Here's a pointer for the fool who thinks nothing worth having unless its English. Princess May, of England, has all her shoes made at Haverhill, Massachusetts.

The nominees for the legislature are well known citizens who will represent faithfully and well the interests of their constituency, and above all the principle of protection to American industry, upon the maintenance of which depends the return of our country to the conditions of prosperity and security from which it has so woefully departed under the rule of the "tariff reforms."

If an indvidual history of the Coxey army could be traced, it would be found that more than half of them have a constitutional aversion against work. And When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. about 99 out of 100 of the other half have When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. at some time worked for good wages and wasted their money. A lack of thrift will prevent anyone from accumulating anything, and his existence will be from hand to mouth, no matter what wages be receives. The improvident will reap their reward in kind. It is an inexorable law. The same circumstances that elevates one man to affluence will pass by unimproved with another. Any person in the United States can acquire a competency if he is frugal and industrious; and if he is fortunate enough to possess good business qualities as well, he may rise to wealth by the opportunities for safe investment which are around us on every hand. Such conditions do not exist today in any other country on the earth and it is lamentable that these bands of Coxey armies rise to give to the world a false impression of our industrial and financial condition. In Russia, under an autocratic ezar, these men would have their heads bowed in servitude with no thought of gathering together. In the United States, taking advantage of our national good humor, our easy-going tendencies, they band together for purposes of intimidating the remainder of the people not of them. They are not patriots, nor yet cowards; but they are a lot of crackbrained enthusiasts, upon whom at this particular time the fruits of their own laziness or improvidence have settled, and they imagine the government is to blame.

THE MARKETS.

FRIDAY, May 4th .- The past week has been a very quiet one in business circles. Merchants have laid in large stocks of merchandise, provisions, etc., anticipating an active trade. The late spring and dull times have held it in check somewhat, but on the arrival of and movement of the wool clip brisk his horse stopped with a quick snort of times are looked for. The grain market continues dull, buyers declining to purchase only as each day offers inducements. Feed wheat, that is wheat that is more or less injured, sells at 30 to 60 cents per sack. These rates or quotations are regulated according to the quality offered.

The wool situation has not changed materially since last week. Two small lots have been sold on private terms to an eastern buyer. Wool bags are sold at 40 cents in lots from one to fifty; larger lots at 39 cents for 4-lb bags.

A Possible Recruit.

A recruit for the Coxey army passed westward last night. He appeared about 5 o'clock at the house of Mr. Chas. Cooper, on the hill, and asked Mrs. Cooper for some supper. Before she could reply he espied a black cat and began chasing it. He followed it around the house until it disappeared in the cellar. He apparently forgot Mrs. Cooper entirely, who was still watching him, and he jumped an adjoining fence and began ascending the steps of the Rice residence. Every few steps he would try their strength by a peculiar motion of the body, and when he reached the two ends crossed on each other, as the top, made the circular motion with with folded hands. #### THE ROMANCE OF

A Florida Flower That V on Human Blood.

One of the Mysteries of Nature Account ed for in a Singular Manuer by a Melancholy His-

In the western part of Jefferson coun ty, Florida, grows and blossoms into eurious and magnificent beauty a rose that seems to be indigenous to a small area of country, but will not flourish in any other latitude. The bush is strong and vigorous and the leaves are very light but glossy green. The petals curve slightly inward and are the color of bright arterial blood. The odor is pungent and slightly sickening, fascinat ing, and yet unpleasant to a marked de gree. The peculiarity of the rose is that the dew that drops therefrom is or a faint, pinkish east, a marvel seen in no other flower, the baffling wonder of se who have witnessed it. It is called the Grant rose, and it has a sad and melancholy history, which is told in the San Francisco Call. Its origin is one of the mysteries with which nature Chapman Block, Second Street. at times delights to astonish her won dering devotees.

In 1834 John Grant and Nellie Lowry were married. Soon after they selected as their future home a farm in Jeffer son county, near the Aucella river, and in the spring of 1865 a child was born to them. Soon after that the Seminoles TRANSACT A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS went on the warpath. September 30, 1835, was an unusually warm day, and young Grant, having business at the county store, delayed his trip until the cool of the evening, when he mounted his horse and started off, expecting to return at about 4 a. m. He kissed his hand to his wife and the crowing baby as he rode away. Six miles from home was almost unscated. Supposing that it had been ex itsel by some shadow of bush or brief, he urged it on, but a Quotations of produce continue steady clump of undergrowth near him became under him. Before he had time to extricate himself the red flends, with a warwhoop of fiendish triumph, were upon him. His scalp was taken by a savage and his warm body flung into

One o'clock came and the young wife in the cabin put aside her sewing and listened intently for footsteps. The night had become very dark. The dense clouds, and a whisper of rain was in the atmosphere. The yellow hound became restless and whined as he sniffed the air. Another hour passed and she was about to go to the door when a yell blanched her check. For a moment she stood helpless and trembling, then, clasping her child, she raised a loose plank from the floor, dropped through to the ground and crept into the woods. Soon afterward she saw the glare of the burning cabin. Her flight was discovered and she was overtaken about two miles from home. Two days afterward a party of hunters Geo. W. Lucas of Wamic is in the city found the mother and babe and buried them. Near by a little pool of blood had collected and had not been absorbed by the soil. In the spring the tangled in roots at the bottom of the

A few years later a hunter, one of the sheriff of Wasco county, came in from party that had found the bodies, happened to be in the same locality, and cat some slips from it and took them to the settlement, where he related his discovery. Such a romantic and singular story excited the curiosity of many efforts were made to secure a growth of the slips in other places, but failed of success. Within an area of five miles from the scene of the tragedy, it is said, the rose can be found, with its tall and sturdy stock, its pale green leaves, its incurved crimson petals and its bloody

REVERSIBLE SNAKES.

They Have a Head on Each End and Are Found in India.

A snake not often heard of, at least in America, is the liver-colored snake with two heads, or perhaps they should be called mouths, though it does not have two mouths at the same time. They are reversible months, occupying the opposite end every six months. It lies with tions of the two ends, the head become

A friend of mine, says the writer, in India who told me about this remarkable snake said he refused for a long time to believe that the functions of the two ends were reversed every six months, but one day he found one of these snakes in the jungle and carried it home, where he had a physician examine it. The result was, the physician confirmed the stories of the crea ture and my friend was skeptical no longer. I learned no other name for this singular reptile than that of "the liver-colored snake."

The way she looks troubles the woman who is delicate, run-down or overworked. She's hollow-cheeked, dull-eyed, thin She's hollow-cheeked, dull-eyed, thin and pale, and it worries her. Now, the way to look well is to be well. And the way to be well, if you're any such woman, is to faithfully use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That is the only medicine that's guaranteed to build up woman's strength and to cure woman's allments. In every "female complaint," irregularity, or weakness, and in every exhausted condition of the female system—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.
