MAY MINORS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

As we go to press the river here stands at 53.4.

The first mail from the east since Friday reached here this morning.

Wanted, by a lady a position as clerk in store. Inquire at this office.

The lower incline of the State Portage road at the locks went out yesterday morning.

A telephone dispatch received about 2 o'clock states that the Snake is at a standstill at Lewiston.

Billy Wilkenson was indicted for larceny of a horse Tuesday and is given until tomorrow to plead.

It was reported yesterday that Wm. Mitchell's fish-wheel has been carried away, but this was a mistake.

Creed of Mosier did not succeed in shipping a single box of berries and will fare like the Hood River growers.

Until further notice Dr. Hollister can be found at the residence of Mrs. Dunham near the Academy, for night calls.

The water last night stood at 52.8 at 8 o'clock; this morning at 5 o'clock at 53; at 7 o'clock 53.2, and at noon 53.3.

A drizzling rain set in yesterday evening, developing into quite a shower during the night, and .36 of an inch of rain fell.

Miss Anna Peter & Co. have moved their millinery store over Pease & Mays' dry goods house, and will be pleased to see their customers.

High water and low prices go together. Read Williams & Co.'s high water ad. today and get 20 per cent. off on bargains Friday and Saturday.

About three and one-half tons of mail, including that which came through from the east Tuesday was sent down on the Regulator this morning.

The republican club will meet at its hall on 8-Mile at 7:30 Saturday evening. Some of the candidates will be present and address the meeting.

Mr. Blanford of the Weather Bureau, telephoned us at 11 o'clock this morning that at 8 o'clock the river was at a stand at Umatilla and Riparia.

The electric lights went out Tuesday night and coal oil and candles will hold sway until the water falls. In other words, the Columbia will have to go to its bed by candlelight. Let us hope that like the old-fashioned meetings it will be "early candlelight."

The water at Umatilla raised 2 inches in the twelve hours ending at 4 o'clock. This is the latest and is reliable.

Reports from 5-Mile are to the effect that a very heavy rain storm swept over that section last night, in some places being little short of a cloudburst.

The petit jury were excused Tuesday afternoon by Judge Bradshaw until next Tuesday. This is on account of decoration day being so closely followed by election day.

Frank Seufert, road supervisor, was indicted by the grand jury Tuesday for removing a bridge from the upper road to Cushing's, was arraigned this morning, plead guilty and was fined $100.

The camp meeting announced for Tygh valley has been changed to Wamic. All are cordially invited. We at least are requested to state by Rev. J. W. Adams pastor of the U. B. church.

Winans Bros. lost another fish-wheel yesterday, the last one they owned on the Washington side. They are not of the kind to be discouraged, and are hard at work making wheels to take the place of those gone out. They don't propose to lose the entire season.

Mr. W. J. Harrison showed us some cheat grass picked alongside a wheat field on 5-Mile, that is a mass of smut. This will probably account for the smut in the grain where the seed has been properly vitrioled. Farmers will do well to examine into the matter.

The Umatilla House is running free gondolas through the streets of this temporary Venice. If Sam Klein had a red rash and a tenor voice he would be the boss gondolier; indeed we are inclined to concede him the title as it is, for he is yet only paragonic.

Portland is in the swim; but the water at latest date (yesterday morning) was not up to the mark of 1890, although the Columbia is above it, or that of 1876. The highest water Portland has ever had was in 1890, coming from the Willamette, the mark being June 24, 1876, 23.3; and February 5, 1890, 23.7. The record will be made this year, however, as the water we have already allowed to pass us (having more than we want) will do the business.

The Union Pacific is bringing its steamer Almota down to Celilo, she having left Riparia this morning. It is probable arrangements will be made with the D. P. & A. N. Co. by which communication will be again opened with the east, the mails and express being taken to Celilo in wagons from here. If this is done the portage at the Cascades will probably be opened.

Mrs. C. F. Stephens arrived home on the Regulator yesterday. She came from Portland Tuesday morning on the train, being told that the train would get through all right. At Bridal Veil the engine and a lot of freight cars went down with an undermined bridge. A transfer being made, she came on to Bonneville, and there the train was stopped. She remained in the car until Wednesday morning, and upon her request that the company either send her to her destination or return her money being denied, she boarded the steamer Dalles City and arrived home Wednesday night. The Union Pacific has a waste of waters and a right of way, but one thing will never be hurt by fire or flood, and that is its check.

High Water Notes.

J. P. McInerney dry goods, raised his counters and goods, and has suspended business.

N. Harris has done the same thing and has suspended business.

John Hertz, clothier, has moved his goods up stairs into the K. of P. hall.

Prinz & Nitschke, furniture dealers, have placed some of their goods on the galleries and moved the rest to the brick school house.

