.

A great labor- and money-saver, as it does away with the necessity for kindling of any description in starting either wood or coal fires. It is always ready for use, and a most convenient household contrivance.

Directions for Use.

Take a can and put in sufficient coal oil to cover the lighter, which should remain in the oil for three or four minutes. Then light with a match and place in front of or under the grate. If the blaze goes directly to the fuel, the fire will be quickly started. Keep the lighter in the can of oil and it will always be ready for use.

MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The Portland Savings Bank opened its doors this morning.

Gov. Penney is addressing Southern Oregon towns on populist issues.

Col. Nevins is making some excellent speeches in Union county and doing splendid work for the republican party.

Mr. F. Menefee having resigned the chairmanship of the county central committee, Mr. J. M. Patterson was elected to the vacancy.

A sensational report was current on the streets today that Sheriff Kelly was shot. The report could not be traced to the original liar.

The party of miners who passed up the river about a week ago in a gasoline launch were forced to turn back owing to the rapids at the mouth of the John Day, which were impassable. They returned to Portland.

Mr. C. E. Wolverton informs us that it looks very encouraging for a republican standpoint in Eastern Oregon. At Lower Powder instead of a flourishing democratic club there two years ago is substituted a more vigorous republican club, and whereas at Elgin two years ago it was dangerous for a republican to announce himself, there is now a large McKinley club and republicans are enthusiastic.

Sheriff Ward arrested William Jordan and Henry Judkins yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Guy Southwell. Defendants were discharged from custody this morning by Justice Davis, who, after inquiring into the matter, concluded that young Southwell was the aggressor in having begun the assault by striking Jordan with a club. Judkins had no hand in the trouble except to hold Jordan's horse, which attempted to run off when the row began. Southwell was pretty badly bruised about the face.

Arbor Day at Grand Dalles.

In district No. 1 Arbor Day was observed with due ceremony and enthusiasm. Under the direction of the teacher the skilled little fingers had arranged the decorations in a charming manner, and quite befitting the fancies of the Grecian Goddess, Flora. The pupils had shown an unusual good will in learning their parts, and, considering the brief period of time devoted to drilling, they produced the following program in a creditable manner:

- Recitation, Bryant's "Forest Home."
- Dialogue, "Between the Flowers."
- Recitation, "The Four Trees."
- Music.
- Exercise, "The Trees."
- Exercise, "Crocus, Pansy and Violet."
- Recitation, "Apple Blossoms."
- Music.
- Recitation, "A Child's Fancies."
- Exercise, "Flowers."
- Select topic, "Myths and Superstitions."
- Closing, Flower riddles.
- Music.

All entered heartily into the closing exercise of flowers riddles, the greatest number having been guessed by Robert Lucas and Fred Smith.

After having completed the program the pupils, with gleeful hearts and happy faces, marched to the grounds to partake in the exercise of tree-planting. Eleven ornamental trees were planted, each bearing a name sacred to the memory of some distinguished personage.

The Silent Concert.

The following programme will be rendered this evening at the Methodist church:

- Instrumental Solo.....Mrs. Iva C. Brooks Collins
- "Tom" Recitation.....Miss Evelyn Newman
- Vocal Solo.....Mrs. Bradshaw
- Silent Concert.....

The silent concert is a new arrangement of selections from thirty musical artists, and not, as its name indicates, a "mum" affair. Lunch will be served in the basement of the church. Admission including lunch, 25cts. Come and bring your friends to enjoy the ice cream and cake.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. R. Fahey, after visiting his friends in Oregon, returned to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Morgan of Cascade Locks are in the city and will return in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. M. Briggs left this morning for a few weeks' visit with friends in the Willamette.

Mrs. Mary Gordon and son returned home this morning. Mrs. Gordon proved up on her homestead yesterday.

Dr. H. Logan leaves tonight for Galveston, Texas, to be gone three or four weeks. While absent he will attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Railway Surgeons, which takes place in Galveston on the 8th, 9th and 10th of May. It is very probable that, after the conclusion of the meeting, arrangements will be made for an excursion into Old Mexico, and if so, the doctor will be among the number.

An Ancient Negro.

Richard Hoops (colored) who claims to have been born in 1770, is still living in a dilapidated little shanty on the Cole county (Mo.) side of the Osage river railroad bridge. He has occupied the same uninhabited quarters for a number of years. To all outward appearances he is just the same that he was twenty years ago. Occasionally he does small jobs of work, but for the most time hunts and fishes, and is very proficient in both the latter callings.

Some people think that crows are not good to eat, but Uncle differs from them. He considers crow meat only second to a good fat possum.

FOR SUPREME JUDGE.

Mr. C. E. Wolverton on a Tour Through Eastern Oregon.

