JUNE JUNGLINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The railroad track up by the depot is beginning to show up.

W. E. Garretson can be found in Mr. Rowland's office, Masonic building.

Mr. Hawthorne has gone out to take care of his son, leaving this morning.

By common consent Friday, the 15th, has been agreed upon as collection day.

The D. P. & A. N. Co. are now ready to handle freight in limited quantities.

About one more day and the Umatilla house buses will retire from business.

A large number of U. P. passengers went down on the Regulator this morning.

Mr. Honeywill has his floors scrubbed out and will soon be back in his old quarters.

Postmaster Nolan has had his force busy for the past two days, distributing the vast amount of accumulated mail.

Third street is again visible and by the courthouse is already dry. It is pretty rocky, but it beats travelling in a boat.

Blakeley & Houghton will give their rooms a thorough overhauling, treating them liberally to paint and paper before moving in.

The electric light plant is rapidly emerging from its unappreciated bath and will soon be throwing a little light on the situation.

The following deed was filed for record yesterday: Geo. C. Jones to W. L. Conkey, 160 acres in section 17, township 1 north of range 9 east.

It is said that the Union Pacific has 200 men at work building the railroad across the sliding mountain between Bonneville and Cascade Locks.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Bently came down on the steamer Almota Monday, and into The Dalles Tuesday, bringing with him a couple of prisoners.

Sheriff Ward has a sturgeon two feet long corralled in the jail yard. How it got there is a mystery, the only apparent solution being that it came up the sewer.

While we were in the county clerk's office this afternoon Mr. Crossen and Mr. Kelsay came in. Realizing that a more august assembly would never be present than that our presence completed, Mr. Crossen administered the oath of office to his successor.

As soon as the water gets down enough to admit of it, Messrs. Senfert, Winans and others will put Indians at work dipping the royal chinook with hand nets.

The lawns that have been covered by the flood look decidedly rusty. A few days' sunshine will bring back their color, and the sediment should prove a splendid fertilizer.

Lew Morse and C. A. Bell are running a thousand or more telephone poles down Hood river. Captain Dukes and others have just finished bringing down 100,000 cedar fence posts.

It makes no difference to Harry Mahear who is elected governor of the state or justice of 8-Mile precinct. It's a nine-pound boy this time, and it ain't a populist either. All are doing well.

A train loaded with wheat for Portland was left on the track near the Wasco warehouse. During the flood the water got into the cars to the depth of about two feet, and the result is a vast amount of good chicken feed.

The river fell at Riparia in twenty-four hours, ending at 8 o'clock this morning, one foot, and at Umatilla ten inches. The weather is slightly warmer in the upper country. The weather bureau expresses the opinion that the river will continue to fall for four or five days at the least.

Reports from all over Eastern Oregon and Washington state that the wheat fields are in better condition than ever known, and the indications are that the crop will be a phenomenal one. If the price will get up above zero the country will get even for last year's lack of returns in coin.

In pumping out the cellar of the Columbia Packing house this morning a fish six inches long got into the pump and choked the valves. As the cellar is cemented, the sucker must have come up the sewer. This ought to settle the question as to whether fish will follow an underground channel.

We are told that the berry-growers of Hood River have about given up the attempt to get their products to market, and that recently 100 crates were given away. We think they could find a market here for some of them at prices that would at least pay something over the boxes and picking.

The new fire hydrants are all self-bleeders. In use they should be opened full, as when only partly open the water from the bleeder soon washes away the dirt, leaving the hydrant unsupported and in that condition a few twists loosens them and they blow off. There are two in the city now in that condition.

C. Thompson was brought up from Hood River last night by Constable Olinger to serve out a sentence of ninety days. He was charged with stealing "one pair of men's pants and one pair of men's shoes." The property was stolen from the Oregon Lumbering company, and as the defendant admitted his guilt, he is presumably satisfied with the result.

