RIFLED CANNON IN COLORADO

A Rich Strike in Idaho--Bad Men at Cripple Creek--A War Machine.

Forces Are Massed on Bull Hill.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 29.—The deputies and the strikers are still keeping at a safe distance from each other. Both sides are exerting every effort to increase their numbers, the strikers using in some instances loaded Winchester as arguments. The strikers become bolder and more insolent every day. All the smaller towns are completely subjected, and some demonstration has been made at Cripple Creek. There is nothing manly in the attitude of the strikers. Vastly outnumbering the male portion of the population, and being heavily armed, they have confiscated nearly all the firearms owned by individuals. Conscious alike of their own strength and of the weakness of the inhabitants, they conduct themselves in an overbearing manner, and exact conduct on the part of inhabitants little short of abject servitude. Today a party entered Mound City, and, at the point of Winchester, forced two union men who believe in the union, but not in carrying arms and using them in violation of law, together with a non-union man, to follow them to Bull Hill. The general impression is that this question can be settled only by a terrible conflict, and the people anxiously await the end, whatever it may be. The strikers now expect to be attacked from three points, and have massed their forces on Bull Hill. The two principal approaches have been undermined, and large quantities of dynamite placed, so that by means of electricity the mines can be exploded from the fort.

Turpin Turns His War Machine Over to Germany.

PARIS, May 29.—La Patrie today announced that the notorious Turpin, whose name some time ago came prominently before the public in connection with the invention of the explosive known as melenite, and who was subsequently imprisoned, angered at the refusal of France to purchase his latest invention, has left the country and sold to the powers composing the dreibund the secret of the manufacture of a terrible war machine. The latter is said to contain an explosive and a new projectile, which, it is claimed, will completely transform the art of warfare and the conditions under which it is waged, rendering its possessors the masters of Europe. Turpin yielded to the personal urgings of a foreign sovereign, and has received several million francs on account. The statement that Turpin has left the country and sold his invention to the dreibund caused a sensation. M. Leherisse announces his intention to interpolate the government. M. Mercier, minister of war, has been informed of this intention, and says he will not object to meeting the question after he has had a conference with his colleagues. He admits that he refused to see M. Turpin and also declined to negotiate with him. He scouts the idea that Turpin's new invention is an important one.

The Columbia Takes a Bridge.

SEATTLE, May 29.—The Puget sound region is almost cut off from railway communication with the East. The Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Union Pacific roads are all blocked on account of the floods. On the first named road the waters of the Frazier river are higher than have been known for 20 years and a vast expanse of territory is under water. Much damage has been done to farmers and to the property of the railroad. The bridge across the Columbia river at Revelstoke has been washed away. The Great Northern main line will not be in running order for several days, but the Skagit river is falling rapidly and the washouts on the coast lines will be repaired in a day or two. No trains arrived today from the East over the Northern Pacific, but a passenger train left this evening in the expectation that by the time it reaches the scene of the trouble the break will have been repaired. In the immediate vicinity of the city the high waters are rapidly receding and no further damage is anticipated.

The Spokane River.

SPokane, May 29.—The Spokane river rose three inches last night and is still rising. The Dennis and Bradley bridge is given up, and it is expected to go at any moment. If it does it will take with it the Olive-street and Washington-street bridges. Many houses are undermined and settling. The water is 4½ feet higher at the new water-works site than ever known. Work has been abandoned altogether. The Union Pacific bridge still stands, but it is expected to go. The Union Pacific and Great Northern tracks are inundated and traffic is suspended.

LATEST FROM SPOKANE.

SPokane, May 29.—The Spokane river has been at a standstill all day. There has been no further damage here from high water. Reports from the Cour d'Alenes are that the rivers there are slowly falling. At Lewiston, the Snake and Clearwater are higher than ever known before, and still rising.

A Rich Find Reported.

Boise, Idaho, May 29.—There was great excitement in the city today over the discovery of wonderfully rich placer diggings south of Idaho county. Prospector Williams, an old Californian, arrived here from the diggings yesterday, and to a few confidential friends he told the story of his valuable find. Williams says he took out $100 a day with a rocker, and that there is plenty of richer ground. A party of six, at the head of which was Frank W. Merritt, who with other Duluth parties, have made large investments in the mines near here, was organized and outfitted, leaving here with pack-horses and mining-tools for Loon creek this morning. The matter was kept as quiet as possible.

A Rifled Cannon at Divide.

DIVIDE, Colo., May 29.—It has rained nearly all day, and this in addition to the disappointment felt at the small number of recruits, has had a depressing effect, and about a dozen have returned to Denver. The strikers are reported to have purchased a rifled cannon, which is kept out of the way here.

Geologists find that the Juniata river, by reason of its course and fall, affords a wonderfully comprehensive view of the geological formations through which it flows. To follow its course with the hammer is to obtain geological samples to be obtained so easily afield in no other way.

A SAD MISNOMER.

The Term "Old Maid" is Almost Always Misapplied.

I lately heard an amusing new definition to the term "old maid," which was held to apply, not to elderly spinners in general, but only to such as had never had a chance of changing their condition; those who "would not when they could," or whose course of true love has run rough, receiving the more respectful title of "maiden ladies." The idea emanates from a masculine brain, but the difficulty of ascertaining which designation applies in individual cases is a problem which the superior male intellect has not condensed to solve, says the Ladies' Pictorial.

Are old maids under this definition to be expected to wear some particular form of cap, or have their hat cut in a special fashion, or add the letters "O. M." to their visiting cards? I am convinced that there are very few women indeed whose experience has failed to include a love affair of some kind, and of these few only a small minority would acknowledge the fact.

A more correct idea of the term, it seems to me, and one which takes away its old-fashioned sting, is that it describes a certain type of woman irrespective of her condition in life. The prim, narrow-minded person who fusses over trifles, who would leave matters of the most paramount duty or engrossing interest in order to put tidily a drawer or sew on a button; who goes all her life in fear of Mrs. Grundy, and would leave any kind action undone, or kind word unsaid, if it ran the slightest risk of offending that potentate, would be old-maidish in spite of any number of matrimonial ventures; while, on the other hand, there are plenty of liberal-minded, youthful-hearted old misses to whom the epithet is so obviously unsuitable that no one thinks of applying it.

OILING A ROBBER.

An Engineer's Treatment of a Selfish Road Agent.

There used to be—and may be yet—on the Las Cruces division of the Santa Fe railway an engineer known as "Big Jack Long." One night Jack was alone at his engine oiling up the machine, while the rest of the crew, like the passengers, were at supper in the dingy eating house. The train was a long one and the engine was well away from the little cluster of buildings. Suddenly, "throw up your hands!" was growled at him and Jack found himself looking into a gun in the hands of a hard-looking citizen. The fellow demanded money and Jack began to argue, protesting that he had but a dollar in his pockets and that to take that were a cruelty, since it was meant to pay for his supper. Yes, the marauder was determined to have the sack, even if it had but a single dollar. During the discussion Jack slipped his hand from bulb to nozzle of the long machinist's oiler and edged around the head of the locomotive, finally backing across the track, closely followed by the temporizing holder-up. When the man was so well into the glare of the headlight as to guide Jack's address, this worthy promptly laid over his head with the heavy oiler for a bludgeon, and when the victim's yells had drawn forth the supping contingent, Jack had beaten his assailant almost senseless and stood, weapon in hand, looking down at him, and saying, grimly: "Well! I guess I've got you so well oiled up that you won't 'run hot' again for one while!"

Keep your eye on this proposition. We will give free to every new cash subscriber to the WEEKLY CHRONICLE a year's subscription to the great New York Weekly Tribune.