Snipes & Kinersly, druggists, have put their stock above danger line, but continue business as usual. They can stand five inches more water.

Maier & Benton, stove dealers, are still at their old stand, but have elevated part of their stock. Twelve inches more of rise will put the floor under water.

City Treasurer Burget has moved his department to Smith French and Butler's office.

McCoy has moved his barber shop into Rowland's real estate office, on Third street.

Frazier & Wyndham have moved their tonsorial rooms to Vause's paint shop.

J. H. Cross, the feed dealer, has moved his stock to high ground, above 1894 high water record. He has gone into the old electric light works.

Wood Bros., of the Washington market, have changed their quarters into the rear room, fronting on Washington street, of the Columbia Packing Co.

Mr. W. E. Garretson, the jeweler, has taken a room in with Gibbons and Marden.

Ad Kellar has moved his sample room to quarters adjoining Max Vogt's office.

The Branner restaurant was compelled to pack up last Tuesday, and have taken the new wagon shop of Jerome Lauer, between Young's blacksmith shop and Pat Fagan's tailor shop.

Ulrich & Son have moved their cigar factory to Eighth street near the German church.

The old Wasco Sun office is in the swim, having doused its glim.

All the business houses on Second street west of The Dalles National bank are closed, water having taken possession.

The Dalles National bank can stand thirteen inches more of a rise before the floor will be under the flood.

All of Front street is inundated, and skiffs are sailed from end to end of it. The U. P. R. R. Co.'s shop grounds, as well as their bridges, are completely submerged. The long trestle near the Umatilla House, is weighted down with loaded cars.

East end is all right so far. Joles, Collins & Co. have about four feet to go on before they will be compelled to seek a higher location.

Jos. T. Peters, hardware house and lumber yards, are being encroached on by the flood. The lumber yard is in a dangerous condition.

The Hood livery stable, owned by Ward, Kerns & Co., is pretty well surrounded by water, and part of the floor is pretty well soaked. Their other stables are above any danger of the flood.

Messrs. Mays & Crowe are all right yet, so are Pease & Mays, but 18 or 20 inches of a rise would cause serious trouble on account of their immense stock of agricultural implements, general merchandise, hardware, etc., which would have to be moved. The water has so encroached on the city that it is on three of the streets running east and west. The D. P. & A. N. Co. are compelled to land their steamer Regulator opposite the U. P. R. R. depot and the approach is confined to only one point, the others being submerged.

The CHRONICLE office can stand 22 inches of a rise before it will be compelled to evacuate. In that event The Dalles will be not only in the darkness, but without its regular evening visitor.

The Last of Hayes.

Justice Brigham of Dufur, held an inquest on the body of Hayes Monday. Dr. Dietrich of Dufur made an examination of the body and after hearing his testimony the jury brought in the following verdict.

"We the undersigned jurors, summoned to sit upon the body of the man found on Fifteen Mile Creek some twenty miles, more or less, above Dufur, after examining the surroundings and listening to the report of the physician, making the post mortem examination, do find as follows: That deceased was known as Jack Hayes. That the wound in his abdomen was accidentally caused, but that the wound on his cranium was the direct cause of his death, and was made by one or the other of his companions, whom all evidence points out to us to be John Hawthorne and Walter Rowe. We, therefore, do charge said Rowe and Hawthorne, one or both of them, with the crime of murder.

E. W. HINMAN,
FRANK PEABODY,
H. M. PEYMAN,
TIMOTHY BROWN,
FRANK C. BARTLETT,
C. ROBERTS.

The doctors examination disclosed a bullet wound in the groin, the bullet striking the upper edge of the pelvic bone glancing along it for several inches, striking the back bone and finally stopping just under the skin. The bullet was concave on the side where it had followed the pelvic bone, and was a short ball, fired from a pistol; or at least so the ball indicates by its grooves. Another wound in the back of the head must have caused death instantly. The bullet entered at two inches above, and an inch back of the right ear, coming out an inch or so above the corner of the left eye. The body was lying on its back when found, the head propped up on a shoe, and was evidently in that position when the fatal shot was fired. The doctor extracted the bullet from the pistol of the deceased for comparison with that taken from the body, and found that the latter was 63 grains lighter than the former. The hair was not powder burned and the bullet that produced death could not have been fired by the deceased.

The Outlook Bad.

We do not want to be classed as a croaker, but we confess that we can draw no consolation from the reports concerning the stage of the river above us. While the Snake is at a stand and Umatilla reports the Columbia also at a stand, we know that there is more coming. The dispatches of the 29th say the Frazier river is the highest ever known and this indicates very warm weather at the head of the Columbia. The same day the bridge across the Columbia on the Canadian Pacific was swept away. We can interpret this to mean only that a still further rise is at hand.
