The title has a great deal to do with the popularity of a book. An English novel in the early days of this century found no readers when announced as "The Champion of Virtue," but immediately became popular as the "Old English Daron.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I give it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. D., Tamaroa, Ill. for sale by Blakeley & Houghton Drug-

"PAPA FLEUTELOT," MISER.

A French Millionaire Who Regged in the Streets and Died in Filth.

A miser of the story-book type died a few weeks ago in Auxerre, France Although he never had wife or children he was known to all the persons in the city as "Papa Fleutelot." He had been a public figure for a generation, and could be seen daily, in storm or sunshine, tottering in his rags through the streets to gather odd bits of coal and wood and cigar stumps. When he began his work in the city there were the usual rumors that he was rich and miserly, but they were soon dispelled by the abject filth and want in which he lived, and by his imimportunity in begging.

Papa Fleutelot died in his eightyfifth year, and was buried in the potter's field. The French police, who suspect everything, still suspected the old man's pretenses of poverty, despite the recent shifting of public opinion, and they searched the hut in which he had lived and died. Filth was ankle deep upstairs and knee deep in the cellar. The first search was rewarded only with the discovery of four hundred bottles of Bordeaux, vintage of 1790. The second search, however, revealed a hole in the cellar wall behind a pile of indescribable dirt. From this hole the police dragged a chest, and in the chest they found the treasure. top to bottom it was stuffed full with mortgages, government bonds, shares in stock companies and title deeds. All showed the keenness of Papa Fleutelot in investing his savings, for without exception the securities were of the highest class. Their face value was one million francs, but as many of the bonds and stocks were above par they can be sold for a much larger sum.

For more than eleven years the old man had neglected to clip his coupons. He had let them accumulate until they represented a market value of one hundred and forty thousand francs.

Among the many pieces of real estate whose ownership was revealed by the contents of the chest is a large tract of land near Villeneuvesur-Yonne. this land are four hundred acres of fine forest and several buildings of the ancient and indestructible make. It had been more than forty years since any body at Villeneuve knew who owned the estate. When Papa Fleutelot died in his hovel but twenty centimes, or less than five cents, was his total cash capital. As was expected, the usual number of heirs have appeared since the old man's body was buried in the potter's field. They affect to believe that still more treasure is concealed in his hut, and they are taking it down piece by piece in the hope of enriching themselves.
