JULY JINGLINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The Regulator will bring up the mail this evening, also the express.

J. O. Mack has set up a couple of very handsome billiard tables in his place.

Every day in town is kept busy these days, keeping the dock clear for the Regulator.

The O. R. & N. passengers will come by train today to the Cascade Locks, and from there by Regulator.

And still the wool comes pouring in. As soon as a move can be gotten on it, the coin of the realm will begin to be somewhat easier.

Mr. Batty yesterday brought a cub bear in from Wamic, and presented it to Sheriff Driver. Tom owned it about five minutes, until his boy caught on and now he owns it.

The flood left some dust in town, but it certainly made an improvement on Second street, covering the rocks with sediment and making the sides of the street passable.

Business in the land office is improving somewhat, and when the money begins to come in for the wheat crop, quite a number of final proofs will be made on the forfeited lands.

Goods shipped by the D. P. & A. N. recently were broken open at the portage much to the annoyance of the managers. Someone is going to get into trouble over such work and had better let up.

Ed. Patterson, Jim Fisher and another young gentleman, left for the seaside this morning. They took a tent and camping outfit, going in a small boat, which they will have hauled around the portage at the Locks, and so will make the entire trip in a private conveyance.

A big boiler is being brought down Union street today but as we gazed up the street and saw the heat radiating in wavy lines from the ground we came to the conclusion that we didn't want to know where it came from or where it was going to, badly enough to go and ask.

The lawn social to be given by the ladies of the Congregational church on the church grounds this evening gives promise of being a delightful affair. Indeed anything that the Dalles ladies undertake is always successful, and between beauty and lemonade, cake and cream, and the fact that we will probably be there ourselves it will undoubtedly be the affair of the season.

Sunday night a genuine tidal wave is reported as having swept across the river below the rapids. Sam Thurman's boat and a scow anchored near the bank were broken loose from their moorings. What caused it, or where it came from, no one can tell, but it was there all the same.

A fishing party up at St. Johns, Newfoundland, ran into an iceberg and twelve persons were drowned. Fishing parties in Eastern Oregon seem to have nothing to fear but "snakes," but as a rule plenty of "medicine" is kept in the camp larder and few fatalities occur. So much for Oregon.—Grant County News.

The Regulator brought up a large amount of freight last night, and among it a large supply of cans for Everding & Co. Yesterday a large force of men were kept busy until after 7 o'clock getting the wharf clear. Without the side wharf, put in yesterday, it would have been impossible to have accomplished it.

The pile driver, which has been in use on the Mill creek trestle, has been taken down and is in the street at the Umatilla house awaiting a scow, on which it will be sent to points below. The big pile driver, belonging to the wrecking outfit, is being used to complete the trestle over Mill creek, which it will do in a couple of days.

Mr. C. J. Crandall was at Hood River yesterday laying off the grounds for the foundation of the new public school-house to be built there this summer. The fact that Mr. Crandall drew the plans, and will superintend the construction is a guaranty that not only will the building be first class, but there will not be one amount for the contract, and twice that for extras.

The August number of McClure's Magazine will do for General Sherman what the May number did for General Grant. There will be an extremely interesting paper of personal recollections by Hon. S. H. M. Byers, a member of Sherman's staff and for twenty-five years his intimate friend, and a very interesting series of Sherman portraits.

We stated yesterday that the ball game between The Dalles and Dufur clubs Sunday resulted in a victory for Dufur by a score of 6 to 4. This score was handed us by one of The Dalles boys. Now comes a report from Dufur that the score was 16 to 8. We don't know which is correct, but it looks to us as though the country had not yet fully recovered from the prevarications washed to the surface during the flood.

And now the report is that the O. R. & N. will bring the Cyclone, the little steamer that has been running from Portland to Albina, over the rapids at the Cascades, or more likely around them. Freight will be handled from the Locks beginning today, the boat connecting with the railroad at that point. The Cyclone is not expected to handle this work, but will be used in towing and supplying the bridge men with timbers and material.

A Very Close Call.

