ECLE," The Dalles, Oregon

MONDAY, - - - JULY 9, 1894 THE END ALL RIGHT.

The present strike is probably the best organized affair of the kind ever attempted, yet the results show that the same trouble that has met every strike has afflicted this one. No one doubts but that the great majority of those taking part in the strike are law-abiding, patriotic citizens; but the unruly element has effectually destroyed the effiment has effectually destroyed the effi-engineer, Mr. Kennedy, after a trip over cacy of the organization by violating the the road and right-of-way to Ruius, relaw, and also, no doubt, the obligation turned to Portland on the Regulator this they each took on joining the order.

It is truly unfortunate that this strike was not settled on lines within the law, as it could and should have been. The question between capital and labor has to be settled, and it might as well have been fought to a finish now as any time. The issue was made up and made squarely, but it has been superseded. It is no longer a question between labor and capital; between Pullman and his employes, or between the strikers and the railroad companies. It is now simply a question between right and wrong; between the government and those misguided people who have attached themselves to the strikers to the latter's undoing; between law and anarchy. There is but one conclusion for the affair-the law must win. We know the element of which the railroad employes are the perfect type. They are bright, energetic, vigorous, determined men; good citizens, good patriots; and no one need fear that if the question comes as to whether they shall choose between the union that Debs has created, however good it may be, and that for which their grandsires fought at Lexington and Monmouth; at Brandywine and Eutaw Springs; consecrated at Valley Forge and sealed at Yorktown, but that the answer will be such as the descendants of such sires should make.

The amount of bloodshed, of suffering and of sorrow necessary to a final solution of the difficulty depends largely on the action of the strikers. Anarchy has struck the strike and given it a death blow.

THE SITUATION SERIOUS.

A dispatch appearing on our front page entitled "An Appeal from Debs" is a sensible statement, a comprehensive our flocks, cost of labor, value of the grasping of the situation in its true light. No doubt the position taken by Mr. Debs is indorsed by nine-tenths of the strikers, but it is the other tenth that And, while the hot sun and severe raise the trouble, because they cannot | frost may be against us to some extent, | Satisfaction guaranteed. be controlled. It is time for every patriotic citizen striker or not to pause and consider well where the end is to be. It would this date. I. I. BURGET, City Treas. be a strange spectacle indeed to see a civil war growing out of this strike, yet it promises that. Should such a thing occur the conditions under which the late war was fought would be reversed, and it would be the South on which the dry ar and hard wood for infinediate well, or that have given such universal government would have to rely for its greatest strength. We think, however, trade. the backbone of the strike is broken for the cooler heads among the strikers will be driven to abandon the movement, if such acts as those in Chicago are to be the result. The situation is serious more so than most of us dream of, and if it does not rise to the dignity of a civil center, will be sold or in the fall rented. war, the nation will be fortunate.

The Way in Which They Care for and Manage Their Flocks.

Sheep farmers in England do not all follow the same methods of care and management of their flocks, says John Jackson, of Ontario. In some sections where they have shaded permanent pastures the sheep are allowed to roam at large for a portion of the season. In other parts of the country they are folded in hurdles summer and winter.

In some cases they are folded on grass land, and moved every day; in others they are kept in folds, the grass being cut and fed in racks-in this case they are moved at regular intervals, so that in either case by this system the land is regularly and evenly manured. And again, in other cases, the land is sown with vetches; the sheep are then folded on this land, the vetches being cut forward of the fold, and also fed in the racks. Another thing the flock masterstare very particular about is to use nothing but a first-class ram, even in the flocks that are only kept for wool and mutton. They attend the ram sales and buy the best they can get. I know of a breeder that sold last year at the Cirencester ram sale forty rams that brought enough money to pay the five rulers. rent on a good farm of eight hundred acres, and the most of these rams would be bought for crossing.

But to determine just how far we can follow the English practice of management in our flocks we must first consider the different circumstances in which we are placed-our hotter climate in summer, the more intense cold in winter, the smallness of product, etc. Yet in many ways, to a certain extent at least, we would do

I know that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the Shorders I have named above."

When the present troubles are settled the government will do a good thing by arresting and deporting Herr Most. The deportation should be made by way of the hangman's noose, thus guaranteeing his remaining away perpetually.

The Oregonian waxes sanguinary over the strike situation, and wants somebody killed. If someone would lend its incarnadine editor a gun and a blue uniform, the strike business would soon be settled.
