

A Marvel in Silk Weaving.

STUART'S FAMOUS Portrait of Washington

Reproduced in a Masterpiece of the loom.

It takes three expert weavers two and a half months to weave a single copy. Only black and white silk is used, all the exquisite shading being obtained by the skillful use of the Triple Loom. It cost $8,000 to transfer the design from the Oil Painting to the Loom and to produce the first copy.

MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

District court meets next Monday. Hood River is arranging for a grand celebration July 4th.

Today has furnished an excellent quality of strawberry weather.

Hon. J. F. Moore will not be here to take charge of the land office until July.

Business in the land office is improving, four homestead entries being made Monday.

Julius Wiley tells us his strawberries are ripening, a few big ones being picked this morning.

Reports from all parts of the country say that the grain crop promises to be a remarkably fine one.

Hon. C. W. Fulton speaks at Hood River tonight. He will have a very large audience, as his fame as an orator preceded him.

The first thing a regular visitor to our city notices now, is that the rocks on Second street are covered with dirt and a good job it is too.

The Hood River Fruitgrowers' Union of Hood River are putting up a warehouse opposite the depot there. They expect to handle strawberries in carload lots this season.

The amount of drift wood coming down the river today, indicates the streams are higher than for many years. It looks as though it was all coming down this year.

Coxey, Browne and Jones were fined by Judge Milley yesterday for getting on the grass, getting each twenty days in jail, and the two former to also pay a fine of $500 each.

Gottfried Fisher declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States before the county clerk Monday, renouncing his allegiance to the emperor of Germany.

The June number of McClure's Magazine will introduce the well known newspaper correspondent and magazine writer, Julian Ralph, to the world in the new guise of a poet.

Bills are being posted for an Evans and Sontag show. The Dalles will hardly chip in to this lay-out, having developed a local talent that bids fair to get on the stage as professionals.

The river is rising very rapidly, the drift showing that the mountain streams are at their highest. At Umatilla the water reached the 21.8 mark raising one foot last night. Happy thought—when it raises the other foot it will be off its base.

Gen. A. W. Greeley, one of the highest authorities on polar exploration, will review, in the June number of McClure's Magazine, the chances of success for the three important North Pole expeditions now in progress, and describe the physical conditions which hinder the explorer.

If our readers will be patient with us for a few days until we get fairly in the harness, we will try to improve on this issue, and there is room for it. We are just prospecting now to strike the pay lead for locals, and while not expecting anything rich, we shall endeavor to get the best there is.

A bridge was stolen from the upper road leading to Floyd's last Sunday and put across a gulch in the lower road near the same place. Parties on the upper road have organized and will watch next Sunday for fear the road will be swiped next. Stealing a public highway on Sunday is a very bad form of highway robbery.

The summer hat as selected by the ladies for the season of 1894 could safely be worshipped for it is fashioned like unto nothing under the canopy of heaven. Its decorations are in keeping with it, there being but one thing that seems to be necessary to its style, and that is the towing post with the pompon on top.

Successful Gold Mining.

The company recently formed for working the golden sands of Pasco, or along the Columbia and Snake near there, have put in place a machine costing $23,000, and have given it a thorough test. It proved entirely satisfactory, saving all the fine gold and giving a yield of nearly a dollar for each cubic yard worked. The company is so well satisfied that eleven more machines have been sent for. If as successful as is claimed for them, it will not be strange to see hundreds of them along the Columbia, and the gold yield of Oregon and Washington forced high up in the millions.

A Large Vote.

The Multnomah county ballot is a daisy. The sample ballot now printed contains 193 names, and it is stated that some 30 more are to be added. It measures 18 by 24 inches, and if it gets any longer nothing smaller than the Dekum building or Chamber of Commerce will suffice for a ballot box. Voters can go up in the elevators and drop their ballots through the skylights.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following deeds were filed for record yesterday and today: E. H. Waterman and wife to M. M. Waterman, tract in sec. 28, tp. 1 north, r 14 east.

