

SOMETHING UNUSUAL, as a medicine, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And, because of that, there's something unusual in the way of selling it. Where every other medicine of its kind only promises, this is guaranteed. If it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

It's the only guaranteed remedy for every disease caused by a disordered liver or impure blood. Dyspepsia, Biliaryness, the most stubborn Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, even Consumption (or Lung-scurf) in its earliest stages, all are cured by it.

It purifies and enriches the blood, rouses every organ into healthful action, and restores strength and vigor. In building up both flesh and strength of pale, puny, Scrofulous children, or to invigorate and brace up the system after "Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases, nothing can equal the "Discovery."

You pay only for the good you get.

VIGOR OF MEN

WILD CAMELS IN AMERICA.

A Herd of More Than Sixty Roaming the Arizona Desert.

The camels that were brought to this country before the war, to be used by our army as draft animals in the deserts of the southwest, are still to be seen—or rather their descendants—roaming the sands of Arizona, between Yuma and Ehrenberg on the north and south and Wickenburg and the Colorado river on the east and west. The herd has increased to more than sixty, although many of the animals have been taken away by circus men and others have been killed by prospectors. As "ships of the desert" they were a failure, the pebbles and rocks of the foothills proving too hard on their feet, which became so sore that they were finally turned loose to shift for themselves. In those days there were no white men to speak of in the region of the Arizona desert, and the wanderers had nothing to fear from Indians, who superstitiously gave them a wide berth. Not so the prospectors when they came. Their high spirited little mustangs were so often stampeded at the sight of the long-necked and unwieldy beasts that the riders found it convenient to take a shot at them whenever opportunity offered. A prospector, writing of his first experience with the expatriated camel, says: "We were coming through a vast expanse of grease weed, almost as high as my head, when suddenly the burro stopped, raised his head, and gave a snort that could have been heard half a mile. I thought it must have been Indians, and, throwing a cartridge into my Winchester, took cover in the brush. Peering over the top of the wheels I soon saw the camels coming with their peculiar, swaying trot, showing only their heads and humps above the brush. That burro evinced more life than I had ever seen him show before, and I do not think any horse in the country could have outrun him. My pack broke in the first one hundred yards, and meat, beans, coffee and tools were scattered for five miles. The camels went on their way, and it was several years until I saw them again, when one of them was captured and brought into Phoenix, where it finally died." He thinks the government ought to take some steps to protect the camels against malicious injury by trappers and prospectors.

FUTURE SPEED OF STEAMERS.

Will Be Regulated by the Material Out of Which Ships Are Built.

It must be remembered that increased speed is not simply a question of more power relatively to displacement, but that such shape of vessel has a speed to which it is especially adapted, and that any attempt to drive it beyond that speed would lead to a great expenditure of power with little useful result, as the energy would be chiefly expended in raising waves. It is found by experiment that for ordinary speeds the resistance of the water to the passage of the ship through it is proportional to the square of the speed, and, as the work to be done is equal to the resistance multiplied by the velocity, it follows that the power needed to propel a ship varies as the cube of the speed. For higher speeds it varies at a higher power than the cube, which can only be ascertained by experiments with actual ships or with carefully-prepared models. It can also be shown that the power required for propulsion varies approximately as the cube root of the square of the displacement.

These points must be carefully remembered in considering the possibilities of still further increased speeds, and they show the necessity for increasing the size along with the speed. If anything like the present speed had been attempted with vessels of the size thirty or forty years ago, the Scottish Lively says, the size of engines required, and the extra expenses involved, would have reduced the earning power of the ships very much, and possibly in many cases made it disappear, but remembering the second of the above mentioned points, namely, that the power required varies as the cube root of the displacement squared, it is evident that the proportion of power to tonnage will decrease considerably as the sizes of the ships increase, and consequently that it will be more economical to propel a large ship at higher speed than a small one. The future development of the steamship, however, depends on conditions about which it is impossible to say anything very definite. The materials of construction have been changed from wood to iron, and from that again to steel. We cannot foretell the possibilities of bronze, manganese, aluminum and other metals.

JUBILEE POSTAGE STAMPS.

They Will Illustrate the Discovery of America by Columbus.

Third Assistant Postmaster General Hazen, pursuant to the recommendation of the chiefs of the post office department, has caused to be issued a circular to all countries composing the postal union, inviting them to make an exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. It is expected that the postal exhibit of this, as well as that of foreign countries, will be very complete. Mr. Hazen is preparing designs for a set of stamps to be issued in honor of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. One of the scenes to be illustrated undoubtedly is the landing of Columbus.

The content of La Rabida, where Columbus was housed just before his departure from Spain on his voyage of discovery, may be the chief figure of another. The head of Columbus will decorate one of the stamps, probably the two-cent stamp. It is not the intention of the department to retire permanently the current issue of stamps, but it is likely that the issue will be suspended for a year, and that at the end of that time the dies and plates for the jubilee stamps will be destroyed, and the old dies and plates will be delivered to the contractor again. The intention now is to have only one portrait on any of the stamps, that of Columbus. Gen. Hazen expects to have them on sale January 1.

UNCANNY COCO DE MER.

It Is a Double Coconut That Grows No-body Knows Where.

After years of vain negotiations the Royal Botanical society of London has at last obtained a specimen of that rarest of oriental rarities, the coco de mer, or double coconut.

For hundreds of years, and even in the year 1892, the origin of the coco de mer is a mystery that is yet to be explained. It is unknown to coconut growers and gatherers, and, according to creditable testimony, has never been seen except when washed upon the shores of some tropical country by a mighty storm. Lilly, the famous astrologer, owned a small one, and Camac, of Paris, another.

To these uncanny nuts the ignorant masses of the seventeenth century attributed many of the supernatural feats said to have been performed by their owners. They were and are supposed to have wonderful powers in the way of curing diseases. At one time it was reported that there was a species of cocoanut tree growing on the island of Sepheles which grew nothing but these wonderful nuts. Williams, R. N., exploded the story and the coco de mer is still a mystery.

Persons who sympathize with the afflicted will rejoice with D. E. Carr of 1235 Harrison street, Kansas City. He is an old sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism, but has not heretofore been troubled in this climate. Last winter he went up into Wisconsin, and in consequence has had another attack. "It came upon me very acute and severe," he said. "My joints swelled and became inflamed; sore to touch or almost to look at. Upon the urgent request of my mother-in-law I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm to reduce the swelling and ease the pain, and to my agreeable surprise, it did both. I have used three fifty-cent bottles and believe it to be the finest thing for rheumatism, pains and swellings extant. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

It Should Be in Every House

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "la grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. ### Fishes That Breathe

It is well known, says the New York Independent, that the gar-pike often rises to the surface and breathes the air direct, as it has a pneumatic duct connecting the throat with the air bladder. Few, if any of the modern lung fishes inhale the air direct. It is probable that the pirarucu of the Amazon, which has a large, lung-like swimming bladder, breathes air in this way; while in southern Florida we were told that the jew fish, or tarpon, rises to the surface every few minutes to breathe, and that it has an air bladder eighteen inches long.

Wasco County, Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.
