PEASE & MAYS.

NEW IMPROVED Little Wonder Fire Lighter.

NEVER WEARS OUT.

A great labor- and money-saver, as it does away with the necessity for kindling of any description in starting either wood or coal fires. It is always ready for use, and a most convenient household contrivance.

Directions for Use.

Take a can and put in sufficient coal oil to cover the lighter, which should remain in the oil for three or four minutes. Then light with a match and place in front of or under the grate. If the blaze goes directly to the fuel, the fire will be quickly started. Keep the lighter in the can of oil and it will always be ready for use.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Messrs. Kerr & Buckley, of Grass Valley, raised 3,530 lambs from 3,483 ewes.

Seven joints of the flume at Ned Wicks' place, six miles from town, have broken out, and lumber and wood were deposited on the ground in large quantities.

What's the matter with our Democratic and populist friends? They evidently have forgotten that "music hath charms," and Prof. Birgfeld is the genus homo who can give them just what they want.

If you have been disappointed in some of the traveling troops which have visited The Dalles, do not be discouraged and fail to hear "Enlisted for the War."

A remonstrance was read before the county court today against laying out and opening a public highway on the summit between 3-Mile and 5-Mile.

of one of the lower river tugs and makes the water fly in good shape. She had Mr. Condon at the wheel and in her turnout made an interesting appearance.

Protecting Cottolene.

The N. K. Fairbank Company of Chicago have lately brought suit in the United States court against W. L. Henry, of this city, for $5,000 for infringement of their trade mark "Cottolene."

In order to indicate the source and genuineness of their new food product, they originated, coined, and use as a trade mark, the word "Cottolene."

The new food product and its name "Cottolene" have become widely known as the product of the N. K. Fairbank Company.

The N. K. Fairbank Company charges that W. L. Henry, of Macon, Ga., a dealer in fresh meats and food products generally, has been and is endeavoring unlawfully to avail himself of the benefits of the name "Cottolene" and its popularity.

"The infringements upon the trade mark of "Cottolene" have become so frequent, and so many dealers are selling an inferior article and claiming it to be Cottolene that the N. K. Fairbank Company are determined to protect customers and propose to sue every retail dealer who is thus imposing upon his customers, and infringing upon the N. K. Fairbank Company's trade mark.

A SAFE ROBBERY.

Johnston Bros. Store at Dufur Entered and the Safe Cracked.

Johnston Bros. safe in their store at Dufur was blown open by unknown robbers about 3 o'clock this morning and about $40 extracted.

The sound of the explosion was deafening, and while many in the town were awakened by the noise, nothing serious was thought of it, and the facts were not known until about 5 o'clock, the usual hour that Mr. H. Johnston arises and goes to the store before partaking of his breakfast.

Tracks were found in the road leading from The Dalles to Dufur, and on the way returning as far as Frank Huot's place, believed to have been made by the robbers, two of them, but no further clue is known.

Frosts a Matter of Location.

Rev. O. D. Taylor states that none of the extensive orchards of the Columbia River Fruit Co. are hurt by the frosts. In the last twelve years he has been a keen observer of atmospheric currents and has so directed the planting of his orchards as to avoid frosts.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became ill, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
