NEWS OF THE STATE.

M. Koshland, the wool merchant of Portland, who has been in the meshes of the law for some time past, has come out virtually a free man. It is said he intends to engage in his former pursuit at an early day.

Mrs. H. A. Myers, of Summerville, caught her toe on the carpet and tell heavily to the floor, the fore part of the week. Not being able to rise she was placed on a bed and a physician was summoned, who made an examination but could find no serious injury; 24 hours later it develoyed that one of her legs was broken. The lady's age, together with the fact that the broken limb was not cared for so long, gives a rather serious aspect to the affair.

During carnival time in some parts of South America there is a general revolt against nature and her economy in withholding water nearly the whole year round. Water is showered from the housetops with wanton extrava-gance, and all classes join in the frolic. When I arrived at Callao, says the author of "Tropical America," there was not a street where one could be secure against attacks from doorway, balcony or roof. At Lima, when cross ing the Cathedral plaza at noon, we were subjected to a shower bath, and as the afternoon passed, the sport increased in intensity, every successful delivery from bucket or dipper being greeted with shouts of laughter. '

The servants in the hotel stationed themselves upon the roof, and for hours not a carriage nor a pedestrian went by without being saluted in ap proved carrival style. The street was wet from sidewalk to sidewalk. Horses were whipped up, and men and boys ran briskly by, dodging the showers when they could. I saw hundreds of men and women showered during the day, but in no instance were there

Texas alone possesses about 4,000,000 sheep, or one-eleventh of all the sheep in the United States. According to the Economist, these sheep bring into Texas each year about $7,000,000, which a little they fill the air with their disare expended in the state for feed, herding, shearing, salt, shedding and the lease of lands. There is a vast amount of rough lands in Texas now being utilized in the sheep industry that pay a good revenue, as the land thus used increases its taxable value and it otherwise would be (comparatively useless. The agitation for a reduction of the tariff on wools has caused the value of the wool products to drop from 18 to 20 cents to 6 and 8 cents per pound; in fact to no sales at all, and the value of sheep has fallen in proportion. Taking into consideration the great number of men directly and indirectly who are engaged in this industry, and the vast amount expended annually among all classes of people, it must be conceded that the position of the people connected with this industry is less favorable than has appeared at any previous time. It is ruin that Sen-Mills 18 advocating for his fellow citizens in his own state.

British Columbia has fourteen firms manufacturing 159,440 pounds of opium annually, and it is conservatively estimated that fully two-thirds of this is emuggled into the United States, defrauding the government out of duties amounting to $1,270,000. Though this immense amount of opium is annually brought into this country, largely through the Puget Sound district, it is a remarkable fact that only twice in the history of the Puget Sound customs district, once in 1888 and again last January, was opium regularly imported through the custom house, and then in small quantities, although it is a well-known fact that hundreds of tons have been smuggled across the boundary line. The bee is but one of several plagues that have to be set off per contra in the lodger of Terai joys. The fly is another-that common nuisance which infests the Terai country as an entomological anomaly-i. e., a house fly where houses there are none.

Wherever in those regions the camp of man is pitched, there do these dipterous insects-these minimized harpies-swarm.

At night they are only moderately active, but when the day has warmed cordant buzzing, and every teacup, milk jug or other possible receptacle with their bodies. The only way of eating a breakfast in their company, says Blackwood's Magazine, is to take that meal in an inclosure of mosquito netting, and even then hundreds of them contrive to effect an entrance, and, being inside, dispute each mouthful between the plate or cup and

Then there are sand flies, whose dimensions are such as preclude seclu-sion by any material that will admit the air, and whose stings are as aggravating as those of mosquitoes. And, finally, there is an insect that, as an amateur entomologist, I call the eye-fly-an insect that attacks one during the heat of the day, and particularly when one is open-eyed for tiger, with the set purpose of getting into one's eye.

That villainous insect does not sting; it is satisfied with committing suicide, when the consequence is in flammation to the eye that crushes out its useless life, and it persists, in spite of frequent repulse, in finding a grave there. It is a nuisance when it dodges about within a foot of one's face, aiming now at one eye, now at the other. It is painfully so when it perishes triumphant.

A Queer Frenk of Nature.

There is a remarkable sand dune near the lighthouse at Cape Henry, at the mouth of Chesapeake bay. The sand from the beach has been piled up nearly two hundred feetat an easy slope on the ocean side, but on the inland side it descends in an almost sheer precipice, and particles of sand blown up the slope fall over the edge and are spread far and wide by the wind. It is supposed that the precipice-like pe-suliarity of the mound is due to the action of conflicting wind currents that blow about the cape.

The child was literally covered from head to foot with a red and exceedingly troublesome rash, from which she had suffered for two or three years, in spite of the best medical treatment available. Her father was in great distress about the case, and, at my recommendation, at last began to administer Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which effected a complete cure, much to her relief and her father's delight.
