These tiny, sugar-coated Pelletsthe smallest and the easiest to take —absolutely and permanently cure Constipation, Indigestion, Siek and Bilious Headaches, Dizziness, Bil-ious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels.

They cure permanently, because they act naturally. They don't shock and weaken the system, like the huge, old-fashioned pills. And they're more effective. One little Pellet for a corrective or laxative three for a cathartic.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

For a perfect and permanent cure of Catarrh, take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its proprietors offer $500 reward for an incurable case.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering flom infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I give it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and with its dinner in its mouth, intent Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent eize had been used, a amarked improvement was seen and its marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Desfness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect Learing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the nucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AN IMPLOSION.

A Process Exactly the Reverse of an Explosi

Every one knows what an explosion is, but its opposite, an implosion, is less familiar. At great depth in the sea the conditions are favorable for its production. At twenty-five hundred fathoms than the pressure exerted by the steam upon the piston of a powerful engine. A beautiful experiment to illustrate the enormous force of this deep sea ssure was made during the voyage of H. M. S. Challenger. We quote from "The Fauna of the Deep Sea." Mr. Buchanan hermetically sealed at both ends a thick glass tube several inches in length full of air. He wrapped this sealed tube in flannel and placed it in one of the wide copper cylinders, used to protect deep-sea thermometers when they are sent down with the sounding apparatus.

The copper cylinder had holes bored in it, so that the water had free access inside, around the glass.

The copper case containing the sealed glass tube was sent down to a depth of two thousand fathoms and drawn up again. It was found that the cylinder was bulged and bent inward, just as if it had been crumpled inward by being violently squeezed.

The glass tube itself, within its flannel wrapper, was reduced to a fine powder, almost like snow. The glass tube, it would seem, as it slowly descended held out long against the pressure, but at last suddenly gave way, and was crushed by the violence of the action to a fine powder.

This process exactly the reverse of an explosion, is termed by Sir Wyville Thomson an implosion.

Mr. Phil Robinson tells the story in his recent book, 'Some Country Sights and Sounds."

In moving a "den," into which a tiger had been just delivered, the bottom fell out and the rest of the structure immeweaned at four months old and being diately collapsed. The tiger walked out from under the heap of planks and iron bars, and suddenly appeared in the yard. Many people were looking on, the children, of course, being well to the front. On the appearance of the liger there was a stampede. The tiger picked up a fat urchin by his clothes, and walked out of the yard upon finding a convenient place in which to take its meal. Mr. Jamrach ran after the beast, flung himself upon

The urchin dropped out and scrambled off. The tiger, drawing at one tremendous draught a whole lungsful of air, turned upon Mr. Jamrach. Just then a man from the yard came run-ning up with a crowbar, and as the tiger turned, he struck it a tremendous thump on the head. For a moment the tiger was dazed, but only for a moment; then he prepared to spring again, but Mr. Jamrach seized the crowbar and struck the great beast another mighty

The beast, as if taking in the situation, trotted all by itself straight to the yard, and, finding the door of an empty den open, walked in.

A MUD DIAMOND.

The Funny Mistake Made by a Church

Congregation. "Every one knows that in the early days of Methodism a considerable degree of strictness was maintained in regard to the wearing of jewelry," said Rev. L. G. Cole, an elderly divine, recently, to a representative of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"An incident that amused me a great deal happened soon after I had entered the ministry. One Sunday just as I was in the midst of my sermon a woman rose and left the church, slamming the door as she went out with unneces sary violence. Of course I supposed I had said something in my sermon at which she had taken offense, but later I made inquiries and learned that she had left because I wore a 'wicked bosom pin.' The amusing part of it was that I had ridden to church over a very muddy road, and one drop of mud three doses each week. had settled in the middle of my shirt bosom and had deceived the good sister into believing that I had adorned myself with a bosom pin."

An American traveler relates that, alighting at a hotel in Granada, a man at the door put out his hand toward him. The traveler supposed that the man was the porter of the, hotel, and offered him his valise. The man stepped back, tossed his head, and frowned scornfully. The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon. Its situation is mesurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its posbilities incoleulable. Its resources unlimited. And on t tirner stones she stands
