

ON THE OUTSIDE—that is the best place to keep the huge, old-fashioned pill. Just as soon as you get it inside, it begins to trouble you. What's the use of suffering with it, when you can get more help from Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets?

These tiny, sugar-coated granules do you permanent good. They act mildly and naturally, and there's no reaction afterward. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and permanently cured. They're the smallest, the easiest to take, and the cheapest—for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. Nothing else urged by the dealer, though they may be better for him to sell, can be "just as good" for you to buy.

Christopher Columbus Before the Council of Salamanca.

His Grand Enterprise Carried Through in the Face of Vigorous Opposition—Queen Isabella's Trust in the Navigator.

The great picture, "Columbus Before the Council of Salamanca," by Barabino, is in the Orsini palace at Genoa, the birthplace of its subject.

The scene is one of the most humanly interesting in the history of the long struggle which Columbus had to convince those in authority of his sanity. While he was following the court of Ferdinand and Isabella like a mendicant he was introduced to the notice of the great Cardinal Pedro Gonzalez de Mendoza at Salamanca. The cardinal, who was rather pleased with his idea, though he said it savored of heterodoxy, obtained for him an audience with the king. His majesty referred him to Fernando de Talavera, who summoned a junta of astronomers and cosmographers, mostly ecclesiastics.

They met his arguments with Biblical texts and quotations from the great theologians, and finally ridiculed him and walked away from him, after indicating their belief in no polite way that he was of unsound mind.

They reported that his project was foolish, and that it did not become the king and queen to have anything to do with it. The junta met him in the church of San Sebastian at Salamanca.

Their view of the prophet was sustained by the king, but Isabella, more gentle, of higher and more devout nature, regretted that she might not give to the church of God new converts from new races, which might be secured in

ISABELLA THE CATHOLIC.

Asia, which land Columbus was to reach by sea.

But, as it happened, she had no money at hand. Her war with Granada, just concluded, had cost a prodigious sum. She found herself in debt even to her own servants. But finally the means were raised by pawning her jewels and borrowing money, and at last the lifelong cherished dream of the discoverer was realized.

His fleet, the Santa Maria, the Nina and the Pinta, set sail on Friday, August 3, 1492. After a long and perilous voyage, not the least danger of which was the threatened mutiny of his sailors, as has since become historical, land was first sighted on the evening of October 11, 1492.

This date is according to the old style calendar; in the new it was the 21st of October, which latter date has been chosen for the opening of the great exposition, to be held in his honor 400 years later.

Spain has, therefore, been nine days ahead of time in celebrating the 400th anniversary of the great navigator's departure from Palos, on August 3, of this year.

After a bewildering and enchanting voyage of three months, the great admiral, leaving a fort on the Bay of Carraoela, sailed January 4, 1493, for Spain, in the Nina, taking with him a number of natives and abundant products of the new land which he had found.

His royal reception in Spain, his triumphal march to court, when he returned weather-beaten and almost in rags, the thanksgiving of the good queen and the widespread wonder of all Europe have all become matters of history.

He made three other voyages to America, but he was doomed to suffering, disappointment, loss of royal favor and attacks by the envious.

To the eternal infamy of Bobadilla, a Spanish commissioner, Columbus was sent home in chains at the close of his third voyage. The king disclaimed this outrage and freed him; but the great navigator was wounded to the quick and he preserved the chains, as he said, "as relics and memorials of the reward of his services." They were in his chamber in Seville when he died.

Persons who sympathize with the afflicted will rejoice with D. E. Carr of 1235 Harrison street, Kansas City. He is an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, but has not heretofore been troubled in this climate. Last winter he went up into Wisconsin, and in consequence has had another attack. "It came upon me very acute and severe," he said. "My joints swelled and became inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease the pain, and to my agreeable surprise, it did both. I have used three fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains and swellings extant. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

ARMY SURGERY IN THE PAST.

After a Battle Before the Value of Anesthetics Was Discovered.

The Archives of Military Medicine recently gave an interesting account of the medical history of the siege of Maynoe in 1798. The medical officer in charge of the hospital says: "On April 11 there was a dreadful cannonade among the number brought us with enormous wounds—and the number was not inconsiderable (in less than an hour eight for various amputations)—was a little volunteer with great courage, although suffering terribly. I ordered that he should be undressed while I went round the ward to glance at the various operations which the assistant surgeons were performing. Returning to him with Citizen Riviere, who was to perform the operation, we perceived an enormous lower limb, enormous from the unusual amount of swelling. Manipulating the limb, we came across a hard swelling, which we took to be caused by a grape-shot ball lodged in the limb. Our astonishment was great when we found that an incision of five or six fingers' breadth was sufficient to extract this enormous foreign body, which on being got out turned out to be a Prussian ball weighing no less than thirteen pounds. How could a mass of this size have just the amount of force necessary to lodge in a thigh and not pass through it? This problem I leave to natural philosophers, but I admit it to be almost necessary to have seen such things to believe them. Of course there was nothing for it but to operate on this poor fellow or leave him to certain death; we therefore amputated high up. When we had finished he asked if it was done, and on being told that it was he cried out loudly: 'Long live the nation!' Anesthetics had not then been seen, it must be remembered. On another occasion the firing of a mine caused a tremendous explosion which shook the hospital building terribly. At that moment I was engaged amputating the limb of a soldier. As I was saving the bone amid the general confusion caused by the first shock a second occurred which brought down the whole of a glass skylight over the patient and myself. Not knowing whence all the glass came, I asked those standing round what was the matter. The patient overheard me and said: 'Go on, don't alarm yourself; you will see plenty of this kind of thing.' When I had finished the operation he cried: 'Vive la republique!'"

Clover Honey.

An enthusiast on the subject states that each head of clover is composed of about sixty distinct flower tubes, and each of these contains sugar not to exceed the five hundredth part of a grain. The proboscis of the honey bee must therefore be inserted into five hundred clover tubes before one grain of sugar can be obtained. There are seven thousand grains in a pound, and as honey contains three-fourths of its weight of dry sugar, each pound of clover honey would represent the insertion of the proboscis into two million five hundred thousand clover heads.
