

PRINCE OF OFFICE BOYS.

An Editor's Guardian Who Was Worth His Weight in Gold.

LET IT RUN and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is near.

He was an office boy worthy of a place among heroes, albeit his lot was cast in the newspaper office of a western town, where enduring fame is crowded to the wall, says the Detroit Free Press. He occupied a place at the foot of the editorial stairs, and it was his duty to give warning to the editor when an irate visitor came with a gun to correct an item appearing in the paper.

"I want to see the editor," he growled, as he started upstairs. "I'll see if he is in, sir," smiled the boy, innocently getting in his way. "Well, I guess not," exclaimed the visitor, grabbing him by the coat collar. "I've heard how the chump has a way of turning people down when he doesn't want to see them and I won't have it. You stay right where you are and I'll attend to this business myself."

INCIDENTS OF CYCLONES.

A Refrigerator That Apparently Walked Downstairs Into a Cellar.

Some remarkable stories are told about narrow escapes from injury or death by the recent floods and cyclones and the queer positions in which people have been left after the subsidence of the waters or passing of the storms. The telegraph reports explained a few days ago how a man was lifted from a wagon and deposited with great care on the top of a haystack fence. When the cyclone visited Wellington, Kan., a young woman was writing a letter in the second story of her father's house and a moment after the storm broke she was standing in the school yard, three blocks away, unharmed. But this was not all. The young lady had company. A young man whom she knew came sailing through the air and alighted near by. He had sought shelter in a restaurant a few miles away, but had been picked up and carried off and finally deposited without injury near the young lady. Before the storm a refrigerator filled with three dozen eggs, numerous loaves which had arrived by express that morning, and meat, butter, vegetables, etc., rested quietly in the dining room up stairs. After the storm the refrigerator, upright and without anything inside broken, was found in the cellar. The house had blown away, the floor remaining, and the Buffalo News says, the only way for the refrigerator to get to the cellar was to walk downstairs and go through the door.

Bears' Gall Is Worth Money.

A bear's gall was recently sent to a gentleman in this city, says the El Paso (Tex.) Herald, as a slight token of esteem from an intimate and dear friend in the country, with the suggestion that it might possess a pecuniary value in the Chinese language. Thinking that it was intended to imply that he lacked gall, our city gentleman threw it in the street. Soon afterward a Chinaman came in, and, on being interrogated, offered one dollar for it. The work of redeeming it by a side door occupied one minute, and the price obtained was two dollars. They are considered very valuable by Chinese physicians, and are much sought after. We now quote bears' gall in fair demand, with limited supply; political gall abundant, with few takers.

The Chinese gong owes its abominable resonance to the peculiar alloy used in its construction. The Chinese claim that this instrument of torture was invented in order to frighten the devil, and some people are of the opinion that the Celestial idea was not far wrong.

A SONG OF THE ROAD.

Come, comrades, since the way is long Let's live it by time and song, And greeting give to all we pass; To white-of-head, to light-of-head, To matron grave and laughing lass.

Hurrah for lane and by-way, For distant path and nigh way, For friends we greet, for foes we meet, Along the world's broad highway!

'Tis morning-break: lithe limbs are strong; Who dreams of ease and softness wrong? You youngling and his violet eye! Nay, light-of-mind and love-so-blind Are wisdom-proof and folly wise.

Hurrah for lane and by-way, For distant path and nigh way, For friends we greet, for foes we meet, Along the world's broad highway!

'Tis noon-tide: let us spend an hour Dream drinking ere we lose the power, And all our pleasure disappears. Since slown-of-heart and light-of-heart Have sworn the poet's smacks of tears

Hurrah for lane and by-way, For distant path and nigh way, For friends we greet, for foes we meet, Along the world's broad highway!

'T is night and low: foul thieves have mobbed The weak ones here and left them sobbed; Of love, and in the end, love, and rest; But sure-of-soul and pure-of-soul Still sold their treasures to their breast.

Hurrah for lane and by-way, For distant path and nigh way, For every one whose journey's done, Who's gained the distant sky-way! —Julie M. Lippman, in Century

The First Shot.

About the year 1733 a Bristol plumber named Watts dreamed that he was out in a shower of molten lead. He observed that the metal came down in spherical drops, and afterward, to find whether it would be so, he went to the top of a church and poured melted metal into a vessel of water below. To his great delight he found that the lead had gathered into beautifully formed globular balls and he at once took out a patent.

The Father of Waters.

Although the Mississippi, including the Missouri, is about 4,300 miles in length, and the Amazon 4,029, while the St. Lawrence is only 1,450 miles, the latter is held to comprise the largest body of fresh water on the earth. Including the great lakes and its tributaries, covering about 73,000 square miles, the aggregate mass of water is estimated at 9,000 cubic miles.

THE DALLES

Wasco County, Oregon. The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY. It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market. The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here. The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS. The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future. The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH. It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon. Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these other stones she stands.
