For Constable, the Dalles, A. A. URQUHART.

THE PRINCIPAL OFFICE.

The offices of assessor, county jud and commissioners, are the most important in the county. The former raises the revenue, the latter superintend its expenditure. And yet less attention is paid to the selection of the assessor and commissioner than to the sheriff and clerk. This is a mistake the people have no one but themselves to in the asylum, sent there by unanimous The Dalles, May 9, 1894. vote of the people for hopeless idiocy. We believe the laws should be amended, and that either the system of precinct more be re-elected than a bad one; but care. the county court could select a man and finding he made a good assessment could keep him. Hugh Gourlay made the the assessor be appointed by the county all gentle under saddle. court, and we would have good and satisfactory work. Then let the people use a wise discrimination in selecting their commissioners and the grumbling about unequal taxation, would be reduced to a minimum.

THEIR CASE GONE.

The democratic senate Tuesday, made further concession to the protectionists of their party, and placed a tariff of 40 cents a ton on iron. That this result should be reached is not at all surprising. Standing on a free trade platform, they failed to see that when they conceded as proper, the placing of a tariff on any one of the products of this country, they conceded their whole case. When they yielded to the demands of the sugar people, they were forced to give way to the coal people, and so, in turn, to the woolen manufacturers, and every other industry in the order in which they demanded it. They are like the hog that marked in plain figures. crawled through the crooked hollow log under the fence; they came out on the same side they started in at, the only Warehouse.

difference being that the hog soon discovered the fact. The senate will do Little Eccentricities That Make Him the a wise thing if it amends the bill quickly Object of Professional Dislike. a wise thing if it amends the bill quickly and then refuses to pass it.

UNANIMOUS DEMOCRACY.

Democracy again showed its hands in the house Tuesday, the occasion being an amendment striking from the appropriation bill the amount provided for paying the civil service commission. This was one occasion on which democracy knew what it wanted, and what it didn't. The thing it didn't want, was the civil service commission, and it proposed getting rid of it by cutting off its was the spoils now kept from it by means of said commission. There was no haggling, no long winded debate, no acrimonious accusations. Democracy recognized its duty, and with a unanimity of purpose unknown except when the loaves and fishes are being distributed, "they went for it then and thar."

DOING SOME GOOD.

Politics were never as badly and thoroughly mixed in Multnomah county as this year. With four regular tickets in the field and dozens of independent candidates, free silver societies, A. P. A., and Pennoyer, the political hash cannot be resolved into its component parts. Election day many of the voters will have to have assistance to discover where they are at. It is quite certain that a large number of democrats there as well as in other parts of the state will vote for Lord, fearing Pierce's election. Truly Pierce will have accomplished some good, if he succeeds in turning even a few democrats to the Lord.

IT RESTS WITH YOU.

If you want to show where you stand politically, this is the year to do it. Just remember that what is worth doing is worth doing well. It is admitted by all that the republicans can elect the legislative ticket without a struggle. Why then can they not also elect the county ticket? They can. Wasco county is safely republican all the time, and if republicans vote their ticket every name on it will be elected from sheriff to coroner. See that your vote goes in straight. .

An effort is being made to have the postage on letters reduced to 1 cent and the postage on newspapers increased to seven or eight times the present rate. It will not be done for the reason that the newspapers in the country will rise up in their combined wrath and relegate every member of congress who votes for it to private life. When the revenues of the department will permit, postage may be reduced on letters, but a law that will make the postage on a newspaper greater than the subscription price of the same, will never be permitted.

RUSSIA'S BOSS DOCTOR.

Prof. Zakharin, of Moscow, who attended the czar during his recent serious illness, is almost as well known in Russia for his eccentricities as for his eminence as a physician. When he is called to attend to a patient, says the British Medical Journal, special arrangements must be made in the house, all dogs must be kept out of the way, all clocks must be stopped, all doors must be thrown wide open. The professor on entering begins a process of gradual undressing, leaving his furs in the hall, his overcoat in the next room, his goloshes in the third, etc. He insists on perfect silence on the part of means of existence. What it did want the afflicted relatives, except in reply to his questions, when their speech must be literally "Yea" and "Nay." He has a theory which he expresses in the maxim "Take a rest before you are tired," and accordingly he sits down every eight or ten steps. His demeanor toward doctors with whom he happens to be unacquainted makes him greatly feared by them, and some eight years ago a kind of public agitation was got up in opposition to him in which many hundreds of doctors took part. Resolutions were passed and addresses were presented, and echoes of the gathering storm made themselves heard in the press. These manifesta-tions of feeling were quickly repressed in a way characteristic of Russia. The then general-governor of Moscow, Prince Dolgorukoff, sent for the editor of the medical journal in which the addresses were printed and told him that if he published a word more about Zakharin he would have to leave Moscow in twenty-four hours' time. His eccentricities, however, cease at the bedside of his patient; there he is

The first discoverers of Lake Ontario gave it the name "Saint Louis;" another party of travelers called it "Frontenac," after the great pioneer Then came the English, who preferred to call it "Ontario" or "Katarakui." George Washington, in his journal as surveyor, gives it both these names. "Ontario" proced the more popular, however, and was finally adopted.

Lake Huron was named after the famous Indian tribe that lived upon its borders. Hennepin in 1698 called it "Karegnondi." In Washington's jour-ED. M. WILLIAMS, GEO. nal it is mentioned as "Onatoghi," or Lake Michigan was for many years called "Lake Illinois," from the tribe of Indians who lived near it. In 1719 the pioneer Sener gave it the present name of Michigan, and this was ratified by Charlevoix in 1744.

Champlain was the first one to describe Lake Superior, and on his map it is called "Grand Lac." Later on the Jesuit fathers called it "Tracey," or "Superior." The English Sener called it "Nadonssions," another title for "Sione." Late in the last century it received its present name, and the matter was decided by the government on the early mapsoof survey.

Lake Erie was often called "The Cat." "Felis," or "Du Chat," from one of the names of the Erie tribe, who Address P.O.Box 181, The Dalles lived on its banks Sener, in 1719, called it also "Cadaragua," sometimes given to Ontario. Washington's journal names it "Oswego." present name became fixed soon after by appearing on the official maps.