Same parties to Jennie Waterman, tract in section one, same township and range.

Another Burglary.

Last night Nightwatchman Gibbons was given a pointer that some suspicious characters were in need of watching, a pointer that proved to be eminently correct. About 1 o'clock this morning, or shortly after that time, he discovered that the gang had broken into Mays & Crowe's store. Gibbons came down through the alley back of the burned Vogt building, and saw three men standing by the back window of the shop in the rear of the store. At the same time he heard a whistle, and thinking it was Watchman Schooling, he went towards them. In a moment he discovered that he had made a mistake, for he was covered with a rifle and ordered to "come on over." He halted and the order was repeated, and again declined. "You had better come, or you're a dead man," said the man with the rifle. Gibbons' tall figure in the bright moonlight made a conspicuous target. He was only 80 feet distant and he knew the voice belonged to a man known as an expert marksman. But the nery officer replied that he would not advance an inch. He turned in an opposite direction, and gaining a bit of shadow, opened fire on the three robbers. He fired three shots and a like number was fired at him. Their bullets grazed him on both sides, but he was not hit. The robbers then ran toward the alley by Ward's stable and escaped, Gibbons still pursuing them by a short cut through Mr. Hill's dooryard. There are supposed to be five or six in the gang. Gibbons recognized the three outside, but knew only one by name—John Hawthorn, the gun expert. The other two have since been learned to be Walter Rowe and Smith, the former quite well known here. Gibbons immediately had three warrants sworn out for Hawthorn, "John Doe" and "Richard Roe," and notified the sheriff and deputy.

Early this morning a posse, consisting of Deputy Sheriff Phirman, Ralph Gibbons, J. H. Blakney, Frank Klein, Otis Savage, John Jackson and G. W. Runyon, started in pursuit, but as the criminals have a good start and on intimate acquaintance with the country, the probability of their capture is not great. The robbers got away with five revolvers and one Winchester rifle. This is the second time Mays & Crowe have had their store burglarized, which indicates that their goods are satisfactory to those who may be considered experts.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Lulu Bird returned from a visit in Portland last evening.

Mr. R. P. Keyes left on the Regulator for the metropolis this morning.

Mr. J. C. Campbell of Wapinitia left this morning in company with several gentlemen for Portland.

Hon. A. A. Jayne, candidate for the office of prosecuting attorney, made us a pleasant call yesterday. He will remain here for several days.

Miss Fernside, who has been visiting friends here for some time, left for Vancouver on the Regulator this morning. She will accept a position in the post-office there under the new postmaster.

"Evans and Sontag."

The play of "Evans and Sontag" was produced at Liberty hall last evening to a large and appreciative audience, and was very well rendered, considering that the company was handicapped by the smallness of the stage and the impossibility of using all their scenery and accessories. Many people attended the performance on account of it being said that the performance was immoral and gave a bad example to the youth. The opinions of the majority of the witnesses of the play last evening was exactly opposite, as the lesson conveyed by it was the tried and true one that "the way of the transgressor is hard," and any boy who would be tempted to become a train robber or an outlaw by seeing it is a born fool or a criminal by instinct. The play depicts faithfully the cowardice of some of the detectives and blood-hunters engaged in the search, and the bravery and desperation of the outlaws; but we do not think that any would desire to have the fate of Evans and Sontag befall him. This evening the performance will be repeated, no doubt to a crowded house, as it should be, as it has proven a big success.—Astoria Budget.

They Enjoy It.

The weather has been so wet and gloomy at Hood River this spring that the strawberries almost got discouraged. A prominent berry grower down there told us recently that the finest sight he ever saw, was to stand on the hill above his berry patch on a sunny day, after a spell of wet weather and watch the berries sun themselves. He assured us on his honor that the berries would roll over and shake themselves with the same evident enjoyment a bird dog finds in perfuming himself in the remains of a deceased salmon. He told this as we said on his honor but his honor like his berries, is probably a trifle shaky.