Mr. C. E. Wolverton of Linn county, republican nominee for supreme judge, was in the city this morning, after a week's absence from home in Eastern Oregon, where he has been, as he says, "getting acquainted." He is making no political speeches, as he believes the office of supreme judge should be as nearly non-partisan as possible. The nearest Mr. Wolverton came to making a speech was in Elgin, Or., where he was vigorously demanded by the McKinley club of that place. He begged to be excused from speaking for reasons as above stated, but noticing the words on their banner "William McKinley, 1896," said he had the honor of voting for McKinley as a delegate to the national republican convention, and believed that in 1896 every one of his listeners would have the same opportunity. Mr. Wolverton is a gentleman of fine presence and has a very attractive personality. He has been a member of the bar at Albany for twenty years and is almost a native of Oregon having come to the state with his parents in 1853 at the age of two years. For twelve years he has been attorney for the state board of school land commissioners. He was a member of the convention that nominated Benjamin Harrison for president of the United States, though he voted for Wm. McKinley at the convention. Mr. Wolverton stands for republican principles and protection, and will be elected by a handsome majority.

ONLY REPRIMANDED.

Judge Bellinger Releases the Entire Army After a Promise on Their Part.

Today's Oregonian says: The anti-Coxey war is over, and peace has been declared, at least so far as the difficulties between the Portland's army and the Union Pacific Railroad Company are concerned. The leaders had a hearing before Judge Bellinger in the United States district court yesterday, and after making ample apology and taking a solemn pledge not to disobey the orders of the court in the future, were discharged from custody with a severe reprimand. The main body of the army, under military surveillance at the Albina coal bunkers, was also represented in court by an attorney. They were also permitted their freedom upon signing the pledge their leaders had taken. The military were at once withdrawn, and Colonel Compton, with his entire command, left on the evening train for Walla Walla. The sympathizers of the army held a demonstration on behalf of their friends in the evening, and before 10 o'clock the army was again in camp at the old quarters, just north of the stockyards.

Dog Trains of Manitoba.

In the northern district of Manitoba dog trains are still in use, and very satisfactory is the time made by the animals, who skim over the frozen snow at a rapid rate. A train arriving at Stanley covered three hundred and fifty miles in four days—well on to ninety miles a day. The railway has opened up communication with the settled districts in southern Manitoba, but the dog continues to supply the best means of transit for passengers and mails in the sparsely settled regions.

The receipts of the world's railroads in 1893 were $484,500,000; the expenses were $300,500,000; net gains were $184,000,000.

ZUNI INDIAN DANCES.

In Clog and Double-shuffle Darkies Are Not to Be Compared to Them.

"The Zuni Indians are the original wing and buck dancers," said Mr. George Sherman, a Denver man, to the Fort Worth Gazette. "I've seen the genuine plantation negroes in Louisiana and Mississippi, and the minstrel article, but they are simply not in it with the Zunis."

"I went out to Tuscon, A. T., several years ago, one spring, and we visited a pueblo near where there are many Zuni Indians."

"A fellow with us asked if we had ever seen 'em dance. We said we hadn't, and he said we'd missed a treat, for they took the cake for fancy foot movements."

"He spoke to the old alcalde of the settlement, and he called two men. They were fine-looking men, not very tall, but sinewy, supple and well made."

"Without any preliminaries, they set to, and of all the high jumping, side leaping, heel-and-toe work, sliding, shuffling I ever saw, that dancing was the best. They were light on their feet, graceful and quick as lightning in all their movements. They whirled away from each other with a pretty heel-tap movement, spun around at the same time, touching the tips of their toes, turned a back somersault and came down like feathers, keeping in perfect time. The only accompaniment they had was a rude sort of a tom-tom and the whistling of a boy. They danced for three-quarters of an hour and weren't broken down."

"This was on the bare ground, mind you. Then a fine looking boy brought a stone, not more than a foot square, threw it on the ground, hopped on it, and gave the finest clog dance and double-shuffle I ever saw. He had on cheap, worn shoes, with the heels nearly worn off, but he didn't mind that. He spun around on his toes, on his heels, danced with one foot held in his hand, jumped up and clapped his heels together twice and whirled about on the toe of one foot. Then he beat a sort of tattoo with the heel of one foot, and made some fancy movements with the other. He gave a few ring movements that caught the crowd."

"After he got through with a number of difficult fancy movements he jumped down as fresh as a daisy. There were other dancers, and for eccentric movements, fancy steps and pretty figures I've never seen the like. I understood that Primrose, the minstrel, saw these people dance once and got stuck on 'em and tried to get 'em with his show. They would make a great hit."

JAPANESE SUPERSTITION.

Saving the Drops of Water That Washed the Priest.

The death, funeral and cremation of the chief priest of the largest and most powerful Buddhist sect in Japan was recently recorded. The funeral were attended by many tens of thousands of people from all over Japan. The person of this priest is so very sacred, and anything that has come in contact with it so very precious in its merit and powerful in its efficacy to save, that every drop of the water that was used in washing the body after death was eagerly sought for and gratefully received by the priests and laymen alike.

Little bamboo joints were used as vials in which to receive and carry away the precious fluid. This water will be used as drops of saving elixir when the body of some believer is washed for its burial—as a few drops of the attar of roses might be used in a bath—and the one receiving this washing will be insured a safe and happy entrance into the Buddhist Paradise.
