COXEYITES ARE TRAITORS.

As expected, the Coxeyites are rapidly changing from a peaceful army to a belligerent one. The authorities, wherever it has been necessary to call out force, have exhibited great patience, and the courts remarkable leniency. This has invariably been taken by the Coxeyites for fear, and they grow continually more aggressive, more insulting and more lawless. This spirit, by enlargement, will lead to a crisis, a point where further toleration will endanger life and property, a dividing line between good government and anarchy, and then American manhood and American intelligence will rise to the occasion and subdue these trouble-makers. Where is the country on earth that will tolerate what has already developed? The various divisions of the Coxey army are as many mobs, unintelligent and aggressive, ready to arm and fight whoever opposes them, at the first incendiary speech of some brainless anarchist who addresses them. They will not jurious properties. obey the laws until compelled to do so, and entail great expense upon the vari- ious disorders, chills and fever, and find ous commonwealths by compelling U. it effects a cure in a most satisfactory S. troops or the militia to appear against | manner."

The administration is doing nothing whatever to break up this rapidly-increasing army, and in this instance, as with all the rest, shows a remarkable incapacity. The movement has in it rheumatism, but has not heretofore been every element of treason, and as the troubled in this climate. Last winter days pass, increases in strength. It has he went up into Wisconsin, and in congrown to serious proportions and individu ds of the army talk nonchalantly of war and bloodshed, and their readiness to hear arms against the govern-inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look ment. Imagine General Grant in the presidential chair and a republican congress. How much talk of this kind would be tolerated and how long would these mobs control the railroads and dominate civil authorities? Not one fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the cause, and plead their American citizenship. This is an insult to citizenship.

A citizen is honorable who will bear california Midwinter International Exposition — Department Tional Exposition — Department of Publicity and Promotion. who in a brief hour of financial panic, so far forgets the benefits of good wages and good markets up to that fleeting hour of adversity, so far forgets the country of free schools, free farms and opportunities unbounded to acquire fortune and honors, so far forgets his patriotism and manhood as to bear arms against his country and threaten its officers, is either a traitor or a poor specimen of that intelligence which it has ever been the policy of the government to foster and educate.

The government should declare the Coxeyites traitors and deal with them

Rev. Andrew Jackson Potter, the gentleman who arose from behind a pulpit in Uvalde, Texas, several years ago, with two big six-shooters in his hands, and informed the audience, mostly composed of the toughest of toughs, who had been in the habit of running every minister of the gospel who came there out of town with rotten eggs, or escorting him out to the suburbs on a three-cornered pole, that if any flop-eared, swallowmouthed galoot in that audience who had the audacity to presume that he wore a big enough shirt to put him out of a pulpit, to step forth and take the hot medicine, or, on the other hand, to keep his bazoo closed, and also wound up that with the help of God and those two forty-fives he held in his hands he proposed to preach to that people, that day, has announced himself a candidate for sheriff and tax collector of Tom Green county.

PRICES OF WHEAT.

The Fluctuations Between the Years 1127 and 1757.

Persons whose business it is to buy and sell or raise wheat will be interested in the following list of prices of this staple at intervals of a few years from 1127 up to 1757. The statement is furnished by J. R. Cameron & Co, and is copied from the Royal Intelligencer, printed at Stamford, England, October 14, 1795. The difference in prices covers a wide range, as might be expected from the great length of time included. The came into the panorama a vista of clearprice given is the average price for the ing where the blackened stumps of year named, unless the extremes are given:

