MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

In the shade yesterday, 97. It is Commodore Condon now. M. J. Anderson was in from Dufur today.

John J. Schaeffer of Moro is in the city today. Business in the land office is improving alightly.

Don't forget the school entertainment tomorrow night. The D. P. & A. N. Co.'s warehouse is “out of sight.”

Over 200 bales of wool were received at the Wasco warehouse today. The first home-grown green peas of the season were in the market yesterday.

The thermometer reached 93 about noon, dropping to 91 by 3 o'clock. The river stood at 41.2 at the same hour.

Mr. Haight, who came in today, says that the grass for a hundred miles south of here, at least, is better than for seven or eight years past.

Crook, Morrow, Gilliam and Sherman counties are all represented here today, the occasion being the speech of Hon. R. G. Horr this evening.

Crop conditions are at their best, and as the ground contains more moisture than ever before, it will require peculiarly hard weather conditions to prevent a splendid crop.

A few benevolent ladies have arranged for serving ice cream in the Phelps building on Second street this evening. The proceeds will be devoted to charity.

Portland sweltered Wednesday with the thermometer at 89, while yesterday with eight or nine degrees better here, the day was delightful. There is a vast difference between heat radiating through ozone, and that confined in a steam bath.

Mr. James M. Thomas while coming through the company's yards yesterday morning about 9 o'clock, discovered the roof of one of the sheds near the roundhouse on fire. He gave the alarm and the blaze was soon under control. Had it got a start, however, serious damage would have been done as everything is dry as tinder, and nearly hot enough to ignite.

R. E. Jacobson and a companion, while collecting driftwood from the Columbia, caught a drift containing about 20,000 feet of lumber. They left their boat and climbed on to it, and while prospecting their find, their boat drifted away. Their cries were heard as they passed Rufus, and a telegram to Grants sent the steamer Nellie after them. It was a lucky escape, for if it had happened an hour or two later they would have gone over the rapids.

All eyes do not see alike. For instance, last evening we had occasion to interview Mr. Wood, agent for the Evans-Sontag troupe (and a very clever gentleman, by the way), and inquired of Mrs. Evans as to where he might be found. She described him as a smooth-faced gentleman, and when we found him the first thing we noticed about him was that he was badly marked from small-pox, so badly, indeed, that his face looked like a horse-radish grater.

So Says a Contributor.

The nomination of Judge Lord for governor calls to mind an amusing and possibly prophetic incident that occurred some years ago on the Bull Run and Sandy stage. He had been out on the road and was returning to Portland, when the driver, Leon Cohen, being in somewhat of a hurry to reach the city before dusk, touched up his horses with the whip and put them through at a lively rate. The wheels touched the high and low spots in the road in such rapid succession as to severely test the springs, and keep the occupant of the stage bouncing about its interior like a rubber ball. Finally the driver slackened his speed and Judge Lord thrust his head out to expostulate, but just then the whip cracked again, the horses jerked into a run, and as the judge was jumped violently back into his seat, he heard the driver shout: “My Lord, sit still and you will get there.”

The Water.

At Umatilla this morning the Columbia was 25 feet above low water mark, a rise of 1.2 in twenty-four hours. At Riparia the Snake was 20.2, a rise of 6 inches since yesterday morning. Here the rise from 5 o'clock last night to 8 o'clock this morning was just a foot. Reports from points in the interior show conditions favorable to extreme high water. This morning at Baker City the thermometer stood at 66 at 6 o'clock, while extremely high temperatures prevail all over the basins of the Columbia and Snake. Should present temperatures and conditions last for another week, it is probable the high water record will be made this year.

The Building safe.

Some parents, we understand, are afraid to let their children attend the exercises at the opera house tomorrow evening, fearing the foundations of the building are not secure. We are requested to state by Mr. Hugh Glenn that he has just overhauled the opera building, putting new sills under it, and that it is perfectly safe, and able to stand double the weight that can be gotten into it.

Tonight's Speaking.

The Hon. R. G. Horr will deliver his address this evening at 8 o'clock at Wingate's hall.

The committee appointed to receive Hon. Rowell G. Horr, are requested to meet at the Umatilla house at 7:30 this evening. J. M. PATTERSON, Chairman Central Committee.

THE MARKETS.

FRIDAY, May 25.—There is a marked improvement in the condition of trade since last week. Interior dealers and consumers have been more active in purchases of all kinds of merchandise. Prices continue steady in dry goods.

There has been no change in quotations in salt or sulphur. The sugar and coffee market continues steady, with a firm tendency.

The produce market is well supplied, and prices are unchanged in all lines. New peas are in market in limited quantities. Also strawberries are in moderate supply at nominal prices.

The poultry market is only fairly supplied, and the demand is good for spring chickens. Eggs are dull sale at anything over 10 cents in trade.

The live stock market shows some activity, but margins belong to the past. Eastern buyers are in the interior securing mutton at quotations ranging from $1.35 to $1.50 per head.

Good beef steers are in better favor, and some buyers declare it to be a difficult matter to make large gatherings, and that an upward tendency is anticipated in the near future.

Stock cattle and horses are dull sale, and the demand is limited.

The cereal question is devoid of interest, any further than the market, both at home and abroad, is exceedingly dull, and judging from reports from Europe, there is but little to base predictions on. Large shipments from Russia, India and the Argentine, together with Australia, is like a wet blanket and chills the market fervor in the foreign grain centers. Our New York market letter still hopes for an improvement in quotations soon, and the producers will make an inning rather than further aid to the consumers and their allies.

The wool receipts for the past week have been light in consequence of rains in the interior, but the last two days show an improvement in arrivals. The movement for shipment is very light and sales are limited. The transactions made so far are on the free wool basis, and 7 to 7 1/2 is the range. The Boston Advertiser of the 18th says: Oregon wools are held steady on the best territory grades which are the scoured basis. Wool bags are steady at 40 cents.

A Rocky Play.

Evans and Sontag strutted the stage of the Baldwin opera house last night before an audience of perhaps seventy-five. The lesson conveyed by the play is perhaps the worst that could be taught. Chris Evans and John Sontag are presented in the light of heroes whose example is worthy of emulation. The friendship between the outlaws is made much of, and the pursuit of the criminals is held up as persecution. The criminals are the heroes and the officers of the law who pursued and captured them are the heavy villains of the play. There are one or two fair actors in the troupe, but as there was nothing in the play, their talents were not called into requisition. John Sontag furnished the music, being the individual orchestra, and the way he assassinated the piano between acts reconciled the audience to his death.

The play is calculated to do immeasurable damage, for the American youth has his mind easily fired, to deeds of bravado like unto the Visalia bandits. Ashland and Eugene were right in refusing the troupe a license, and the balance of the towns which they are billed for will do well to follow that example.

The most amusing part of the whole performance was that when the curtain went down in a blaze of red lights, shutting out the tableau of Chris Evans making an unsuccessful attempt to die, while his wife and daughter, with their Sunday clothes on, grouped with the detectives who shot him and seemed to be enjoying the situation, the audience sat still until the manager came out and told them that was the end of the play. It showed that everybody had read up on Evans and Sontag, and expected to see him tried, to have his escape from and return to prison and final trip to Folsom, all faithfully portrayed.
