

TWO KINDS OF WOMEN need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—those who want to be made strong, and those who want to be made well. It builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It's for young girls just entering womanhood; for women who have reached the critical "change of life"; for women expecting to become mothers; for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; for every woman who is run-down, delicate, or overworked.

For all the disorders, diseases, and weaknesses of women, "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, the money will be returned.

There's nothing likely to be "just as good."

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I give it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. D., Tamaroa, Ill. The skin of the cactus is air-tight, a marvelous provision of nature to enable these plants to live in a soil where moisture is scarce and under a sun that would speedily dry up.

Deafness Cannot be Cured By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Help Is Wanted. by the women who are ailing and suffering, or weak and exhausted. And, to every such woman, help is guaranteed by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For young girls just entering womanhood; women at the critical "change of life"; women approaching confinement; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, it is a medicine that builds up, strengthens, and regulates, no matter what the condition of the system.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nerve, and the only guaranteed remedy for "female complaints" and weaknesses. In bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

SOCIETY IN ENGLAND.

Circles That Are Not Open to Mere Men of Money.

Aristocratic Nobles Who Are Above Associating with Wealthy Americans Because of Their Financial Eminentness.

There is a marked difference between the main body of the Americans who annually invade London nowadays and those who used to be seen years ago. Time was when the traveling Americans did not care for society, preferring to do the sights as speedily as possible and hurry off to other show places. Now visitors from the land of the free consider themselves quite as much in the social swim as any lord or lady in the peerage, are "up" in all the ways and customs of society, and are regarded by London swelldom as representative Americans. In general these are the sight-seers of the past grown anglicized and their sons and daughters. I regard Mr. Astor as a fair sample of the new American in England, says a correspondent of the Argonaut. His money, of course, enables him to do anything he likes. He might stand on his head on the top of the duke of York's column or play leap frog down Pall Mall with Mr. Vanderbilt. It is doubtful, by the bye, if either of these performers would make him a case of more pitying smiles and compassionate shoulder-shrugs than his forced intrusion into London journalism or his ostentatious purchase of the duke of Westminster's Thames bank villa. He has too much money to let the people who find it pleasant to know him show what they really think of his desertion of his own country. And I rather suspect that he knows very few who are great enough in themselves to be indifferent to the money power he wields.

There is a class of noblemen among the English aristocracy who are above any and all outside influences altogether—men whom gold does not dazzle. I regard them as the highest type of nobility in every sense, and I consider the duke of Northumberland as a striking instance of the sort of man I mean. The duke of Rutland is another. The poorest, humblest American, were he a gentleman, might enter the society of these noblemen and be cordially received by them. But all the wealth of the Astors and Vanderbilts combined could not get recognition for its possessors from the same men, were there no other recommendation. And I am morally certain of one thing: Buying and hiring grand houses in England by foreigners for no rhyme or reason but the exhibition of a bit of vulgar swaggar, would not be in any sense a credential of respectability to them. Much the reverse, I should imagine. As for the duke of Westminster, he is a shrewd man of business, and, like all the Grosvenors, has as keen an eye to the main chance as a horse-dealer or a patent medicine drummer. Yet I cannot somehow think that any very lasting friendship has sprung up between his grace and the American purchaser of Clevedon. Indeed, the reported controversy concerning the right of property in the visitors' book would seem to negative the presumption of the existence of very amicable relations. I often wonder how men like Mr. Astor can wish to fill a fourth or fifth-rate position in England instead of the first place in America. He cannot at one moment rely on the fact that he is an American, and therefore the equal of any man, and at the next set up as an English country squire, or a London editor, and therefore several pegs below the dukes and other nobility. He must make his choice.

RAINFALL AND POPULATION.

The Growth of the Latter Depends on the Former.

The results of the last census have shown that the distribution of the population in the United States is regulated by the abundance or scarcity of rain. The largest part of the population is distributed in those regions where the annual rainfall varies from thirty to forty inches. These comprise three-fourths of the people. The density of population diminishes rapidly where the amount of rainfall differs considerably in either direction from these figures, which may be taken as of mean value.

Greatest density is found where forty to fifty inches of rain fall yearly, the number of inhabitants in such districts being fifty-nine per square mile. Where the rainfall is thirty to forty inches per annum the mean density of population is 43.1 per square mile.

The dry regions of the east, where less than twenty inches fall in a year, which includes two-fifths of the territory, contain actually less than three-hundredths of the people of the states.

The population has multiplied most rapidly, with a rainfall of twenty to thirty inches, in the great plains extending from Texas to Dakota, where the density has increased 16 to 18.1 per mile.

These figures show that, as might naturally be expected, in the variety of climatic conditions found in the great expanse of territory constituting the United States those most favorable to increase the number of inhabitants are a moderate temperature and a moderate annual rainfall.

Singers of the Plains. People who have read about the rough manners of cowboys will be surprised to know that they are habitual singers of hymns, and the strangest feature is that they sing the cattle to sleep. A herd of steers is as skittish as a flock of sheep, particularly at night. Anything or nothing will start a stampede, and when the cattle get running they are almost as difficult to check as a prairie fire. So a part of a cowboy's duty is to ride around and around the "bunch" of cattle, singing a hymn as melodiously as he can. Gradually the animals come to a halt, drop down one by one, until at length they are all asleep, and the tired singer can rest his throat.

THE DALLES

Wasco County, Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these other things she stands.
