MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Mr. Peters has a force of men moving lumber, some of the lower piles being already in the water.

Mr. Grimes shipped a carload of cattle to Troutdale last night and will have another carload in today.

A 6-year-old son of Frank Gabel dislocated his right elbow by falling down stairs. Dr. Hollister repaired the damages.

The weather forecast for Spokane, Walla Walla and Baker City for the next twenty-four hours is fair and warmer.

Don't forget the school entertainment tonight. Mr. Glenn, who has just overhauled and repaired the foundations pronounces the building perfectly safe.

A black pony belonging to Bert Bagley was stolen from his stable on Third and Madison streets Thursday night. The thief also took the saddle and bridle used on the pony.

There are enough thistles up in the vacant blocks toward the depot to make the lowly paternal ancestor of the patient mule bray for joy, besides they will furnish seed for the entire country.

Representatives of the Harrison club of Wasco came down in a big coach, the sides of which bore a banner inscribed with the name of the club. They returned this morning.

The Good Templars of 3-Mile will give a picnic at Sam Creighton's grove the second Saturday in June. Everybody invited, and a special request is made of The Dalles lodges to come in a body.

Mr. James Brown shipped twenty-eight head of horses by the Regulator this morning. As they charged up and down the wharf one would have thought there were seven regiments of them.

While driving beef cattle to town Wednesday the horse Mr. T. J. Cooper was riding fell, throwing him with great violence. He was unconscious for nearly an hour. The accident happened near Mr. English's place.

As a high water pointer, Mr. John Marden says that when building The Dalles and Sandy wagon road at Shell Rock he observed some drift wood along that point ten or twelve feet above the mark of 1876. This coincides with the statement made by Mr. Crate that one year he landed his boat where the Catholic church now stands.

Mr. W. H. Moore informs us that Kerr & Buckley have also lost a number of sheep by poison this side of the free bridge. Their band was on the way to The Dalles, the intention being to send them across to Mt. Adams today.

The annual G. A. R. memorial service will be held at the M. E. church, May 27th, at 8 p. m.—a union service.—The address will be delivered by Rev. J. Whisler. Seats will be reserved for O. N. G. and G. A. R. until 7:45 p. m. All are invited to come early.

They Can't Do It.

The fact that a large number of our people gather nightly to see the Regulator come in is gratifying to the company and also to all who understand and appreciate the loyalty of Dalles people to the river line. At the same time it becomes sometimes embarrassing on account of the large crowd, for the employees of the boat, as well as the truckmen, find it difficult to transact their business. In plain words, The Dalles ladies must either be less charming or stay away, because no one can possibly have the heart to tell them they are in the way.

The Jury List.

The following have been summoned as the jury for the district court for the May term beginning Monday: Isaac Joles, W K Corson, M D Farrington, H W Wells, W H Taylor, T E Wilhelm, I J Norman, Phil Wagner, W J Baker, T C Dallas, M B Potter, Virgil Winchell, J E Soeabe, W J Crapper, James Miller, Geo Sellinger, James Easton, W H Whipple, Patrick Ward, Charles Wing, R-E Campbell, Al Kennedy, B F Foreman, J M Denis, R Hinton, C Levin, Duncan McRae, Pierce Kinzey, N W Wallace, J O Warner.

Sheep Poisoned.

From Mr. W. E. Gilhousen we learn that Charley Davis' band of sheep got hold of poison somewhere this side of the free bridge across the DesChutes, and about 100 head of them died. They fell by the wayside, commencing to drop out and die about six miles from town. When Mr. Gilhousen saw them Davis had stopped for noon. Last Sunday Mr. Guthrie, in coming over the same road, lost sixty-three head, and reports that a third of his band were sick.

H. S. Pague Back.

A pleasant shower visited us last night laying the dust and cooling the air. As H. S. Pague was expected in Portland last night, it is quite probable he got there. Mr. Blanford is an excellent gentleman, but he knows nothing whatever about Oregon weather. Now that Pague is back let us hope for the old-time webfoot article of mingled sunshine and showers, reasonable temperatures and cessation of floods.

The Water.

At Riparia this morning at 7 o'clock the river was 21 feet above low water mark, at Umatilla 28.2 and here 42.7, a rise of 2.1 in the last 24 hours. The weather conditions are as yet unchanged in the Columbia basin. At Umatilla it is somewhat cooler but further east the heat still prevails. The indications are that cooler weather will prevail tomorrow.

Speech of Hon. Roswell G. Horr.