Monday we elect a new, or re-elect the old corps of city officers. Put on your thinking cap, and see that you elect good and efficient men. The city is in pretty bad shape owing to the flood, and a good, careful council and mayor should be selected, men who will guard the city's interests and more particularly just now look after the sanitary condition. It is perhaps well, as long as the water went over the streets, that it went in volume enough to carry away most of the filth, but yet there will be plenty.

The Mazamas, who will be on the summit of Mt. Hood July 19th, purpose illuminating the mountain that night. This is simply a word of caution to our readers, so that on that date when they see the red lights leaping from the summit, they won't think the old volcano has sprung a leak, or that Pennoyer has broken loose again, or any other dire disaster happened.

This is moving day again with us. It is pretty hard to move and attend to business without neglecting one or the other and moving will not admit of any negligence. The only way to move is just to move, and everything else must be subservient to it. THE CHRONICLE will be printed on our big press again but it will take several days to get everything in working order. In the meanwhile, however, do not forget that we are ready to take any advertisements or do any job printing offered. Just drop in and see us at the old stand.

The Lady or the Bear.

One day last week a lady living near White Salmon after picking strawberries all day at Carsten's place, started for home, carrying with her a small bucket of strawberries. She was wearing a big sunbonnet, so could not well see what was going on around her. Suddenly she was startled by receiving a severe blow on the shoulder that knocked her down. Struggling to her feet, she discovered that her assailant was a big black bear. Bruin was a sociable fellow, and after knocking the woman over, he sat down and proceeded with the utmost deliberation to eat the berries. The lady did not stop to discuss the question, but made him a present of both bucket and berries and fled for the nearest neighbor's. The men hurried back with their guns, but all they captured was—the bucket.

Election Notes.

Wallowa county went populist by a vote of almost two to one. Baker county also went populist. Lockett, democrat, is elected to the legislature and Coos and Curry elect jointly a populist legislator. In Sherman county the populists ran ahead of the democrats. The total vote of the state will be about 86,000, which is about evenly divided between the democrats and populists on one side and the republicans on the other.

Mischief of Any Bimetallic Movement.

The exaggerations of the free-silver orator become more mischievous when they have the approval of the Boston international bimetallicists. They intensify the superstition in respect to silver which abides in the interior, and which it is a public duty to try to overcome. Will England consent to bimetallicism, if it will make her food supply cost her more? The cause of the western farmer who wants more for his wheat will not become the cause of his chief customer who wants to get wheat cheap. Such argument does not appeal to John Bull. We should leave his conversion to his own people. All we have to do with England is to get as much of her gold as we can, and our surest way to do that is to re-establish the confidence of the English investor in our financial integrity. We can do this by adapting ourselves to the world's present way of doing business, just as though we expected no other. When England wants us to confer about bimetallicism, she knows the address of our ambassador. The prospect that she ever will consent to any unlimited coinage of silver, either at home or in India, at less than the market ratio, is none too cheering. We may wish her bimetallic party God-speed, and commend it to the saying that time, patience and sweet oil will carry a snail to Jerusalem.—Hon. Jos. C. Hepdrix, in the June Forum.

That Old Story.

In marked contrast to the wild stories about the Umatilla house and opera house floating away is the following from the Oregonian of the 8th, a part of the statement made by Rev. G. M. Irwin concerning the situation, and which we print by request:

"I closed my campaign in Sherman county Saturday evening, and since that time have traversed the country between here and there by carriage, water and afoot. The damage done by the flood at The Dalles has been greatly exaggerated, and the same thing may be said of all other points except Grant's station, which is really in imminent danger of being completely swept away. In fact, The Dalles has suffered but little more comparatively, than Portland. Rumored damage of the Umatilla house is not founded on fact. It is true that there is water in the building, but not enough to cause the upper portion to be abandoned. There is a little current running through the town, but no buildings except a couple of old shacks have been washed away."

Watch Lost.
