MO NDAY, JUNE 25, 1894

TWO OF A KIND.

The following is a dialogue in the senate Friday between Senators Hill and Harris under "senatorial courtesy" rules:

"I accept the result of the responsibility most cheerfully," replied Harris, in a disgusted tone.

"I will make the senator accept other responsibilities," said Hill, his eyes flashing. The New York senator was evidently thoroughly aroused.

"Proceed," ejaculated Harris, without rising from his seat.

"I will not be ordered by you," said Hill, turning upon the senator from Tennessee. "I will have none of your plantation manners exhibited toward me."

"Neither do I care for an exhibition of the manners of the slums of New York," hotly retorted Harris, rising to his feet.

"They are better than those of the plantations of Tennessee," said Hill.

And this between Mrs. O'Flaherty and Mrs. O'Rourke, Billingsgate rules, as explained to the magistrate next morning by the latter lady:

"It was this way it happened, yer honour.

"I was byin' some fish of Mrs. O'Flaherty, and sez I, your honour, 'Is it fish ye have, Mrs. O'Flaherty?'"

"It is," sez she.

"Are they frish?" sez I.

"They are," sez she.

"They shmill to hiv'n," sez I.

"They don't," says she.

"They're rotten," sez I.

"They ain't," sez she.

"They shtink," sez I.

"You're a liar," sez she.

"You're another," sez I.

"And spht she tuk me."

The Oregonian is much worried over the Astorian misrepresenting the effects of the flood on Portland and the Columbia river. The Astorian says that Portland suffered immense damage, and that the vast amount of sand and mud brought down by the flood has caused shoals, filling the channel so that deep sea vessels can no longer reach Portland. The Oregonian says in commenting on this that the Astoria editor is a proper subject for the fool killer. We agree with him, indeed we go further, for the Astorian only misrepresented Portland in the same manner the Oregonian misrepresented The Dalles. The fool killer while at it, can finish two ripe jobs.

The taking of the steamer Baker off the middle river was a great mistake, but the removal of the machinery from the shops here was a greater one. If the machinery was here and a force of men could be put at work, it would be a great convenience, and materially shorten the time in which the repairs can be completed. The shops should be brought back, and then kept here. In case the U. P. throws up its contract, which it seems anxious to do, and the property is again turned over to the O. R. & N., it is at least probable the old shops will again be started up.

They Turned Over.

One of the wagons loaded with passengers from the Almotas upset near Floyd's place yesterday, in trying to pass another wagon ahead of it. Everybody was unceremoniously dumped out, but no one seriously hurt. Mr. L. Blumenthal bruised his off hind leg but was all right by night. The party stopped at Floyd's for dinner, and every individual of them took particular pains to tell the reporter that they had the finest dinner they ever ate in Oregon and all were congratulating themselves on the accident that yielded such pleasing results. A team was sent out from here, and the delayed passengers, reached here about 7 o'clock.

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnestly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twenty-four hours I was out of bed and doing my housework. Mrs. W. L. Dnnagan, Bon-aqua, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton druggists.

AMAZED THE HEARERS. Two Ministerial Plagiarists Preach the Same Sermon in Succession.

Two village newspapers up their way are exchanging stories of their experiences in reporting plagiarized sermons, says a Middletown correspondent of the New York Sun. The Gardiner Weekly set out by telling of a church in that village whose pulpit is supplied by two preachers from neighboring towns on alternate Sundays. The other Sunday Pastor A. filled the pulpit and preached an unusually brilliant and effective sermon. The next Sunday Pastor B. in turn occupied the sacred desk, and amazed the congregation by preaching word for word the sermon they had heard from Pastor A.'s lips a week before. It is intimated that each had cribbed the discourse from an old book of sermons and had preached it from the same pulpit in serene confidence that the plagiarist would never be found out.

The Ellenville Journal matches this story by another of a clergyman in that village who brought to the office the manuscript of a sermon he had preached the previous Sunday, and procured its publication as original with him. A day or two later somebody handed the editor a New York paper with the alleged original sermon reported in its columns as having been preached by an eminent Brooklyn divine a month before.

A similar incident relates to an eloquent and much-admired discourse preached by another Ellenville clergyman. "Before publication day," says the editor, "we stumbled upon a sermon in an old magazine, printed thirty years before. We gave out two pages of the old magazine to the composers, and printed the matter in the Journal as a report of the eloquent discourse we had listened to on the previous Sunday. We were rewarded by receiving from the preacher cordial congratulations on the strict accuracy of our report of his sermon."

STILL A MYSTERY.

Nobody Has Yet Explained the Secret of Ouija's Strange Power.

Ouija still flourishes in Boston, according to the Transcript, as a drawing-room amusement. Now and then it accomplishes something quite remarkable, as, for instance, the other night, when a story-writer asked the question of Ouija—the story-writer not being at the board, but sitting near by—"What is to be the name of the hero of my next story?" No one but the asker of the question knew what the name was, but Ouija proceeded to spell out the first four letters of a very unusual name—and then stuck. After awhile, with a little faltering and a wrong letter once, the entire name was spelled out. It must have been hit upon either by accident—which would be very remarkable—or else must have somehow got from the mind of the only person who knew the name to the fingers of the persons who were at the board—which perhaps would be still more remarkable. One young lady was told by Ouija that a friend had a gift of lilies for her at the office. To test the matter she went to the office, and found him about to send her an offering of lilies. Perhaps this was simply a clever guess. It is a singular thing that Ouija is generally inclined to blackguardism and bad words, and has been known to swear violently in households where no oath was ever heard. The spiritualists explain it on the ground that the board is manipulated by an idle, impertinent sort of spirits.
