DOES THE PRESIDENT DICTATE?

In the course of considering the conference report in the house Thursday, Mr. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee, sent to the clerk's desk and had read a private letter from President Cleveland to himself, the latter's consent having been obtained to giving it publicity. As the letter is a remarkable document, and will hereafter be extensively commented upon, we print it in full.

THE FAMOUS LETTER.

"The certainty that a conference will be ordered between the houses of congress for the purpose of adjusting the differences on the subject of tariff legislation, makes it also certain that you will be called upon again to do hard service in the cause of tariff reform. My public life has been so closely related to the subject, I have so longed for its accomplishment, and I have so often promised its accomplishment to my fellow countrymen as a result of their trust and confidence in the democratic party, that I hope no excuse is necessary for my earnest appeal to you that, in this crisis, you strenuously insist upon party honesty and good faith, and a sturdy adherence to democratic principles. I believe these are absolutely necessary conditions to the continuation of democratic existence.

"I cannot rid myself of the feeling that this conference will present the best if not the only hope of true democracy. Indications point to its action as the reliance of those who desire the genuine fruition of democratic effort, the fulfillment of democratic pledges and the redemption of democratic promises to the people. To reconcile differences in the details, comprised within the fixed and well-defined lines of principle, will not be the sole task of the conference, but, as it seems to me, its members have in charge the question whether democratic principles themselves are to be saved or abandoned.

"There is no excuse for mistaking or misapprehending the feelings of the temper of the rank and file of democracy. They are downcast under the assertion that their party has failed in its ability to manage the government, and they are apprehensive that efforts to bring about tariff reform may fail, but they are much more downcast and apprehensive in their fears that democratic principles may be surrendered. Under these necessary circumstances, they do wisely to look with confidence to you and those who with you have patriotically and sincerely championed the cause of tariff reform within democratic lines and guided by those principles. This confidence is vastly augmented by the action, under your leadership, of the house of representatives upon the bill now pending.

"Every true democrat and every sincere tariff reformer knows that this bill, in its present form and as it will be submitted to the conference, falls far short of the consummation for which we have long labored; for which we have suffered defeat without discouragement; which, in its anticipation, gives us a rallying cry in our day of triumph and which, in its promise of accomplishment, is so interwoven with democratic pledges and democratic successes that our abandonment of the cause and of the principles upon which it rests means party perjury and party dishonor.

"One topic will be submitted to the conference which embodies democratic principles so that it cannot be compromised. We have in our platform and in every way possible declared in favor of the free importation of raw materials. We have again and again promised that this should be accorded to our people and our manufacturers if the democratic party was invested with the power to determine the tariff policy of the country. The party has now that power. We are as certain as we have ever been of the benefit that would accrue to the country from the inauguration of this policy, and nothing has occurred to release us from our obligation to secure this advantage to our people.

"It must be admitted no tariff measure can accord with democratic principles and promises or bear the genuine democratic badge that does not provide for free raw materials. In these circumstances it may well excite our wonder that democrats are willing to depart from this most democratic of all tariff principles and that the inconsistent absurdity of such a proposed depart should be emphasized by the suggestion that the wool of the farmer be put on the free list, and the protection of tariff taxation be placed around the iron ore and coal of the corporations and capitalists. How can we face the people after indulging in such outrageous discriminations and violations of principles? It is quite apparent this question of free raw material does not admit of adjustment on any middle grounds, since their subjection to any rate of tariff taxation, great or small, is alike a violation of democratic principle and democratic good faith. I hope you will not consider it intrusive if I say something in relation to another subject, which can hardly fail to be troublesome to the conference. I refer to the adjustment of tariff taxation on sugar. Under our party platform, and in accordance with our declared party purposes sugar is a legitimate and logical article of revenue taxation. Unfortunately, however, incidents have accompanied certain stages of the legislation which would be submitted to the conference that have aroused in connection with this subject, a national democratic animosity to the methods and manipulation of the trusts and combinations. I confess to sharing in this feeling, and yet it seems to me we ought, if possible, sufficiently to free ourselves from prejudice to enable us to coolly weigh the considerations which, in formulating tariff legislation, ought to guide our treatment of sugar as a taxable article. While no tenderness should be entertained for trusts, and while I am decidedly opposed to granting them, under guise of tariff taxation, any opportunity to further their particular methods, I suggest we ought not to be driven away from the democratic principle and policy which lead to the taxation of sugar, by the fear—quite likely exaggerated—that in carrying out this principle and policy we may indirectly and ordinarily encourage a combination of sugar-refining interests. I know in the present conditions this is a delicate subject, and I appreciate the depth and strength of the feeling which its treatment has aroused. I do not believe we should do evil that good may come, but it seems to me we should not forget our aim is the completion of the tariff, and in taxing sugar for proper purposes and within reasonable bounds, whatever else may be said of our action, we are in no danger of running counter to democratic principles. There must be in the treatment of this article the same ground upon which we are all willing to stand, where toleration and conciliation may be allowed to solve the problem without demanding the entire surrender of fixed conscientious convictions."

"I ought not to prolong this letter. If what I have written is unwelcome, I beg you to believe in my good intentions. In the conclusions of the conference touching the numerous items which will be considered, the people are not afraid that their interests will be neglected. They know that the general result, so far as they are concerned, will be to place home necessities and comforts more easily within reach and to insure better and surer compensation to those who toil. We know that a tariff law, covering all the interests and conditions of a country so vast as ours, must, of a necessity, be largely the result of honorable adjustment and compromise.

"I expect very few of us can say, when your measure is perfected, that all of its features are entirely as we would prefer. You know how much I deprecate the incorporation in the proposed bill of the income tax feature. In matters of this kind, however, which do not violate a fixed and recognized democratic doctrine, we are willing to defer the judgment of a majority of our democratic brethren. I think there is a general agreement that this party duty is more palpably apparent when we realize that the business of our country timidly stands and watches for the results of our efforts to perfect tariff legislation; that a quick and certain return of prosperity waits upon a wise adjustment, and that a confiding people still trust in our hands their prosperity and well being. The democracy of the land pleads most earnestly for the speedy completion of the tariff legislation, which their representatives have undertaken; but they demand no less earnestly that no stress of necessity shall tempt their trustees to the abandonment of democratic principles."

PERSONAL MENTION.

General H. B. Compson is registered at the Umatilla. Mr. James H. Fraser and wife of Moro are in the city. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Haworth of University Park, Portland, are visiting in the city. A number of Dalles people went to the Locks today, among them Mr. S. L. Brooks. Miss Hilda Beck left for Portland this morning, where she will spend the remainder of her vacation. Misses Ada and Levia Blackerby of Wapinitia, who have been visiting in Portland, returned last night. Hon. W. B. Presby, prosecuting attorney for Klickitat county, is in the city, and is accompanied by Mrs. Presby. Mr. Fred Young is in from Bake Oven to meet Mrs. A. E. Bills and Miss Leila Paulding of Portland, who will accompany him home. Misses Nellie and Pearl Butler returned on this morning's train from Kansas, accompanied by their friend, Miss Elma Foxwell, who will spend the summer with them. Mr. Wallace Wilson, the genial steward of the Umatilla house, is reasonably happy, his wife and little son, who are at present living in Portland, being on a visit to him here. S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

Dew is the greatest respecter of colors. To prove this take pieces of glass or boards and paint them red, yellow, green and black. Expose them at night, and you will find that the yellow will be covered with moisture, that the green will be damp, but that the red and black will be left perfectly dry.

A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemyer House, Middleburg, N. Y. on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many a bruise or sprain. This same remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
