PIONEER'S DAY.

Today the Oregon pioneers meet in Portland-gray-headed men and women, remnant of a generation rapidly passing away. They were of hardy and stardy stock, those old pioneers; aggressive, fearless, energetic, indefatigable. It took stout hearts and brave, to make the journey across the then wild wastes The same qualities that sustained of Mr. Wm. Lord, the business of the Columbus and brought him to the new continent, were called into requisition and in no lesser degree. The unknown dangers of the 2000 miles of wild country the building. that lay before them, to be traversed by the slow-footed oxen, was a task a hundred times more difficult and dangerous than that of the great navigator. Through hardship and privation, and patient determination that overcomes all things, the long journey was accomplished, only that other hardships and privations should be undertaken. Cut off from the world, tied together by ties of blood, of love and of friendship; been employed on the Sound dalies for some time, and for a year edited a paper necessities of mutual aid, protection and necessities of mutual aid, protection and the sound graceful writer, and properly writer, and the same price and graceful writer. defense, there is between the survivors of those perilous times a closer bond of business. friendship than usual exists in any society. Today they meet to talk over old times, to live over old scenes; and gray heads will nod and gray beards 1st, 1890, will be paid on presentation at wag, and eyes dimmed with age will my office. Oh! blessed memory! that softens all that's sad, touches with gilt the darker shades, and lingers tenderly and long on pleasant things. The sorrow and the pain, the suffering and loss grow dim in memory, and only the sweet, the true, the beautiful remain. Ah, grand old people, fit progenitors of a noble race, be merry yet this time, rejoice and be glad, for ere another meeting comes, the hand of death will fall full heavily upon you. Already few in numbers, the thinning ranks will melt away until in a few brief years, the last of those who made the Northwest's history will pass away. Your country owes you much, for you first discovered and then saved to it this Northwest empire.

Hayes is dead, Hawthorne wounded and Rowe in prison. Their career was neither long nor brilliant, and it is indeed fortunate that the end came so soon.

That Rowe gave himself up shows that his heart is sore and his soul weary with his experience. Left alone, where nothing but his own conscience could commune with him, the situation appalled him. Then, if not before, his thoughts turned to his home; to the father, whose heart, though broken, still had a place for his boy; to the mother, his mother still, against whose loving breast his fevered brow and to May 1, 1890, will be paid at my office throbbing temples could be pressed as Interest ceases after the 21st inst. firmly and as endearingly as in times gone by, ere yet her baby's lips had learned to lisp the name of mother. Besides the wool, there is a large amount of FOR CITY MARSHAL. wheat and furniture, household goods, and almost everything in the shape of personal property on storage. The wool press is running, a competent grader Marshal Monday. who has been in the business for years, being in charge of it, and a large amount of the clip is put through every day. The warehouse is one of the most substantial buildings on the coast, heavy brick walls and iron doors and roof making it fire proof. It is well equipped in every way, its elevators proving of inestimable value during our recent flood, when the big sacks of wool were sent up-stairs by their aid at the rate of three a minute. Not a pound of wheat or wool, or anything stored there was damaged. The institution is managed on strictly business principles, and is run as a warehouse rather than a commission house. The rates and charges are low and the service good. Taken all in all, the Wasco warehouse is a credit and a convenience to The Dalles and the entire country south of us. The risk from fire is the slightest, and goods once placed in it, can be considered safe from fire or flood. Under the efficient management house has increased rapidly and will, no doubt, continue to do so until its business is only measured by the capacity of

Wasco County,

Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY. It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles. The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.

THE CELEBRATED COLUMBIA BREWERY, AUGUST BUCHLER, Prop'r.

This well-known Brewery is now turning out the best Beer and Porter east of the Cascades. The latest appliances for the manufacture of good health ful Beer have been introduced, and on v the first class article will be placed on
