MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

District court met this morning.

Lem Burgess is in from Bakeoven.

Friendship lodge K. of P. will have important business tonight.

The ladies of the Good Intent society will serve strawberry shortcake and strawberries and cream at the Methodist church Wednesday night, at 15 cents each.

The moving of the bridge last week from the upper road to the lower one, leading out to the Deschutes caused the teams to all take to the lower road and today a lot of wool teams are tied up on account of the high water, the bridge being where they can't get to it.

Hood River anticipates trouble in shipping her strawberries which are now just beginning to ripen. Unless the Union Pacific is kept open the eastern markets will be shut off. The company should have a boat down from Umatilla so that transfer can be made from Celilo.

Mrs. W. H. Biggs, accompanied by Miss Deming, left on the Regulator this morning for California where they will remain until fall. Miss Deming will go to Mendocino, to visit relatives, and Mrs. Biggs will visit relatives and friends at her old home, Dixon, as well as in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

District Court.

The following grand jury and bailiffs were selected this morning: James Miller, foreman, M. D. Farrington, W. H. Whipple, Patrick Ward, T. C. Dallas, J. E. Soebe, W. K. Corson. Grand jury bailiff, L. P. Ostlund. Court bailiffs, J. H. Jackson and T. G. Hayden. Attorneys in attendance were: E. B. Dufur, Frank Menefee, J. B. Condon, W. H. Dufur, B. S. Huntington, H. S. Wilson, J. L. Story, N. H. Gates, E. Schutz, H. A. Riddell.

The German Picnic.

Our German brethren gave their annual picnic at their grounds near Mosier Sunday. Whether it was owing to hard times or other causes the crowd was not so large as usual, but those who attended say that they had a splendid time. The Dalles Brass Band was in attendance, and as the Regulator swept down the current on her second trip it woke the echoes with chords of music, or at least with a great deal. The return trip was made about 7 o'clock.

The Death of Hayes.

The Hawthorne crowd got quicker returns on their investment than usual in these degenerate times. Hayes is dead, and Hawthorne and Rowe are in hiding, a price set upon their heads. Saturday afternoon Revs. Hinman and Powell, learning from Hawthorne that Hayes had shot himself, started in a hack to bring him into Dufur. They found him about twenty miles from that place on 15-Mile and only about a mile from the snow line. When they reached him he was rolled up in his blankets, dead, and Hawthorne and Rowe had left. They started back, but were met by the sheriff's posse and returned to where the body was, with them. In the meanwhile T. J. Driver and Dick Palmer had started out but missed the road so did not reach the place until after Hinman and Powell. Learning from them that the boys had skipped they returned to Dufur. The sheriff and posse camped for the night near the body, and after making a careful examination of it in the morning, covered it with logs and brush, so that nothing could disturb it until the arrival of the coroner. The justice of the peace at Dufur acted as coroner, and held an inquest on the body yesterday. The verdict of the jury has not yet been sent in, but we learn that the doctors who examined the corpse say that the wound in the groin was evidently caused by accident, as the ball ranged upward in a way that it would be hard to account for otherwise. Besides this they found another bullet wound in the back of the head, which must have caused death instantly. It was probably self-inflicted, unless indeed his comrades performed the act for him, which some seem to think. It is more probable Hayes, realizing he was gone, killed himself, for the other boys would hardly go after a doctor for him and then kill him.

A Forgery.

Pat Welch is in from Antelope and so is G. T. Weaver. The former came in at his own expense, and Mr. Weaver is a guest of the county and food for the grand jury mill. Mr. Welch charges that Weaver passed a forged check in the sum of $48 on him at Antelope and then skipped out for Prineville. Mr. Welch followed him, and at Prineville swore out a warrant for his arrest. Weaver was caught about six miles the other side of Prineville, on the road leading up Crooked river.

Mr. Young's House Burned.

Mr. George Young came in yesterday, and had four big teams loaded with wool. He tells us that the night of the 25th the house on the Chandler place purchased not long ago by him, was burned to the ground. The fire was evidently of incendiary origin, as none of Mr. Young's people had been in or about it for nearly two weeks. The house cost $1,700 to build, and with the contents Mr. Young estimates his loss at $2,000; insured for $800.

MAYS & CHOW.

The Flood.

All other subjects have lost interest as compared to the question as to how high the water will come. This morning it stood at 48.2 and was rising at the rate of a little over an inch an hour. At Umatilla there was a rise of 1.3 Monday and 1.5 Sunday, the river there being 28.9 this morning. At Riparia it is 21.9 and still coming. The water already on the way down, with no further rise above, will increase the measure here by at least four feet. That it will be on First street by tomorrow night seems assured. This morning most of the engines were taken out of the round house and are side-tracked near the depot. At 8 o'clock the water was creeping around the coal bunkers. The incline below the coal bunkers has lifted, and the old roadway and bridge are badly wrecked. Seufert has had two of his fish wheels swept away, and the Winans Bros. lost two more yesterday, three in all. It looks as though every wheel in the river would be carried away. Yesterday Commodore Condon got steam up on the Inland Star and tried to bring in one of Seufert's fish wheels. The cable got foul of the propeller, and before it could be cleared the little steamer was carried down for several miles, but she landed her plunder just the same. Coming home she ran on a rock below Stone's fish wheel and laid up for several hours until the water rising lifted her off.

Many of the dwellers on First street are preparing to move furniture and stores from the lower stories, and by tomorrow this movement will be general. Two feet and a few inches will bring the water to the mark of 1876, and that it will pass that point by a foot or two seems very probable. The carrying away of the fish wheels is the most serious damage done. The loss is hard to estimate, as it is not only the property, but the loss of the season's catch that enters into the calculation.

About 160 feet of trestle was washed out this side of Mosier early yesterday evening, but Superintendent Borie, who was here, organized a force and had all damages repaired, so that last night's passenger reached here about 9 o'clock this morning. Quite a section of track was washed out this side of Grants, but was repaired yesterday.

Among the flotsam yesterday was a huge section of bridge, with a chain, the links of which would weigh three pounds apiece. It is probable this is a part of one of the four bridges swept out of Spokane. Three small houses bobbed along and several lots of cattle, five going down in a bunch. The surface of the river is a mass of foam, and logs, timber, stumps, brush, fences, and everything floatable is hurrying panic-stricken to the sea. As the water creeps up inch by inch the collection becomes larger and more varied. Where it will end, or how high the water will come no one can tell, but with favorable conditions as we have now, those on Second street will have no advantage over First.

The Public School Exercises.

The public school exercises at Baldwin opera house Saturday night were well attended, the house being reasonably filled. Had it not been for the foolish reports that the building was unsafe the attendance would have been much larger. The program was varied somewhat from the printed form, but it was well rendered throughout. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was exceptionally good, as were the recitations.