At an early hour yesterday evening by twos and threes our citizens began to straggle towards Wingate's hall, bent on hearing what Hon. R. G. Horr might have to say concerning the political questions. In a short time a steady stream of humanity was pouring up Second street and when shortly after 8 o'clock the music of the band announced the coming of the speaker, the spacious hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. Some fifty chairs were placed on the platform, and after the speaker, accompanied by Governor Moody and J. M. Patterson, chairman of the county central committee had ascended the platform, the committee on reception consisting of representative men from Gilliam, Morrow, Crook and Sherman, besides our own citizens, filed in and took possession of them. In a few well chosen words Governor Moody introduced the speaker who was greeted with a resounding burst of applause.

Mr. Horr at once went at his subject and spoke for two hours, keeping the attention of the audience to the close. He made a masterly presentation of the republican case, and he sent many a shot through the tree trader's argument that left a big hole after it. As we shall endeavor to give his speech in full we will not make extended comment at this time, but cannot let the subject pass without brief mention of the manner in which he paid his respects to the populists. To illustrate the demand for flat money, he said:

“When I was a boy I used to work on a farm and among other duties had to feed calves. Now four quarts of milk was considered a dose for a calf. Now suppose that that calf should make a demand for more milk, should insist that four quarts were not enough for a calf, and in response to the demand the person in charge of that calf should add four quarts of water—flat milk. The calf would be compelled to drink eight quarts to get the four quarts of milk and yet it would not be satisfied, but would demand more milk. Then eight quarts more water would be added and the calf would have sixteen quarts to drink to get four quarts of milk, and yet his appetite would not be satisfied. I would like to ask now what the inevitable end of that calf would be? To be plain about it he would burst.”

His argument was interspersed with stories, that aptly illustrated the point to be made, and gleams of sarcasm and bits of satire gave relish to the heavier and more serious argument. The meeting closed with three hearty cheers for the Hon. Roswell G. Horr and three more for the republican party of the state of Oregon, and the largest political gathering Wasco county ever had came to an end.

The Hawthorne Crowd at Dufur.

About noon today a young man named Sigmund came in from Dufur bringing word of the Hawthorne crowd. According to the story as told by him, young Hawthorne came into Dufur early this morning saying that one of the boys had shot himself and he wanted some medicine for him. At the same time he stated that the boys were camped in Dry Hollow, a short distance beyond Dufur. The story of the accidental shooting seems improbable, for Hawthorne would scarcely have come after medicine had the wound been recent. A more likely solution is that when Gibbons fired at them the night of the robbery he gave one of them a flesh wound which by this time has made the boy sick and feverish.

A posse headed by Deputy Sheriff Phirman started out about 1 o'clock, and it is hoped will bring the boys in. It is better for them that they be caught now and take such punishment as may be meted out to them, than to have their course of crime continued until murder is added to their offense, and every man's hand be raised to take their lives. The action of Judge Blakeley in offering a reward for their arrest is highly commendable, and if it brings the misguided young fellows in will be worth ten times the cost. It not only saves them from more serious crime, but will deter others.

The Academy Purchased.

At the special school meeting held this afternoon the order authorizing the construction of a building in Simms addition was rescinded, and on motion the proposition of the directors of the Wasco Independent Academy to sell their property, building and fixtures for $2,800 was accepted. The building in Gates addition will be moved into Simms addition. The district by this deal has acquired nearly $20,000 worth of property. Next year thirteen teachers will be employed.

Dissolution Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the firm name of Paul Krett & Co., has been dissolved by mutual consent. Paul Krett retires from the business, and the same will be continued by D. W. Vause at the old stand, who will assume all the partnership liabilities.

Dalles City, Or. May 26, 1894. PAUL KRETT, D. W. VAUSE.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Rev. J. W. Rigby was a passenger on the Regulator this morning bound for Hood River.

Miss Ethel W. Grubbs came up from Portland last evening, and is the guest of Mrs. Smith French.

Rev. J. Whisler returned from Wasco yesterday morning, where he has been attending the ministerial association.

Among those from Sherman county who came down to hear Mr. Horr, were Hon. C. J. Bright, C. C. Kinney, C. Dunlay and H. T. and M. B. Murchie.

Among those who came up on the boat yesterday were Hon. E. L. Smith, A. S. Blowers, T. R. Coon and D. Langille. Mosier was represented by S. R. Husbands and S. D. Fisher.

J. W. Armsworthy, of the Wasco News, and J. B. Hosiord, of the Moro Observer, were in the city yesterday. They remembered their duty to the profession and made us a visit.

Mr. Hugh Gourlay, editor of the Goldendale Sentinel, came in by way of Grants last evening. Failing to catch a train, he drove down, being determined to hear Mr. Horr. He left for home this morning, and tells us that though the trip was a hard one, he got his money's worth.
