SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1894

JULY JINGLINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

A. R. Wilcox came in from Antelope today.

The adjourned annual meeting of the city council will be held at the city hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The case of G. V. Bolton against Mrs. E. B. Rinehart was before Referee D. S. Dufar today, who is taking the testimony in the case.

The steam fire engine pumped away at the water in the lots north of this shop all day yesterday, and is finishing up the work today.

Mart Waterman came to town yesterday and had Dr. Logan repair the damages he had received by running a pitchfork through one of his feet.

Mr. Stevenson has put men at work cutting ties and getting the portage in shape, and expects to have it in condition to handle all freight within a week or ten days.

A fire broke out in the timber on Adam Fleck's place yesterday and spread over into the Rogers place, burning about ten cords of wood belonging to Judge Bennett.

The Regulator brought up about forty tons of freight yesterday, clearing up all the old lot that had accumulated at the portage. The Dalles City brought up eighty tons to replace it, but most of that will reach here tonight.

The jury in the Maloney-Snelling case came in at 3 o'clock, after being out twenty-eight hours, with a verdict of guilty, but recommended the prisoners to the mercy of the court. The case of Conroy against Harris was decided for plaintiff. Court will probably adjourn for the term tonight.

Within a week the cars will be running from this place to Celilo and from Portland to the Cascade Locks. As soon as this is done the Union Pacific will resume its daily through service, the strike permitting, arrangements having been made with the Regulator for handling the company's business from the Cascades to this point.

Lady-bug Whither Away?

The green aphid, of which we spoke a few days ago, spread very rapidly, being reported at various points all through the wheat section. Before they did much damage the gandy lady-bug came in swarms and proceeded to individually and collectively make three square meals and a luncheon every day, at which green aphid raw was the principal dish. They fed on them so ravenously that in three days the market was bare, and green aphid a decided rarity. "The ladies, God bless them," and the lady-bugs too, for they resemble one another in one respect, that anything green is soon taken in by either of them.

Getting in Shape.

The pile driver to be used in repairing the trestle across Mill creek was completed last night and hauled out to the place of its labors. As soon as the piles can be procured Mill creek will soon have a safe bridge across it, and this will open the road as far west as Rowena, or a couple of miles beyond that point. Next week the only parts of the road impassable will be from Celilo to Rufus, and from the Locks to a few miles this side of Mosier. The road from the Locks to Hood River can be put in condition in a week, when once the connection is made between the former place and Bonneville.

The Salmon Run.

The salmon run continues without any apparent symptoms of a strike. Everding's cannery is putting up about twenty-five tons of canned fish daily. The fishermen could easily supply four times the amount they are finding market for, and no doubt if the U. P. trains were running salmon would be abundant and cheap in most of the eastern cities. As it is, the gay bluebacks hit themselves ever upwards, and they ought to stock the river from its source to the sea as it never was before.

Died Happy.

It seems from more recent information concerning the Indian who was drowned near the coal bunkers on the Fourth, that our statement was only partly correct. We stated at the time that he had a fit, but it seems now that it was a drunken mis-fit. Parties called to him to hang on and they would get a boat to him but he flourished one hand and reviled them in Chinook and bad Chinook at that. He went down, loaded, full of fight and fire-water and consequently happy.

County Court.

The commissioners' court will probably conclude its labors today. Nearly all bills have been acted upon, and a great number of petitions for assistance in repairing roads have been read and decisions reached. Owing to the record books being constantly referred to it was impossible for ye scribe to get hold of them long enough to get a good start on them, as there are over 400 docket entries.

Mitchell Notes.

Mitchell's improvements are still going on. We are to have a cabinet shop. Mr. Andrews is the proprietor. Sheep shearing in the Bridge Creek country completed today.

Mr. Carnett relinquishes his right to the stage line between here and Antelope today, and the new proprietor starts on his first trip tomorrow. Also Mr. Seigfort, the contractor who carries the mail from here to Canyon, has made his last trip, and Mr. Marion Gillan takes charge. Mr. Gillan is well known by every one in this section, and all wish him luck.

The weather notes of the last ten days have been changeable, with a few days of last week quite cool. At present it is oppressively warm, with thunder in the distance and clouds hanging thick, having a very threatening appearance; but, with the abundance of rain that has fallen all spring and summer, the ground at present is dry, and a shower is much needed.

The general health is very good at present. Although there has been much complaint, there has been no serious illness. Mr. Sasser's children have been complaining some the past week with a slight attack of the gripple.

Grandma Mansfield passed out of this life the last day of June at the ripe old age of 72 years. Let us not mourn for one upon whom so many years have been crowded, with the multitudinous cares that must come to one that has the management of a home and is sponsor for the well being of a family, which has been numerous. Let only the tears of a pleasant memory course the cheek as you smooth the snowy locks of that aged mother. Let no regrets come to you that she has passed over to the mystic shore. Her life work is done, and it has been done as well as she knew. She was so tired, so weary. Let your voice rise up in a thankfulness that her tired feet will stumble no more over rough and uneven ways; that her toil-worn hands will loose their weary tenure as she is piloted on by loving guides to her haven of security, of peace, of quiet, of rest that comes to all that have lived a life of worth. Farewell, but for a time.

Mitchell is making as many preparations to entertain as sumptuously as these hard times will admit on the Fourth. I do not think there will be any fireworks, or, in fact, not anything of much dimensions, for you know Mitchell has been one of the sufferers from high water, and there is no room left for such displays.

Mitchell, July 1, 1894.

A Lively Runaway.

One of the liveliest runaways of the season occurred this morning about 10:30. The team belonging to Charley Denton and used by him in peddling fruit and vegetables started from near the Umatilla house and in a moment were making racing time up Union street. They turned east down Third and sprinkled that street with cherries, raspberries, peas, beans and new potatoes in a most astonishing manner. The air was filled with misdirected garden sass, and as the turn was made from Third down Court the boxes, baskets and bags abandoned the wagon and took to the road. The wagon struck the awning posts in front of the Masonic building, taking out several of them. This failed to check the animals, but it gave them a turn over toward the other side of the street, and here a serious difficulty met them. The near horse wanted to go up the alley for a change, while his off mate desired to sample the sidewalk, and so between two hastily-formed desires, they ran on opposite sides of the same tree, and the wagon being unable to follow, brought up the whole outfit with a yank.

The horses were thrown down and everything loose in the wagon, that had not quit it before, did so then. The horses were evidently greatly surprised at the sudden ending of their wild flight, and were as docile as lambs while being extricated from their predicament. The damage, with the exception of a broken strap or two and the disseminated vegetables, was nothing.

A soft, fair skin is the result of pure blood and a healthy liver, to secure which, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the Superior Medicine. Ladies who rely upon cosmetics to beautify their complexions, should make a note of this, bearing in mind that they can't improve upon nature.

MISS HARRIET MORROW, who wrote the "World's Fair Ode," is delivering a course of lectures on the English poets, at the Newberry Library, Chicago.

Sufferers from chills and fever, who have used quinine as a remedy, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure. This preparation, if taken according to direction, is warranted a sure cure. Residents in malarial districts should not be without it.