The price of wheat per bushel in Eng-The price of wheat per bushel in Eng-land in 1127 was $1.83; in 1199 it was larger even than the blackened stumps $1.33, but fell to 19 cents; in 1202, $1.16; just passed showed their superstructures in 1246, $1.55; in 1247, $1.30; in 1257, to have been, and each advance brought $2.33. In 1270 wheat started in at bigger trees into view and heightened $9.30% and rose to $12.40, the highest the effect of the advent of the exposiprice on record. This was reversed in historical in California annals as the 1317, when it started at $4.21 and fell to scenes of many an official outing and 64 cents. There have been no such many a popular picnic, but it is doubt-high prices or fluctuations since. In ful if the towering trunks of these 1327 the price was $3.82 per bushel; in mighty monarchs ever echoed and re-1622, $1.42\%; in 1649, $1.43\%; in 1662, echoed the voices of a happier throng, $1.80; in 1677, $1.12; in 1691, $1.72; in and it is certain than the representatives $1.80; in 1077, $1.12; in 1091, $1.12; in of so many different nationalities never sat in their shade nor were the com-

Judge Blackstone's calculation is that 300 years ago $5 would purchase as much provisions as can be obtained now for $50, and $3 in Queen Anne's reign would buy as much as $5 now.

[Weekly Circular Letter—No. 7.]
A big trainload of happy people went up into the Redwoods from San Francisco on the morning of Monday, May 7, with great white banners on the sides of the corresponding to the second of the seco the cars on which were emblazoned the words "California Midwinter International Exposition-Our Foreign Commis-The occasion of this exposition exodus was an excursion tendered by the executive committee to the foreign commissioners, and including in the party the heads of departments of the exposition.

The executive committee themselves, to say nothing of the hard-worked heads of departments, have had their noses so close to the grindstone during all the months of preparation and of progress of the exposition thus far, that no one begrudged them a holiday, and the for-eign commissioners, ever alert to recognize and accept every opportunity for seeing more of this land of sunshine, fruit and flowers, hailed with delight the announcement of an outing in the

An early morning start was necessary but there were 200 people in the party that met at the Tiburon ferry to cross over the beautiful bay of San Francisco and there board the train. Out of a morning fog that hung over the city and the bay when the excursionists started on their journey, the train sped up through the fertile valleys and among the pretty hills of Marin county into such a sunlight as even the Italian commissioners had never seen excelled. There were points of interest along the rugged banks of the Russian river in which the German commissioners saw a fancied resemblance to their own beloved Rhineland. There were long stretches of vineyards and fields of growing grain that the commissioners of the French Republic confessed could not be equalled in the fertile valley of the Loire, and the British commissioner general closed his eyes from time to time and opened them again to catch glimpses, as he said, of the hills and fields of Surrey and the picturesque hedges of Hants.

But out of these scenes, so suggestive of what many in the party were accustomed to at home, and fraught with so much in the line of reminiscence, the excursion party passed into a shaded stretch of forest unlike anything that had ever been seen by those in the party who were not used to California and California scenes. Now and then there giants of the forest stood out in bold relief against the green cloth of the still growing grass and grain. Then the

The train came to a standstill in the midst of the great grove of Redwoods, ments on their beauty and impressivess ever expressed in more different casion. The gutteral of the German, the resonance of the Italian, the starcato of the Spanish, the graceful flow of French, the indescribable diction of the Chinese and of the Japanese as well-all these were heard in expressions of admiration, and each representative of all these nationalities manifested his or her

Each invited guest had been asked to bring a lady and the result was a well balanced party. If there was a major-ity on either side it was in favor of the gentlemen, though, by the same token, the ladies profited thereby, for there were no wall flowers on this occasion, no lady lacked a knight and some had two or three. Now and then a couple would get strayed away from the rest of the company, but with characteristic continental politeness no foreign com-missioner felt called upon to organize a searching party, and it came to pass in the course of the afternoon that all the wanderers returned to camp, and when the band sounded the "roast beef call" everybody gathered around the semi-circular tables which had been spread beneath the Redwoods, and on which the viands were so daintily served that surely nothing ever tasted better in ban-quet hall or at the hand of royalty.

JOSEPH JAMES CHEESEMAN, the president of Liberia, was born in that country. His parents were sent out to Liberia by the American Coloniziation society and were among its early founders.
