THE WILSON BILL DOOMED.

The Wilson bill has been debated, amended and agreed to, all except the income tax, and as we write that is probably receiving the attention of the to this last feature, insisting that the New York, Connecticut and Massachuthe tariff bill now stands, the income senate. Senator Hill is bitterly opposed passing of an income tax bill will drive setts out of the democratic ranks. As tax is the least objectionable feature in it. But to Hill, Brice and German it is as a red rag to an enraged bull. We do not believe the aggregation of enough to pass the bill against the opposition of the clique. If the income clause is stricken out, some democrats and perhaps some populists, will refuse to put the bill through. Senator Peffer woted to keep a duty on salt of five cents per hundred pounds because "some of my constituents are engaged in making it," and it will not take very strong arguments to turn him against the bill. However, should the bill pass the senate, it must go back to the house. The house will not recognize its own child, and will refuse to pass the bill as amended. Then comes the conference committee. Here again the interests of the congressmen and senators will clash. The congressmen must go before their constituents this fall. They must face the music at the ballot box in Novemher. The matter is further away with the senate. The congressman would rather go home and face his constituents without having passed the Wilson bill as amended by the senate, than not. The house will therefore stand pat. It will demand the original Wilson bill or nothing. This the sugar-coated senators will never consent to. The individual congressman can then "point with pride" to the fact that the house carried out the pledges of the party, practically, but that the traitors in the party in the senate refused to do so. They will lay the blame on the senate, and they will be glad of the opportunity

The house has taken note of the recent elections and would gladly take advantage of any opportunity to crawl out from under the weight of the Wilson bill. Its safety now is in doing the sin of flirtation. For it they conenothing; hence we believe no agreement can be reached between the two branches of congress. Even should the bill pass by any accident, the silentman in the white house will veto it. The short term of congress will meet in December. It will not have time then to pass a tariff bill before March 4th, and by that time the lower house will have a safe working majority.

The McKinley bill will stand, and the country will breathe freer, for the party that stands for protection will have a lease of power for the next twenty years. In our humble opinion the Wilson bill, in any of its forms, is doomed.

A VOTE-CATCHING PLATFORM.

The republican state platform is somewhat of a curiosity, trending towards populism in some respects, yet taking a baldness where the glands which feed position on the immigration question, far in advance of anything yet offered in the shape of a party platform. On the subject it says: "We demand the enactment and strict enforcement of such laws as will absolutely and effectively prohibit the immigration of all foreign laborers, both skilled and unskilled into this country." The English of that sentence is not very clear, but its meaning is. It means that the rioting and lawlessness of certain foreign elements, particularly the Slave, Hungarians and MEALS COOKED TO ORDER, Italians of the coal regions, have awakened Americans to the danger of permitting that class of immigration; and as it is difficult to single out any particular nationality for proscription Party Suppers a Specialty. the stopping of all immigration naturally suggests itself. The republicans of California have set their flag far ahead of the lines, but we predict that all the national conventions will be in a hurry to get up alongside of it. Another plank demands the giving of the voting power to women; and as was expected a plank is inserted demanding the coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one. The convention made a bobble over towards populism in another plank, urging that the government take a part of the money received from customs duties, and use it to pay freight on agricultural products to foreign countries. This latter plank will hardly be indorsed by the national republicans; but while perhaps weak in one or two things we want to say, that it is a vote-catching platform; in that respect being one of the best ever produced on the coast. The result in Oregon will be duplicated in California, and the republicans will carry the state by an overwhelming

THE MALE FLIRT.

Who Is the More Detestable in a Wom an's Estimation?

One can not pass through a flirtation -man or woman-without lowering the tone of one's mind, writes Felicia Holt in the Ladies' Home Journal. I know that I seem to thus put mind before the affections; but in the prosaic nineteenth century hearts seem out of fashion. Cupid has taken a holiday and AT THE OLD STAND left us to our own devices; he loves an age when pounds and pence play a less conspicuous part, for love laughs at calculation. So our mental development Musical Instruments, Music, becomes our highest consideration, and it must suffer in a game where only the sly trickster holds the trump card.

Dignity and trifling put each other out of countenance, as does the bishop and the clown; and when a man and woman enter with deliberation into the unworthy joust of tilting one's attractions against the other with no other aim than the gratification of his or her vanity, then, I say, neither party can come out unscathed, either mentally or morally.

If one is more detestable than the other, it is the male flirt; for since cus tom has given him the power of making the advance, he can do the most harm, particularly should he practice his cruel arts upon an unsophisticated girl; she may fall a victim to his cruelty.

A man may recover from a bitter encounter of this sort a sadder and a wiser man; his trust in woman may be terribly shaken, but he does not succumb as does the woman, whose heart, once wiled from her keeping, grows weary FRENCH & CO., of the world.

And, incredible as it may seem, womer are quite as much to blame as men for demn the sin, they invariably smile upon the sinner, specially if he is handsome and attractive.

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cared me. Within twentyfour hours I was out of bed and doing my housework. Mrs. W. L. Dunagan, Bon-aqua, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton druggists.