Dr. Brosius met with an accident at Hood River yesterday that came near costing him his life. In company with his brother-in-law, Ed Williams, he was preparing to go fishing over at Chenoweth. He had hitched up his big black horse, and driven over to the blacksmith shop to have some trifling repairs made. In getting into the buggy the horse suddenly plunged forward, and striking a rock, the doctor was thrown out, one foot caught between the buggy bed and the running gear, and he fell on his back. The horse ran, fortunately in a circle, dragging the doctor over the rough ground. Mr. Will Yates, at considerable risk to himself, caught the horse just as he was starting over a vacant lot covered with big rocks, and the doctor was extricated from his perilous position. Had the horse not been caught just when he was, there could have been but one result.

Dr. Brosius was able to walk home, but was badly bruised and about as thoroughly skinned as if a Tacoma real estate shark had had hold of him. The doctor says something frightened his horse just as he slipped into the carriage, and blames himself for the accident more than the animal.

On Mt. Hood.

Doug. Langille was on the top of Mt. Hood last week, and put a long rope in place over the most difficult portion of the route. He reports the snow as being very soft, and says that unless the weather turns much cooler no lady Mazamaers can reach the summit. He also says the summit is a glare of ice, and every Mazama will be compelled to have his or her hoofs steel shod to stay there. A large number of candidates for the goat rank arrived at Hood River last night and went out to Cloud Cap Inn today. Tomorrow everything will be prepared for the ascent, which will be made Thursday morning. It is quite possible some red fire will be shown on the summit Thursday night. Look out for it.

An Everlasting Popper.

E. Jacobsen, either in malice or guile, gave us a sample of what is known as an everlasting fire-cracker, he having them for sale. The instrument is constructed of a hollow piece of wood, over which is a hinged rubber cap. By placing a piece of paper under the cap and striking it a smart blow, the paper goes burst with an exceedingly loud noise like unto a fire-cracker. The measly thing has made us short on copy every day since, for we can't help playing with it. Its only celebration possible under this administration that doesn't cost anything. You want to get yourself one.

Killed in Sacramento.

By private telegram we learn that there was another serious outbreak in Sacramento yesterday. We are unable to give full particulars, but gather from the brief dispatch that about 600 strikers tried to stop a train near the depot by exploding a charge of dynamite under it. The intention was to blow up the car in which the regulars were riding, but the explosion coming a trifle too quick, killed a lot of horses. The regulars opened fire and a number of strikers were wounded. The mob fled.

The Chronicle is prepared to do all kinds of job printing.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. W. H. Moore is in from Moro. Mr. Hugh Glenn returned from Portland yesterday.

Mr. I. N. Sargent leaves for the seaside tomorrow morning.

Mr. John Parker, one of Hood River's most progressive fruitgrowers, is in the city.

Miss Ina Coffin, who has been spending her vacation in this city, left for San Francisco today.

Mr. S. J. La France returned from Heppner last night and went down to Hood River this morning.

Hans Lage of Hood River was in the city Monday, having been to Goldendale to look after some land business.

Deputy Sheriff Phirman arrived home last night after safely turning Walter Rowe over to the penitentiary authorities.

Governor Moody and daughter, Edna, arrived from Salem last night, and will join the party going to Cloud Cap in a few days.

Mrs. Julius Wiley and Mrs. Henry Clarke have gone out to Bake Oven to visit their sister Mrs. Rooper. They expect to remain for three weeks or a month.

Mr. E. W. Trout arrived home from California yesterday. He went below about two weeks ago for the purpose of taking Mrs. Trout to his sister's to remain awhile, in hopes of benefiting her health. Mrs. Trout has been a constant sufferer from rheumatism for the past three years, but hopes are entertained that the change of climate will remove the trouble.

Combustibility of Celluloid.

A London (Eng.) paper reports the case of a lady, standing near a bright fire, who suddenly found herself enveloped in smoke. A gentleman who came to her rescue succeeded in crushing the ignited portion of her dress, not, however, without severely burning his hand. On investigation the fire was found to have originated from a spot where a large fancy button had been, but had disappeared. Similar buttons were subsequently examined, and were found to be highly inflammable, being made of celluloid.
