JUNE JUNGLINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

County court meets Monday and commissioners court Thursday.

J. H. Cross is back at the old stand and has a full stock of goods. Call and see him.

Seven linemen were sent up from Portland last night by the Western Union to re-build the telegraph line running east from here.

The trial of Walter Douglas is going on today, a jury being secured this forenoon. This is one of the cases sent here from Sherman county.

The Regulator brought up a large number of passengers last night, and the Umatilla and Cosmopolitan were filled to overflowing, as was also the New Columbia.

The construction train working this way from Umatilla is now several miles this side of Castle Rock, having repaired ten or twelve miles of the road, some of which was in very bad order.

The county bridge at Hood River was saved, but is yet impassable. It will be repaired as soon as the water will permit. In the meanwhile the only way to get across the river is by way of the bridge at Tuckers.

The river is falling steadily, at noon today it was at the 44.2 mark, a fall of about .4 since last night. The Regulator wharf is beginning to be on top again, the water being off it for a distance of sixty feet.

Walter Rowe, upon being brought into court this morning charged with burglarizing Mays & Crowe's store, entered a plea of not guilty. His trial will not come off until the two cases from Sherman county are disposed of.

The Klickitat militia camped at Rockland last night, and took passage on the Regulator this morning, bound for Woodland, four miles from Olympia, where they will be in camp for eight days. The two companies consist of 130 men and officers, and the regimental officers bring the number up to 136. Quite a number of the officers and their wives stopped at the Umatilla last night.

Give Them a Chance.

While it is no doubt necessary for a number of express wagons and trucks to gather at the boat landing in the evening, yet some system should be adopted by which a passage way should be left for people on foot. Passengers are forced to crowd between drays and wagons, to get out from the boat and much complaint is made. Another thing little less annoying, and equally conducive to complaints, is the manner in which people crowd up to the gang plank until it becomes almost impassable. We are sure this is done more from thoughtlessness than anything else and that it will be discontinued.

A Boy and a Pistol.

This morning about 10 o'clock Louis Boyd, jr., accidentally shot Harry Phillips' son, Billy, in the foot. Both are little fellows, and by some means became the possessors of an old revolver, 22-caliber. While playing up near L. D. Boyd's residence, Louis, let his thumb slip off the hammer, discharging the weapon with the above result. A physician was called removing the bullet. While the wound is not a dangerous one, it is another proof that "a boy and pistol" are as dangerous as a dynamite bomb.—Heppner Gazette.

Death of Mrs. Peaslee.

The funeral of Mrs. M. W. Peaslee, who died here yesterday, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Macalister, corner of Fourth and Laughlin. Deceased was born in Maine December 1, 1821, her maiden name being Curtis, and came to the coast about fourteen years ago, where she has remained ever since, most of the time being a resident of this city. She was of a wonderfully kind and charitable disposition, and was beloved by all who knew her.

The Fourth at Endersby.

Endersby will have a Fourth of July celebration at Campbell's grove, and extends an invitation to everybody, and the citizens of The Dalles especially to come and participate. Fligg and William Endersby. Persons from a distance will be made the special care of the residents and everybody will be taken care of.

The meaning of song goes deep. Who is there that, in logical words, can express the effect music has on us? A kind of inarticulate, unfathomable speech, which leads us to the edge of the infinite, and lets us for moments gaze into that.—Carlyle.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Mosier Musings.

On the principle that a half a loaf is better than no bread at all, I volunteer to fill the position vacated by "Sub" since the birth of his twins as correspondent of THE CHRONICLE, and will from time to time enlighten the Mosier world as to what the other half is doing. The twins, by the way, are doing finely, and if they continue to improve as they have with their short year of life, are booked to make a great deal of noise in the world. The paternal parent, who has been chopping a little wood to get a little more money to buy a little more grub to give him a little more strength to chop a little more wood, is about to enlarge his residence and has already erected his den, which he has judiciously placed twenty-four feet from the main factory.

Mr. McCauley has been installed at Mosier as line repairer by the telegraph and telephone company.

A neighbor who recently walked from Hood River to Mosier observed nine telephone poles in succession splintered by lightning in the storm about three weeks since. Lightning is a most unusual feature of this section.

Preparations are on foot for a Fourth of July celebration in the grove below the cold spring near the station. There will be speaking, singing and a dance in the evening. Considerable Chinese powder will also be ignited.

The high water took out the wagon bridge across Rock creek, and Supervisor Miller worked Saturday on a ford across it.

The river has been a prolific source for drift, ranging from a beer keg to a house. Two small houses floating down were secured by Messrs. Lewis and Sellinger. Ira Rowland tugged away manfully at a barrel of alcohol from the Grant distillery, but it proved too unwieldy for him, and he relinquished his efforts in time to save his life.

The vote polled at Mosier was very light and does not nearly represent our population. I believe many of the democrats purposely forgot it was election day.

Two rails, widely diverging, their ends still concealed beneath the surging bosom of the Columbia, mark the east approach to the big trestle bridge west of the station. The trestle went out, in common with all of them between Mosier and Hood River, and was one of the largest on the line.

A midsummer dance was held Friday evening at Mr. Jeff Mosier's, the proceeds being used to help in paying for an organ to be used for the Sunday school. A large number attended and a very enjoyable time resulted.

A section hand narrowly escaped death by drowning Wednesday. Three workmen were precipitated into the Columbia while riding a handcar over the floating trestle leading to the truss bridge across Mosier creek, caused by the rails spreading. The hand in question fell beneath the car in the water, and had it not been for the bravery of a son of Section Foreman Waters, who jumped in the deep water and extricated him, he would have drowned.

REGULAR.

Particulars of the Burning of Miss Amanda Hildebrandt.

The closing exercises at the Ranier school last night were the scene of an accident, which resulted in the death today of Miss Amanda J. Hildebrandt, one of the teachers in that school. As the audience was leaving the hall at the conclusion of the exercises, some one, in passing a large piano lamp, upset it. It fell over Miss Hildebrandt's shoulders onto the floor, and the flames at once caught on her skirts, setting them in a blaze. After an ineffectual attempt to smother the blaze, she rushed from the schoolroom into the hall. She was instantly followed by some of the men present, who wrapped her in cloaks and carried her down to the yard, where it became necessary to throw on water before the fire was entirely put out. Others devoted themselves to putting out the fire in the school room, which was accomplished before the fire department arrived.

Miss Hildebrandt was taken to the residence of her father at 423 Taylor street, and medical attendance was at once summoned. She was frightfully burned, and the physicians from the first had but little hope of her recovery. Their forebodings were realized, for she died this morning, after intense suffering.—Seattle Exchange.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the gripe the past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures not only in cases of la grippe, but in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, and has cured cases of asthma and hay fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free trial bottles at Snipes & Kinsersly's drug store.
