

LOOK AT THE SIZE of the ordinary pill. Think of all the trouble and disturbance it causes you. Wouldn't you welcome something easier to take, and easier in its ways, if at the same time it did you more good? That is the case with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest in size, the mildest in action, but the most thorough and far-reaching in results. They follow nature's methods, and they give help that lasts. Constipation, Bilious Headaches, Sick and Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

"If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." That is what is promised by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Doesn't it prove, better than any words could, that this is a remedy that cures Catarrh? Costs only 50 cents.

A Celestial "Barker."
An Egyptian shopkeeper had a deity to whom he offered sacrifice every morning, and whose duty it was in return for this reverence to stand in front of the shop during the day, a sort of celestial "barker," and direct the attention of the people passing by to the shop and its contents.

JOHANN STRAUSS, the celebrated composer of waltz music, is shortly to celebrate his artistic jubilee in Vienna. He made his debut in 1844 at the head of a dance band in the gardens attached to a Viennese restaurant.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I give it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemyre House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many a bruise or sprain. This same remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

The De Beers Diamond Mining company of South Africa has paid its shareholders an average of about 25 per cent. yearly profit during the past five years. It paid 12 1/2 per cent. for the first half of last year, and had over $10,000,000 worth of property credited on its balance sheet. Its capital is about $40,000,000.

HARD ON STENOGRAPHERS.

New York Is No Place for the Idle or Incompetent.

A High Standard of Proficiency Set by Employers—Applicants Are Subjected to a Thorough Examination.

That New York is the grand center for competent stenographers and a short-lived rendezvous for incompetents is frankly admitted. Yet, of the estimated thirty thousand stenographers and typewriters in the city to-day, the proportion who are a credit to the shorthand profession is said to be surprisingly small. A veteran phonographer in touch with the progress of the art recently said: "Here in this city there are every year a legion of young people who commence the study of shorthand through the ill advice of parents or friends, without making the first inquiry into the mental or physical qualities requisite in the make-up of a skillful stenographer; hence it is that only about one person in twenty ever reaches the goal of success."

One instructor says much more is expected of a stenographer to-day than ever before, and more talent is required here in New York city than in any other place he knows of in this country. Business men no longer tutor and humor incompetent employees. Schools are demanding a higher standard of excellence than ever before. We will not recommend a pupil for a position until he has passed a technically rigid examination in taking from dictation and properly transcribing all forms of office correspondence, legal matter in the form of complaints, answers, affidavits, agreements, testimony, specifications, amendments and other details. Besides this, we frequently dictate extracts from magazines, newspapers and encyclopedias.

Only a few years ago the prediction was made that shorthand schools must decrease their production of graduates, or, as a natural result, one of two things was imminent among shorthand writers—a reduction of wages or a raising of the degree of excellence required for the obtaining of employment. The latter alternative seems to be rapidly approaching. Probably fifty per cent. more shorthand skill and general education is to-day required to hold a good position in New York city than was needed five years ago. When questioned as to this the above instructor said:

"Work here is done quickly and systematically, and the stenographer who succeeds in this busy metropolis must know a great many things besides having the mere ability to make marks and operate a typewriter. He must have education, skill and discernment, and be able to use shorthand and to typewrite with great intelligence. One year's training in a business house here is conceded to be as valuable, from a practical point of view, as three years' training in many other large cities."

"That this fact is rapidly becoming known and appreciated is shown by the steadily increasing number of young people who come here from a distance to learn and practice the art. They come to this city from Florida, Kansas, California, Cuba, Spain, and, indeed, from all over the world; yet, despite this great influx, salaries here range higher than in any other part of the country. In Chicago, for instance, many stenographers last summer accepted positions at three or four dollars less per week than they would receive here."

Our best short-hand schools now require an entrance examination. Candidates for admission are closely examined in spelling, punctuation, penmanship, English composition, geography and many other vital points, and there is no hesitancy in rejecting any applicant who is disqualified. Only a few years ago the average speed necessary to answer the requirements of an amanuensis was seventy to one hundred words per minute, while at the present time a rate of less than one hundred and twenty words per minute is deemed inadequate.

"Of high-grade stenographers," said Mr. Snyder of the Remington bureau, "there is not half enough to meet the demands. Through this agency alone, three thousand stenographers and typewriters were last year recommended to paying positions. Of this number, probably two-thirds were young women."

"It is curious to note," he added, "that the young men who come to New York from the country meet the requirements far better than those who are residents of the city. The former come here with a definite aim and purpose, look upon their position and surroundings more seriously, and work with much greater earnestness and sincerity."

She Likes to Get Even.

"If there is one thing more than another that pleases me, it is to get even with a grumpy man," said a bright girl in our hearing the other day. "The other night a man and I were out walking and he asked me into a drug store to have some soda. Before we ordered he asked the proprietor if he could change a ten dollar bill and that individual snapped out 'No' as though my escort had insulted him. Leaving me seated there, my man friend went across the way, where he secured the change right readily, and when he came back we sat down to vanilla soda and lemon phosphate. When every drop was gone fifty cents was offered in payment, and I was just tickled to death when the cross old thing couldn't change that either. There we were in two drinks and the crabbed druggist had to see us depart without his pay. My friend wanted to go back and pay him later, but I told him if he did I would never speak to him again. Oh, it was just lovely," said the little vixen, as she showed her white teeth as they smacked together on a chocolate caramel and beamed in vicious glee over the memory of one poor man's discomfiture.—Philadelphia Times.

THE DALLES

Wasco County, - - - Oregon.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.
It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.
The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.
The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.
It is the richest city of its size on the coast, and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.
